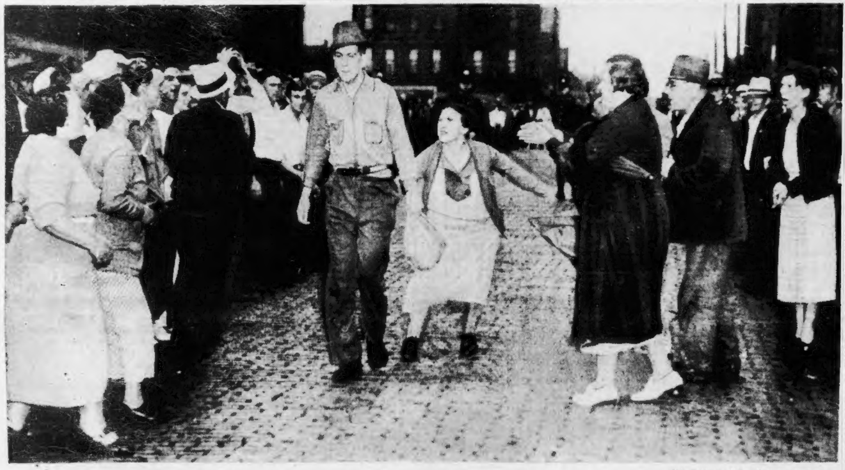
NEW CLUE TO BOSTON GIRLS' STRANGLER



International News Photograph Service

Boohs, jeers and insults such as these being directed at a non-striker on his way to work in Bethlehem Steel's Cambria plant at Johnstown, Pa., failed to halt reopening of the mills. More effective, today, was a dynamite blast which wrecked two pipelines supplying the big Cambria shop with water. Furnace fires had to be banked and loyal employes faced loss of their jobs. The worker in the picture was one of many who ran the picket line gauntlet.

BOMBS CLOSE CAMBRIA PLANTS

Johnstown, Pa., June 29 (AP) — Dynamite blasted the steel strike wide open today.

It sundered two vital pipelines that feed water to Bethlehem Steel's sprawling Cambria works here, threatening tremendous damage and menacing thousands of jobs.

At Warren, O., ricocheting from last week's "campaign of terror," it impaled the name of one of CIO's leaders, the brawny Gus Hall, on a warrant that paints him as the master mind and instigator of a desperate plot of violence, terrorism and destruction.

FURNACES BANKED

The two Johnstown explosions, ripping away pipelines supplying water to the big Franklin mill and the Gautier plant—major units of the Cambria works—may mean the closing of the entire works for two weeks, General Manager C. R. Ellicott said.

He immediately ordered five blast furnaces banked, and closed

Taft Heads Red Cross Roll Call

Edward A. Taft of Boston was today appointed chairman of the annual roll call of the American Red Cross to be conducted from November 11 to 25, according to an announcement by the Board of directors of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter.

In making the announcement, Chairman Joseph R. Hamlen said:

"We are most fortunate in securing for our roll call Chairman a man so well qualified for this most important task and under Mr. Taft's leadership there can be no doubt as to the success of the coming endeavors."

Attempt to Rescue Cat Proves Fatal

West Franklin, Me., June 29 (AP)—An attempt to rescue a cat while he was on his way to work brought death to Clyde Clark, 40, today.

Clark, noticing the cat marooned atop a derrick in a quarry, climbed the derrick. Reaching for the cat, he struck a high voltage wire and was killed instantly.

Police Shot Kills Boy in Auto Chase

UNO P. KOPPANA

Beverly Victim an Alleged Car Thief

Beverly, June 29—After a chase of six miles, Patrolman Raymond F. McNutt today shot and killed Uno P. Koppana, 20, of Morton street, Gloucester, an alleged auto thief.

Although he had a police record dating from 1929, Koppana had never served time. At the time of his death he was on probation for breaking and entering a garage and stealing a car.

The Beverly policeman fired only one shot at the youth. Both were on foot at the time, Koppana having abandoned the automobile in which he was fleeing from MacNutt, who had been in a radio car.

Police said the car, driven by Koppana, was stolen early today from Thurston's Garage, Gloucester. It was the property of Dr. Howard L. Quimby of 79 Middle street, Gloucester.

Cruising on the outskirts of Beverly, Patrolman MacNutt received a radio flash describing the car and giving its registration number.

An hour later he saw the car and he gave chase through Beverly into Beverly Farms. There, evidently believing he would soon

BULLETIN

San Jose, Cal., June 29 (INS)—Two men, one of whom was said by police to answer the description of the Inglewood kidnap-murderer, were arrested near here today while driving a battered old coupe and held for investigation.

Inglewood, Cal., June 29 (AP)—Search for a fiend who lured three small girls from a park, attacked and choked them to death, centered around fashionable Beverly Hills today, after a butler reported a frantic, blood-stained young man tried to sell him an automobile for $15.

The butler, in a home in Bel-Air, residential district adjoining Beverly Hills, said the youth appeared desperate when he rang the door bell last night.

"I've got to sell my car," the butler quoted him.

"I've got to sell it. "I'll take $15 and you can have it."

When the butler hesitated, the man added quickly:

"All right, I'll take $10."

CALLED POLICE

When the butler went into the house, ostensibly to get the money, he telephoned police and the stranger fled.

Several hours after the strangled and bruised bodies of Melba Marie Everett, 9, hir sister, Madeline Everett, 7, formerly of Dorchester, Mass., and Jeanette Marjorie Stephens, 8, were found in a Baldwin Hills ravine yesterday, an order was issued for the detention of Olbel LeRoy Strong, 22.

(The two Everett girls attended Dorchester schools a year ago. With their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merle O. Everett, they formerly lived in Everett avenue, Dorchester.)

SUSPECT CLEARED

From Sheriff L. C. Huntamer, of Olympia, Wash., however, came information that Strong was working at a tie mill near there and "has been absolved of any connection whatsoever with the killing of the three girls at Inglewood, Calif."

Sheriff Huntamer said he learned Strong had not been out of the vicinity of the mill for some time.

Meanwhile, the manhunt was relentlessly pressed by hundreds of

Leaps From Truck Afire in Tunnel

Trapped by flames, James Pero, 53, of Harrington court, East Boston, narrowly escaped injury today when he leaped from the cab of his truck which burst into flames while riding through Sumner tunnel near the East Boston end.

Traffic through the tunnel was tied up for more than 15 minutes while firemen extinguished the blaze, the cause of which was not immediately determined.

The truck is owned by J. F. Barry of Border street, East Boston.

Al Smith Seeks Forebears' Homes

Dublin, June 26 (AP)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York started out today to trace his Irish relatives, but he was not very sure of finding them.

"It is more than 100 years since my grandparents left Moate in County Westmeath, and I may find no more than the ruins of my old family home," he said.

ETHEL, FRANKLIN AT WEDDING REHEARSAL

Wilmington, Del., June 29—Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Jr., and Ethel duPont were scheduled to be present today in Little Christ Church for the final rehearsal of tomorrow's wedding ceremony.

Miss duPont and Roosevelt will not participate in the rehearsal. In deference to tradition, Miss duPont will not walk down the white satin-covered aisle of the church until tomorrow.

Before and after the rehearsal, set for 5 o'clock, the younger members of the duPont and Roosevelt clans crammed the couple's last betrothal day with parties, dashes about the countryside to meet trains, and joyous reunions with friends.

Guests were arriving by train and motor. A few went to Owl's Nest, spreading estate of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene duPont, about eight miles from Wilmington and roughly half that distance from Christ Church, where the wedding will be held at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

BOSTONIANS GUESTS

Other visitors were entertained at homes of other duPonts or those of family friends. A few stopped at hotels as guests of the bride's father.

Among those headed here for the ceremony are 30 Bostonians, including pretty, blond-haired Anne Clark of Gloucester street and Nahant, linked by gossip in a budding romance with Franklin's younger brother, John.

Miss Clark has been a frequent guest of young Roosevelt at the White House and recently attended

Sculptor Indicted as Slayer of 3; Termed 'Crazy'

New York, June 29 (INS)—A rush of witnesses, a 40-minute deliberation by the grand jury, and Robert Irwin was indicted today as the murderer of three in the Gedeon case.

A short time later, while he grimaced before curious court spectators, he heard his own lawyer say bluntly:

"This man is as crazy as a bedbug."

The indictments charged Irwin with strangulation of beautiful Veronica Gedeon and her mother, and the ice-pick murder of Frank Byrnes, boarder in the Gedeon home.

The indictments were followed immediately by District Attorney Dodge's statement that he will demand the electric chair for Irwin, although alienists for the state have not yet submitted their reports as to the sculptor's sanity.

Hitler Bans War, Watson Declares

Berlin, June 29 (AP)—Thomas J. Watson, president-elect of the International Chamber of Commerce, said today Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler had assured him that "there won't be any war."

Watson after a chat with the German Chancellor, quoted hi as saying:

"There will be no war, no country wants war, no country can aford it. Certainly that is true of Germany.

WHITE FUND REPAIRS LACKED WRITTEN O.K.

George R. Farnum, special Finance Commission counsel, showed today that the Codman Hill Construction Company in an 18 months period did $50,000 of general repair work for the George Robert White Fund, more than half of it without written orders.

Farnum brought out that in spite of the lack of written orders to vouch for the bills which the company submitted, Mayor Mansfield as chairman of the White Fund trustees, approved the bills.

City Auditor Charles J. Fox, who was on the witness stand at the finance commission investigation of the construction company, said he supposed the mayor satisfied himself the bills were proper by conferring with Major Roswell G. Hall.

Major Hall is city superintendent of public buildings and manager of real estate for the White Fund.

BITTER CLASHES

Bitter wrangling among members of the Finance Commission marked today's session of the investigation in the City Council chamber. E. Mark Sullivan, former chairman, and Joseph A. Scolponetti engaged in verbal clashes with Chairman David Lasker over Farnum's questioning of Fox.

The chairman wanted to curb Farnum to some extent, while the others wanted the special counsel to go as far as he wished. Peace eventually prevailed with little, if any, limitation on Farnum's method of procedure.

Questioning City Auditor Fox, Farnum first put it into the record that in a year and half approximately $50,000 in general repair bills have passed through his department for work done for the White Fund by the Codman Hill Construction Company.

Farnum then took up the Codman Hill bills to the White Fund for each month, starting with January, 1936. Up through September these totaled $26,397.

WARNED OF "BYPLAY"

Mayor Mansfield approved the monthly amounts except in two cases, once when Fitzgerald signed and once when the signature of approval was missing altogether. Fox admitted this was a slip.

"The mayor was in Europe."

Dorothy Fosdick in Harbor Rescue

Southport, Me., June 29 (AP)—Miss Dorothy Fosdick, 24-year-old daughter of the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick of New York, rescued a Southport Harbor lobsterman from his burning boat today as he was about to abandon the craft.

The lobsterman, Maynard Robinson, 50, suffered burns on his hands as he fought the flames. The blaze started when a can of gasoline was ignited.

Miss Fosdick, who was cruising in the vicinity in her power boat Vagabond, hauled Robinson into her boat. The Fosdick family is summering at Mouse Island, off Boothbay Harbor.

Bennett, Ford's Aid, in Car Crash

Ypsilanti, Mich., June 29 (INS)—Harry Bennett, personnel director of the Ford Motor Company, was injured in an automobile accident here today. He was taken to University Hospital, Ann Arbor.

Bennett's office in Detroit later announced he had suffered only a few scratches.

2 G-Man Killers Sentenced to Die

Topeka, Kan., June 29 (AP)—Death sentences were pronounced today upon Robert J. Suhay and Glen J. Applegate, convicted murderers of Federal Agent Wimberly W. Baker. Federal Judge Richard J. Hopkins denied their motion for a new trial and set the execution for October 1.

Crazed Slayer Of Three Girls Hunted in West

state, county and city peace officers.

The Washington disclosures followed an announcement by officials in San Diego that a man had been captured at nearby Del Mar after fleeing from a train. Deputy Sheriff Jack Cornell at first said he answered the description of Strong. This identification was quickly discarded and the man was held on a vagrancy charge.

Another suspect, Otto R. Rasmussen, 23-year-old longshoreman, was questioned after his arrest at Los Angeles on charges of attacking Miss Carol A. Sims, 20.

"KILLED THREE OTHERS"

District Attorney Buron Fitts quoted Miss Sims as saying Rasmussen told her he had "killed three people already." Rasmussen denied the statement. The alleged attack on Miss Sims occurred Sunday night.

Last Saturday morning they were playing in Centinela Park, closed by their homes.

Then they left some of their playthings and ran across the grounds calling out they were going "to hunt rabbits."

By night, County Autopsy Surgeon Dr. A. F. Wagner reported they had been attacked and murdered.

Several suspects were quizzed and released last night.

The bodies of Melba Everett and Marjorie Stephens, the older girls, were bruised and torn. That of Madeline showed but few bruises and scratches.

ANGRY MOB FORMS

As word of the discovery spread and two suspects were questioned, an angry crowd formed and threats of lynching were heard. A second mob gathered last night.

Mrs. Everett collapsed and was placed in care of a physician when she learned of the deaths.

"This is terrible," said Everett. "They have taken two of our five children—our little babies. No! No! I don't believe it."

"We came here three months ago from Boston," he said. "We wanted to bring our children up in the open and sunshine of California. We moved near the park so they would have a place to play. We never dreamed this would mean the death of our little girls."

PLEA BY GOVERNOR

From Sacramento, Governor Frank Merriam called upon all law officers and citizens to aid "in the apprehension of this killer."

Olive Everett, 11, sister of two of the slain girls, identified a photograph of Strong, selecting it from others, Campbell said.

"That's the man who came up to us in the park Friday and asked us to go hunt rabbits with him," she said.

They had refused then.

Olive said the man told her that if she would get some rope, he would show her some tricks.

"I got the rope for him at the hardware store," Olive told police.

STRANGLED WITH ROPE

Captain of Detectives Ed Muir said he was convinced that Olive's two sisters were strangled with the rope she unwittingly provided.

Kenny Anderson, seven, told Campbell this same man had asked him Saturday morning to hunt rabbits with him.

"He showed me how to tie a lot of knots in a piece of rope," said Kenny.

The girls' bodies, a rope knotted about the throat of each, were found a short distance apart in the sandy bottom of the ravine.

Their shoes had been placed in a neat row close by.

CHILD VICTIMS OF "MAD" SLAYER

MADELINE EVERETT MELBA EVERETT

Mills Face 2-Week Closing as Water Lines Are Bombed

15 open hearths and the Franklin rolling mill. Water was temporarily turned into the company's lines from the Johnstown system.

The first explosion about midnight broke the six-foot line running from the ten billion-gallon Quemahoning dam, 11 miles south of Johnstown, to the Franklin mill which consumes half of the water used by the Cambria works.

ALL ROADS CLOSED

The second blast at 4:05 a. m. (EST) was heard for more than two miles. It snapped the 36-inch line from Border dam to the Gautier mill, second largest division of the works.

Captain William A. Clark, in command of the state police, immediately called to duty all of the 200 troopers stationed in the strike zone and ordered the closing of virtually every road in the Somerset-Cambria County area.

The blasts paralyzed production at the works and threw 6000 men out of work indefinitely, company officials announced.

Sidney Evans, industrial relations representative of the company, said 90 per cent of the normal 15,000 payroll of the strike-beset, Cambria Works had returned to their jobs by yesterday.

3 DAYS TO 2 WEEKS

Unofficial estimates placed the time required for repairing the damage at between three days and two weeks, but Evans said it was impossible for the company to state definitely how long the men would be out of work.

A survey of the damage is being made and plans are being rushed for the repairs so that operations can be resumed as soon as possible.

At Harrisburg, Governor George H. Earle ordered Major Lynn G. Adams to investigate the dynamiting and "find the perpetrator."

Adams said he warned the company recently that the open line was "vulnerable" and advised watchmen be placed around it.

"Apparently the company did not follow my advice," Adams told the governor.

Hugh Rebers, attendant at the border dam pumping station about two miles from the Quemahoning dam, heard the first explosion and a short time later noticed a rapid drop in water pressure.

He hurried out along the line and found rushing water blocking the half-mile long tunnel under Carpenter Park, a small community between his station and the dam.

The telephone line failed and Rogers sped to Johnstown in an automobile to notify Bethlehem executives. Trucks loaded with repair material were rushed out.

Thus on both the Pennsylvania and Ohio fronts, quiet for days, every force of law was flung suddenly into a hunt for men wanted for the worst terrorism of the 34-day strike.

HALL ACCUSED

A warrant was issued in Warren charging Hall, director of the CIO strike on the Warren-Niles front, with having plotted the dynamiting of bridges, the blasting of railroad tracks, the bombing of steel mills and the light and power company, and the destruction by high explosives of the homes of non-strikers.

The warrant, police said, was backed by confessions of three of Hall's fellow unionists.

The Warren police, with three alleged terrorists already in jail, announced the hunt for Hall even as the back-to-work movement picked up momentum not only in the Mahoning valley but in Pennsylvania and in the Calumet industrial area of Indiana and Illinois.

Strike attention, which had turned yesterday to the efforts of Indiana's Governor Townsend to find a peace panacea for the East Chicago steel strike front—where back-to-work agitation has instilled fear of trouble—swung sharply back to Ohio as details of the alleged terror plot became known.

FIRST TO BE NAMED

Even the sharp criticism that two Congressmen voiced on the floor of the House yesterday against the President's and Secretary of Labor Perkins' steel strike policy was overshadowed; for in all the oratorical blasting that has marked the 34 days of strike, this is the first time that a strike leader has been named on serious charges.

Warren's Chief of Police B. J. Gillen, in announcing that Hall was being hunted, said that police and national guardsmen, working together, had "smashed the dynamite ring" and that the three men under arrest had confessed.

The prisoners are Arthur Scott, John Borawelc and George Bundas. All live in Warren. All were identified as CIO strikers.

Chief Gillen signed the charges against them, against Hall and against two others not yet apprehended—Joe (Slim) Orawiec and Charles Byers.

Judge R. R. Speak of municipal court fixed bail at $25,000 for the three now under arrest.

WIDE HUNT FOR HALL

Guardsmen as well as county and city officers searched today for Hall, Orawiec and Byers. Hall, police said, has not been seen for more than 24 hours.

The statement by Scott, a white-haired man of 40, said that Hall, who is head of the local strike executive committee had issued orders:

1—To blow up the homes of non-striking workers.

2—To set off bombs on the property of Republic Steel Corporation, the light and power company, the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania railroads, a bridge at the Trumbull Cliffs Furnaces (Republic owned), and

3—To set fire to hundreds of gallons of highly volatile benzol stored near Republic's plant.

Warren City Solicitor George Buchwalter said that the statements by the other two prisoners Bundas and Borawelc, corroborated what Scott said.

Officers reported they found three quarts of nitro-glycerine, all that remained, they said, out of two and one-half gallons which Borawelc and Bundas got in Oil City, Pa., June 18.

One quart was found near the Pennsylvania railroad tracks where slight damage from a bomb occurred last Thursday. That bombing, according to police information, was done by "two men imported from Cleveland."

The police said "enough explosive to wreck the entire block" was stored in a milk can on the second floor of CIO headquarters here for five days before the first explosions last Wednesday night.

Stored there, too, the confessions said, were a machine gun and other weapons.

The milk can full of explosive was taken finally to Borawelc's house where, according to the confessions, the nitroglycerine was put into eight-ounce bottles, fused, capped and taped into time bombs.

The plot to blow up the bridge which leads to the Trumbull Cliffs furnaces was thwarted when a national guard patrol car chased the machine in which the bombers, with several bottles of nitroglycerine ready capped and taped, were riding.

In an effort to get rid of the bombs they tried to throw them into the river. The bombs exploded, damaging the bridge slightly and also the automobile.

The statements say that Hall, a blond, husky Scandinavian about 30 years old, talked the dynamiting plans over with Scott in detail.

Hall put up the money, they said, to get the explosive. The amount was $5.

The dynamite plot disclosure in Warren and the blasts that shook the Johnstown sector broke a semi-calm that had marked a week-end of mediation failure, oratory and back-to-work movements.

Fresh tragedy was written at Beaver Falls when George Mike, 45, of Aliquippa, Pa., died of a fractured skull, received yesterday in a clash between pickets and deputy sheriffs at the Moltrup Steel Products Company plant there.

He was struck by a tear gas cartridge as the deputies attempted to disperse 40 pickets who had halted 12 non-strikers returning to work at the plant.

Accurate figures as to the number of workers who have gone back to the mills continue difficult to obtain, for the statements from the companies and from the union are widely divergent.

ONE-THIRD BACK

A recapitulation today indicated broadly that approximately one-third of the number normally employed have returned to their jobs.

This was predicated on some company figures; reports by national guard sources in Ohio—which the union does not accept, claiming them to be company figures—and upon CIO figures in some instances, as well as upon the observation of disinterested observers at places, such as Johnstown, where reporters were permitted to go into the plants and observe the operations.

Of a normally-employed 97,180 persons, top estimates were that 38,240 are working; lowest estimates say 16,858.

In Ohio there was no indication of early withdrawal of state troops. Half of the state's militia of 10,000 soldiers are now on duty defending "the right to work—the right to strike" as enunciated by Governor Davey.

PARLEY IN COLLAPSE

Efforts of the President's three-man mediation board appeared definitely to have collapsed. Edward F. McGrady, one of the mediators, was back in Washington to report to his chief, Secretary Perkins.

Inland Steel and Youngstown Steel & Tube have agreed to postpone their opening at least until tomorrow.

At Chicago, the National Labor Relations Board continued to hear charges against Inland Steel. CIO cited the company for refusal to bargain for a contract with it.

50 More Barbers Sign Union Scale

Fifty more barber shop proprietors in Greater Boston today signed agreements with the barbers' union to charge 50 cents for haircuts and 25 cents for shaves. This brought the total number who have signed up since the walkout to 150.

In addition, proprietors of 100 additional shops telephoned to barbers' union headquarters, 113 Dudley street, Roxbury, that they are willing to sign, according to Charles E. O'Donnell, union business agent. They were told to come to union headquarters to place their signatures on agreements.

Those who have already signed operate one and two-men shops, but none of them will be permitted to operate with union men until the 100 proprietors who are holding out have signed, according to O'Donnell.

The union business agent said that an effort will be made to call out union men in downtown Boston late today or tomorrow to make the walkout more effective.

"GIRL WHO NEVER HAD A CHANCE"

International News Photograph Service

Boston Gungirl, Who Fled Prison With 3, Hunted

JAILED AFTER TOY-PISTOL HOLDUPS

Through woods and hill near Bedford, N. Y., police combed today in a search for Boston-born Norma Parker (the former Nellie Gutowski), Broadway gungirl, and three other girls who fled Westfield Reformatory for Women in that state last night.

The flight from the institution to which Norma was sentenced little more than three months ago after a series of toy-pistol holdups and a chorus girl stabbing, took place shortly after the supper hour.

Black-haired, black-eyed Norma, described by the sentencing judge as "a girl who never had a chance," led her three girl companions over an eight-foot fence, topped with barbed wire.

Reformatory officials said the evening checkup revealed that in addition to Norma the girls missing were Jessie Smith, Sylvia Fox and Anna Somper.

The 20-year-old girl, known to holdup victims as "the woman in black," was sent to the reformatory instead of in State Prison by General Sessions Judge Owen W. Bohan, who imposed an indeterminate term.

"Norma Parker, your case has given me considerable concern," said Judge Bohan in imposing sentence. "You have a background of abandonment and neglect."

It had been brought out that she was born Nellie Gutowski in Boston, that the mother deserted the family when Nellie was a baby and that she had been brought up as the only girl in a group of eight men, including five uncles and a grandfather.

YOUTH KILLED BY POLICE SHOT

be overtaken, the youth stopped the car and leaped out, taking to flight through an alley.

MacNutt, following on foot, commanded him to stop and when he kept on running, the policeman fired. Koppana dropped to the ground. MacNutt had him removed to Beverly Hospital. He was pronounced dead on arrival.

LONG POLICE RECORD

According to police records, Koppana was last arrested in November, 1935, for breaking into the garage of Harold Burnham of Beacon street, Gloucester, and taking an automobile. On January 2, 1936, he was sentenced to two years in Concord Reformatory but the sentence was suspended and he was released on two years' probation.

Back in July, 1929, he was in Gloucester court on two counts of breaking and entering and larceny. The case was filed. A charge of throwing glass and crockery in the highway was placed against him February 2, 1932, and this also was filed.

In December, 1932, he was charged with disturbing a public assembly and was sentenced to an industrial school, but this sentence was suspended and he was released on probation. Koppana was a widower and father of a small child.

CODMAN REPAIR WORK CITED

said Commissioner Scolponeti. "He should have been here tending to business."

"Cut out the byplay," said Chairman Lasker.

"It's not byplay, it's the truth," retorted Scolponeti.

The bills showed that one repair job done for the White Fund by the Codman Hill concern in June, 1936, cost the fund $4283, a single job in July cost $4513 and one in September, $2392. With other work done on these three months, the total bill each month was more than $5000.

NEVER DISCUSSED TERMS

Fox testified that in no case did the mayor discuss the items with him before giving his approval to the payment of the bills.

"I can't see why he should discuss them with me," said Fox.

In reply to other queries, revolving chiefly around an item of $1737, the city auditor explained as follows:

"I assume the mayor sent for Major Hall and asked him about the invoices. Knowing the mayor as I do, I feel he must have sent for Major Hall. I felt the mayor would question an amount of that size and would want to be given a reason for the work."

City Auditor Fox said he held up the September bill himself and called it to the attention of the White Fund trustees, of which he is one. The trustees voted to approve it.

Solon Sees Chaos if Lewis Gains Power Control

Providence, R. I., June 29 (AP)—U. S. Representative Clare E. Hoffman (R.-Mich.) today declared whoever controlled the switches in the power business in the United States controlled American industry.

This control, Hoffman said, John L. Lewis, Committee or Industrial Organization leader, had boasted he would obtain, an dwith it, Hoffman continued, chaos could be inflicted on the country in 24 hours.

Speaking before the Providence Rotary Club under auspices of the Constitutional Educational League, Hoffman said that in the Bay City-Saginaaw-Flint section of Michigan, the CIO shut off the power supply in an effort "to bring industry to heel," creating panic among 200,000 people. He suggested ederal and state governments make it a felony to interrupt power and light service.

U. S. MAKES NEW STEEL STUDY

Washington, June 29 (AP)—Secretary Perkins said today the government's efforts to mediate the steel strike had collapsed. She added, howevr, she was studying the industrial dispute to determine if further mediatory steps are possible.

Miss Perkins made her statement after a conference with Charles P. Taft, chairman of the Federal steel mediation board. Taft began drafting a preliminary report today.

$2,000,000 Maine Verdict Is Upheld

Portland, Me., June 29 (AP)—A new trial in protest of a $2,000,000 verdict which a federal court jury awarded April 30 to the Jenkins Petroleum Process Company of Milwaukee against the Sinclair Refining Company of Maine was denied today by Federal Judge John A. Peters.

Sweethearts of 2 Nations

LOVE RULES—AND HERE'S PROOF—

Franklin and Ethel Wed Tomorrow

Edward and Wally Pose For Camera

International News Photograph Service

All the world will take a friendly interest tomorrow in the wedding of these best known sweethearts of the United States. Posing together in the garden of the bride's home in Greenville, Del., Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the president, and his fiancee, Miss Ethel duPont, prove themselves no longer camera-shy. That's just as well, because the ace picture-shooters of America will be on their trail before and after tomorrow's ceremony.

Don't let your romantic illusions be shattered by those hastily made news snapshots which show the new Duchess of Windsor and her ex-king husband looking as haggard and unprepossessing as most of us do in passport pictures. More fair to the newlyweds whose love story thrilled the world are these recent portraits, not retouched but made with proper lighting and more carefully timed exposures. The former Wallis Warfield is wearing a black velvet gown which splendidly sets off her attractive figure and clear skin. The Duke of Windsor, garbed in the simple business attire of which he is most fond, appears very much the clean-cut young "Empire salesman" he used to be before the weight of a crown settled on his brow. These pictures were made exclusively for Harper's Bazar, which permitted their distribution by International News Photograph Service.

ROOSEVELT-DUPONT WEDDING TOMORROW

the Yale-Harvard boat races with him.

GUESTS ON HAND

Bosom companion of the bride-to-be, Mrs. Alfred Bowditch Hallowell, is already in Wilmington, where she will be one of the bridesmaids. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence W. Morgan, Jr., of Dedham, her sister, Leslie, and brother, Laurence W., Jr., are also to be among the guests, as is her husband.

Other Bostonians include John Lyman, an usher, and his mother, Mrs. Ronald T. Lyman; Priscilla Weld of Brookline, Miss Margaret Hallowell and Mrs. John Cutter, former wife of Graci Hall Roosevelt, brother of Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, and her three children, Henry P., Daniel S. and Eleanor Roosevelt.

PARTIES INFORMAL

Much of today's partying was informal, but a luncheon was scheduled for the young couple and at least two parties were on this evening's program. Chief of these was a dinner to be given by Roosevelt and Miss duPont for the bridesmaids and ushers.

The traditional Harvard Fly Club party, for a member about to be married, was scheduled for later in the evening at Owl's Nest. It is to be a strictly stag affair.

There had been discussion of holding the party Wednesday, so President Roosevelt, a member of the club, might attend, but later reports fixed tonight as the time.

Richer by 50 cents is 71-year-old Justice of the Peace Frank E. Haley, former du Pont employe, after issuing his third marriage license since last December.

Quietly the young couple appeared in Justice Haley's office, quickly filled out the necessary papers and departed with a brand new marriage license.

PRESIDENT IN BACKGROUND

Determined to remain in the background and let the full glare of the spotlight shine unreflected on the bridal couple, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt announced they would make their headquarters on the train.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt will leave the train and journey by "a back road" to the du Pont estate shortly before the ceremony, to attend a quiet family luncheon.

Mrs. Farnell Loses Separation Suit

Providence, June 29—Judge Alberic A. Archambeault, in domestic relations court today, dismissed the petition of Mrs. Jessie W. Farnell for a legal separation from Dr. Frederick J. Farnell, psychiatrist and one of the expert witnesses in the Millen trial at Dedham, Mass.

In dismissing the wife's petition, Judge Archambeault stated he did not consider that she had furnished sufficient evidence to justify a legal separation.

In her petition, Mrs. Farnell charged that Dr. Farnell had associated for many years with Eva Edgett, a Rhode Island Hospital graduate nurse, and that once he awoke in the night and addressed Mrs. Farnell as "Eva" as he put his arms around her.

According to Mrs. Farnell, she asked who Eva was and he replied:

"She's the dearest, sweetest girl I know."

Dr. Farnell was formerly head of the Rhode Island state public welfare commission.

Convict Given Suspended Term

Edward C. Joyce of Springfield, serving a sentence of five years in state prison at Charlestown, was given a suspended sentence of one year and a day and probation for that period in federal court today after he pleaded guilty to transporting motor vehicles in interstate commerce.

Assistant U. S. Atty. Frank W. Tomasello recommended lighter sentence, with the understanding Joyce will begin his federal probation on his release from Charlestown.

McNeil Loses Fight For Peabody Berth

By a ruling of the Supreme Court Charles H. McNeil of Peabody today lost his fight for reinstatement as assistant city engineer of Peabody.

McNeil had sought a writ of mandamas compelling the mayor and city council to reinstate him. He was appointed in 1926 and laid off in 1935 when the city adopted an ordinance establishing a public works department. McNeil claimed his discharge was illegal since he was under civil service.

New Scarlet Fever Toxin Discovered

Washington, June 29 (AP)—A new kind of scarlet fever toxin gives better protection against the disease, a National Institute of Health scientist announced today.

Previous toxins often have produced disagreeable reactions, including violent skin rashes, said Dr. M. V. Veldee, who developed the new preparation. He removed by chemical processes the parts of the toxin which produced these reactions.

Husband Must Pay 'Confessing' Wife

Auburn, Me., June 29—Even if a wife did write a "confession" story for a magazine, telling that her youngest child was born out of wedlock, the legal husband must support the baby, it was ruled in court here today.

Antonio Beauchesnes, $16-a-week factory woker and father of three, told of the "confession" story in objecting to an order to pay $6 a week to his wife, Doralda, for the children's support.

"Whether it were so or not," ruled the court, "it makes no difference. The order stands."

Loses Finger Landing Big Fish—'Worth It'

Miami, Fla., June 29 (AP)—Gilbert Easton, 64-year-old South Orange, N. J., manufacturer, had only a stub today on his right hand where the middle finger grew yesterday, but he was happy about it.

"It was worth two fingers to catch a fish like that," he declared.

The fish was a 608-pound blue marlin, believed to be the second largest catch on record.

Easton hooked the marlin yesterday from his yacht Jay 2nd off Bimini in the Bahamas. After battling nearly an hour he brought it alongside the boat. The giant fish gave a desperate last lunge and a coil of the leader wire snapped taut over Easton's middle finger, severing it instantly.

Believing he had a record catch, Easton refused the aid which would have barred him from claiming a record, and in nine minutes more brought the fish to gaff. His prize, however, was short of the 636-pound mark of Thomas Shelvin of New York.

Easton was flown back to Miami. The finger had been severed in the middle section, and was amputated back to the joint.

state, county and city peace officers.

The Washington disclosures followed an announcement by officials in San Diego that a man had been captured at nearby Del Mar after fleeing from a train. Deputy Sheriff Jack Cornell at first said he answered the description of Strong. This identification was quickly discarded and the man was held on a vagrancy charge.

Another suspect, Otto R. Rasmussen, 23-year-old longshoreman, was questioned after his arrest at Los Angeles on charges of attacking Miss Carol A. Sims, 20.

"KILLED THREE OTHERS"

District Attorney Buron Fitts quoted Miss Sims as saying Rasmussen told her he had "killed three people already." Rasmussen denied the statement. The alleged attack on Miss Sims occurred Sunday night.

Last Saturday morning they were playing in Centinela Park, closed by their homes.

Then they left some of their playthings and ran across the grounds calling out they were going "to hunt rabbits."

By night, County Autopsy Surgeon Dr. A. F. Wagner reported they had been attacked and murdered.

Several suspects were quizzed and released last night.

The bodies of Melba Everett and Marjorie Stephens, the older girls, were bruised and torn. That of Madeline showed but few bruises and scratches.

ANGRY MOB FORMS

As word of the discovery spread and two suspects were questioned, an angry crowd formed and threats of lynching were heard. A second mob gathered last night.

Mrs. Everett collapsed and was placed in care of a physician when she learned of the deaths.

"This is terrible," said Everett. "They have taken two of our five children—our little babies. No! No! I don't believe it."

"We came here three months ago from Boston," he said. "We wanted to bring our children up in the open and sunshine of California. We moved near the park so they would have a place to play. We never dreamed this would mean the death of our little girls."

PLEA BY GOVERNOR

From Sacramento, Governor Frank Merriam called upon all law officers and citizens to aid "in the apprehension of this killer."

Olive Everett, 11, sister of two of the slain girls, identified a photograph of Strong, selecting it from others, Campbell said.

"That's the man who came up to us in the park Friday and asked us to go hunt rabbits with him," she said.

They had refused then.

Olive said the man told her that if she would get some rope, he would show her some tricks.

"I got the rope for him at the hardware store," Olive told police.

STRANGLED WITH ROPE

Captain of Detectives Ed Muir said he was convinced that Olive's two sisters were strangled with the rope she unwittingly provided.

Kenny Anderson, seven, told Campbell this same man had asked him Saturday morning to hunt rabbits with him.

"He showed me how to tie a lot of knots in a piece of rope," said Kenny.

The girls' bodies, a rope knotted about the throat of each, were found a short distance apart in the sandy bottom of the ravine.

Their shoes had been placed in a neat row close by.

CHILD VICTIMS OF "MAD" SLAYER

MADELINE EVERETT

MELBA EVERETT

15 open hearths and the Franklin rolling mill. Water was temporarily turned into the company's lines from the Johnstown system.

The first explosion about midnight broke the six-foot line running from the ten billion-gallon Quemahoning dam, 11 miles south of Johnstown, to the Franklin mill which consumes half of the water used by the Cambria works.

ALL ROADS CLOSED

The second blast at 4:05 a. m. (EST) was heard for more than two miles. It snapped the 36-inch line from Border dam to the Gautier mill, second largest division of the works.

Captain William A. Clark, in command of the state police, immediately called to duty all of the 200 troopers stationed in the strike zone and ordered the closing of virtually every road in the Somerset-Cambria County area.

The blasts paralyzed production at the works and threw 6000 men out of work indefinitely, company officials announced.

Sidney Evans, industrial relations representative of the company, said 90 per cent of the normal 15,000 payroll of the strike-beset, Cambria Works had returned to their jobs by yesterday.

3 DAYS TO 2 WEEKS

Unofficial estimates placed the time required for repairing the damage at between three days and two weeks, but Evans said it was impossible for the company to state definitely how long the men would be out of work.

A survey of the damage is being made and plans are being rushed for the repairs so that operations can be resumed as soon as possible.

At Harrisburg, Governor George H. Earle ordered Major Lynn G. Adams to investigate the dynamiting and "find the perpetrator."

Adams said he warned the company recently that the open line was "vulnerable" and advised watchmen be placed around it.

"Apparently the company did not follow my advice," Adams told the governor.

Hugh Rebers, attendant at the border dam pumping station about two miles from the Quemahoning dam, heard the first explosion and a short time later noticed a rapid drop in water pressure.

He hurried out along the line and found rushing water blocking the half-mile long tunnel under Carpenter Park, a small community between his station and the dam.

The telephone line failed and Rogers sped to Johnstown in an automobile to notify Bethlehem executives. Trucks loaded with repair material were rushed out.

Thus on both the Pennsylvania and Ohio fronts, quiet for days, every force of law was flung suddenly into a hunt for men wanted for the worst terrorism of the 34-day strike.

HALL ACCUSED

A warrant was issued in Warren charging Hall, director of the CIO strike on the Warren-Niles front, with having plotted the dynamiting of bridges, the blasting of railroad tracks, the bombing of steel mills and the light and power company, and the destruction by high explosives of the homes of non-strikers.

The warrant, police said, was backed by confessions of three of Hall's fellow unionists.

The Warren police, with three alleged terrorists already in jail, announced the hunt for Hall even as the back-to-work movement, picked up momentum not only in the Mahoning valley but in Pennsylvania and in the Calumet industrial area of Indiana and Illinois.

Strike attention, which had turned yesterday to the efforts of Indiana's Governor Townsend to find a peace panacea for the East Chicago steel strike front—where back-to-work agitation has instilled fear of trouble—swung sharply back to Ohio as details of the alleged terror plot became known.

FIRST TO BE NAMED

Even the sharp criticism that two Congressmen voiced on the floor of the House yesterday against the President's and Secretary of Labor Perkins' steel strike policy was overshadowed; for in all the oratorical blasting that has marked the 34 days of strike, this is the first time that a strike leader has been named on serious charges.

Warren's Chief of Police E. J. Gillen, in announcing that Hall was being hunted, said that police and national guardsmen, working together, had "smashed the dynamite ring" and that the three men under arrest had confessed.

The prisoners are Arthur Scott, John Boraweic and George Bundas. All live in Warren. All were identified as CIO strikers.

Chief Gillen signed the charges against them, against Hall and against two others not yet apprehended—Joe (Slim) Orawiec and Charles Byers.

Judge R. R. Speak of municipal court fixed bail at $25,000 for the three now under arrest.

WIDE HUNT FOR HALL

Guardsmen as well as county and city officers searched today for Hall, Orawiec and Byers. Hall, police said, has not been seen for more than 24 hours.

The statement by Scott, a white-haired man of 40, said that Hall, who is head of the local strike executive committee had issued orders:

1—To blow up the homes of non-striking workers.

2—To set off bombs on the property of Republic Steel Corporation, the light and power company, the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania railroads, a bridge at the Trumbull Cliffs Furnaces (Republic owned), and

3—To set fire to hundreds of gallons of highly volatile benzol stored near Republic's plant.

Warren City Solicitor George Buchwalter said that the statements by the other two prisoners Bundas and Boraweic, corroborated what Scott said.

Officers reported they found three quarts of nitro-glycerine, all that remained, they said, out of two and one-half gallons which Boraweic and Bundas got in Oil City, Pa., June 18.

One quart was found near the Pennsylvania railroad tracks where slight damage from a bomb occurred last Thursday. That bombing, according to police information, was done by "two men imported from Cleveland."

The police said "enough explosive to wreck the entire block" was stored in a milk can on the second floor of CIO headquarters here for five days before the first explosions last Wednesday night.

Stored there, too, the confessions said, were a machine gun and other weapons.

The milk can full of explosive was taken finally to Boraweic's house where, according to the confessions, the nitroglycerine was put into eight-ounce bottles, fused, capped and taped into time bombs.

The plot to blow up the bridge which leads to the Trumbull Cliffs furnaces was thwarted when a national guard patrol car chased the machine in which the bombers, with several bottles of nitroglycerine ready capped and taped, were riding.

In an effort to get rid of the bombs they tried to throw them into the river. The bombs exploded, damaging the bridge slightly and also the automobile.

The statements say that Hall, a blond, husky Scandinavian about 30 years old, talked the dynamiting plans over with Scott in detail.

Hall put up the money, they said, to get the explosive. The amount was $5.

The dynamite plot disclosure in Warren and the blasts that shook the Johnstown sector broke a semi-calm that had marked a week-end of mediation failure, oratory and back-to-work movements.

Fresh tragedy was written at Beaver Falls when George Mike, 45, of Aliquippa, Pa., died of a fractured skull, received yesterday in a clash between pickets and deputy sheriffs at the Moltrup Steel Products Company plant there.

He was struck by a tear gas cartridge as the deputies attempted to disperse 40 pickets who had halted 12 non-strikers returning to work at the plant.

Accurate figures as to the number of workers who have gone back to the mills continue difficult to obtain, for the statements from the companies and from the union are widely divergent.

ONE-THIRD BACK

A recapitulation today indicated broadly that approximately one-third of the number normally employed have returned to their jobs.

This was predicated on some company figures; reports by national guard sources in Ohio—which the union does not accept, claiming them to be company figures—and upon CIO figures in some instances, as well as upon the observation of disinterested observers at places, such as Johnstown, where reporters were permitted to go into the plants and observe the operations.

Of a normally-employed 97,180 persons, top estimates were that 38,240 are working; lowest estimates say 16,858.

In Ohio there was no indication of early withdrawal of state troops. Half of the state's militia of 10,000 soldiers are now on duty defending "the right to work—the right to strike" as enunciated by Governor Davey.

PARLEY IN COLLAPSE

Efforts of the President's three-man mediation board appeared definitely to have collapsed. Edward F. McGrady, one of the mediators, was back in Washington to report to his chief, Secretary Perkins.

Inland Steel and Youngstown Steel & Tube have agreed to postpone their opening at least until tomorrow.

At Chicago, the National Labor Relations Board continued to hear charges against Inland Steel. CIO cited the company for refusal to bargain for a contract with it.

"GIRL WHO NEVER HAD A CHANCE"

International News Photograph Service

Boston Gungirl, Who Fled Prison With 3, Hunted

JAILED AFTER TOY-PISTOL HOLDUPS

Through woods and hill near Bedford, N. Y., police combed today in a search for Boston-born Norma Parker (the former Nellie Gutowski), Broadway gungirl, and three other girls who fled Westfield Reformatory for Women in that state last night.

The flight from the institution to which Norma was sentenced little more than three months ago after a series of toy-pistol holdups and a chorus girl stabbing, took place shortly after the supper hour.

Black-haired, black-eyed Norma, described by the sentencing judge as "a girl who never had a chance," led her three girl companions over an eight-foot fence, topped with barbed wire.

Reformatory officials said the evening checkup revealed that in addition to Norma the girls missing were Jessie Smith, Sylvia Fox and Anna Somper.

The 25-year-old girl, known to holdup victims as "the woman in black," was sent to the reformatory instead of to State Prison by General Sessions Judge Owen W. Bohan, who imposed an indeterminate term.

"Norma Parker, your case has given me considerable concern," said Judge Bohan in imposing sentence. "You have a background of abandonment and neglect."

It had been brought out that she was born Nellie Gutowski in Boston, that the mother deserted the family when Nellie was a baby and that she had been brought up as the only girl in a group of eight men, including five uncles and a grandfather.

YOUTH KILLED BY POLICE SHOT

be overtaken, the youth stopped the car and leaped out, taking to flight through an alley.

MacNutt, following on foot, commanded him to stop and when he kept on running, the policeman fired. Koppana dropped to the ground. MacNutt had him removed to Beverly Hospital. He was pronounced dead on arrival.

LONG POLICE RECORD

According to police records, Koppana was last arrested in November, 1935, for breaking into the garage of Harold Burnham of Beacon street, Gloucester, and taking an automobile. On January 2, 1936, he was sentenced to two years in Concord Reformatory but the sentence was suspended and he was released on two years' probation.

Back in July, 1929, he was in Gloucester court on two counts of breaking and entering and larceny. The case was filed. A charge of throwing glass and crockery in the highway was placed against him February 2, 1932, and this also was filed.

In December, 1932, he was charged with disturbing a public assembly and was sentenced to an industrial school, but this sentence was suspended and he was released on probation. Koppana was a widower and father of a small child.

CODMAN REPAIR WORK CITED

said Commissioner Scolponeti. "He should have been here tending to business."

"Cut out the byplay," said Chairman Lasker.

"It's not byplay, it's the truth," retorted Scolponeti.

The bills showed that one repair job done for the White Fund by the Codman Hill concern in June, 1936, cost the fund $4282, a sinige job in July cost $4513 and one in September, $2392. With other work done on these three months, the total bill each month was more than $5000.

NEVER DISCUSSED TERMS

Fox testified that in no case did the mayor discuss the items with him before giving his approval to the payment of the bills.

"I can't see why he should discuss them with me," said Fox.

In reply to toher queries, revolving chiefly around an item of $1737, the city auditor explained as follows:

"I assume the mayor sent for Major Hall and asked him about the invoices. Knowing the mayor as I do, I feel he must have sent for Major Hall. I felt the mayor would question an amount of that size and would want to be given a reason for the work."

City Auditor Fox said he held up the September bill himself and called it to the attention of the White Fund trustees, of which he is one. The trustees voted to approve it.

Solon Sees Chaos if Lewis Gains Power Control

Providence, R. I., June 29 (AP)—U. S. Representative Clare E. Hoffman (R.-Mich.) today declared whoever controlled the switches in the power business in the United States controlled American industry.

This control, Hoffman said, John L. Lewis, Committee or Industrial Organization leader, had boasted he would obtain, an dwith it, Hoffman continued, chaos could be inflicted on the country in 24 hours.

Speaking before the Providence Rotary Club under auspices of the Constitutional Educational League, Hoffman said that in the Bay City-Saginaw-Flint section of Michigan, the CIO shut off the power supply in an effort "to bring industry to heel," creating panic among 200,000 people. He suggested ederal and state governments make it a felony to interrupt power and light service.

U. S. MAKES NEW STEEL STUDY

Washington, June 29 (AP)—Secretary Perkins said today the government's efforts to mediate the steel strike had collapsed. She added, howevr, she was studying the industrial dispute to determine if further mediatory steps are possible.

Miss Perkins made her statement after a conference with Charles P. Taft, chairman of the Federal steel mediation board. Taft began drafting a preliminary report today.

$2,000,000 Maine Verdict Is Upheld

Portland, Me., June 29 (AP)—A new trial in protest of a $2,000,000 verdict which a federal court jury awarded April 30 to the Jenkins Petroleum Process Company of Milwaukee against the Sinclair Refining Company of Maine was denied today by Federal Judge John A. Peters.

50 More Barbers Sign Union Scale

Fifty more barber shop proprietors in Greater Boston today signed agreements with the barbers' union to charge 50 cents for haircuts and 25 cents for shaves. This brought the total number who have signed up since the walkout to 150.

In addition, proprietors of 100 additional shops telephoned to barbers' union headquarters, 113 Dudley street, Roxbury, that they are willing to sign, according to Charles E. O'Donnell, union business agent. They were told to come to union headquarters to place their signatures on agreements.

Those who have already signed operate one and two-men shops, but none of them will be permitted to operate with union men until the 100 proprietors who are holding out have signed, according to O'Donnell.

The union business agent said that an effort will be made to call out union men in downtown Boston late today or tomorrow to make the walkout more effective.

Sweethearts of 2 Nations

LOVE RULES—AND HERE'S PROOF—

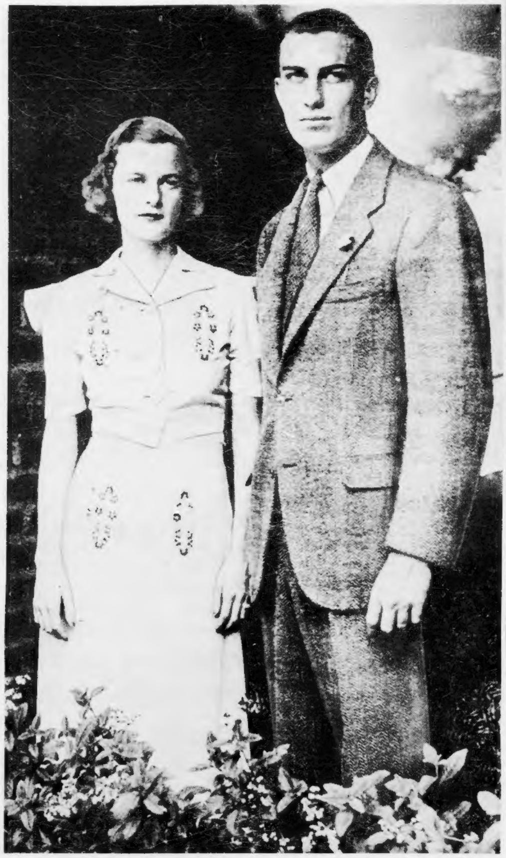
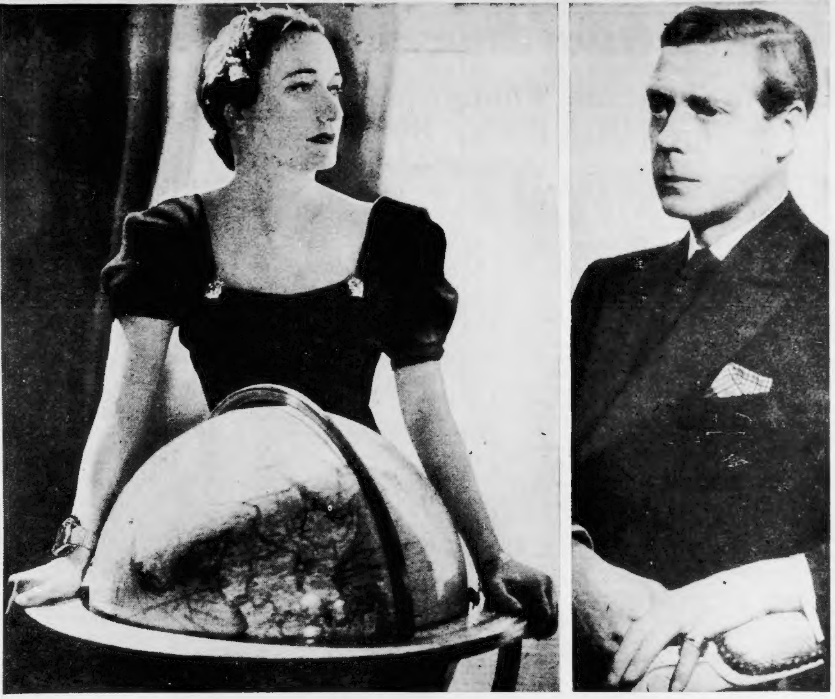
Edward and Wally Pose For Camera



International News Photograph Service

All the world will take a friendly interest tomorrow in the wedding of these best known sweethearts of the United States. Posing together in the garden of the bride's home in Greenville, Del., Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the president, and his fiancee, Miss Ethel duPont, prove themselves no longer camera-shy. That's just as well, because the ace picture-shooters of America will be on their trail before and after tomorrow's ceremony.



Don't let your romantic illusions be shattered by those hastily made news snapshots which show the new Duchess of Windsor and her ex-king husband looking as haggard and unprepossessing as most of us do in passport pictures. More fair to the newlyweds whose love story thrilled the world are these recent portraits, not retouched but made with proper lighting and more carefully timed exposures. The former Wallis Warfield is wearing a black velvet gown which splendidly sets off her attractive figure and clear skin. The Duke of Windsor, garbed in the simple business attire of which he is most fond, appears very much the clean-cut young "Empire salesman" he used to be before the weight of a crown settled on his brow. These pictures were made exclusively for Harper's Bazar, which permitted their distribution by International News Photograph Service.

the Yale-Harvard boat races with him.

GUESTS ON HAND

Bosom companion of the bride-to-be, Mrs. Alfred Bowditch Hallowell, is already in Wilmington, where she will be one of the bridesmaids. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence W. Morgan, Jr., of Dedham, her sister, Leslie, and brother, Laurence W., Jr., are also to be among the guests, as is her husband.

Other Bostonians include John Lyman, an usher, and his mother, Mrs. Ronald T. Lyman; Priscilla Weld of Brookline, Miss Margaret Hallowell and Mrs. John Cutter, former wife of Graci Hall Roosevelt, brother of Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, and her three children, Henry P., Daniel S. and Eleanor Roosevelt.

PARTIES INFORMAL

Much of today's partying was informal, but a luncheon was scheduled for the young couple and at least two parties were on this evening's program. Chief of these was a dinner to be given by Roosevelt and Miss duPont for the bridesmaids and ushers.

The traditional Harvard Fly Club party, for a member about to be married, was scheduled for later in the evening at Owl's Nest. It is to be a strictly stag affair.

There had been discussion of holding the party Wednesday, so President Roosevelt, a member of the club, might attend, but later reports fixed tonight as the time.

Richer by 50 cents is 71-year-old Justice of the Peace Frank E. Haley, former du Pont employe, after issuing his third marriage license since last December.

Quietly the young couple appeared in Justice Haley's office, quickly filled out the necessary papers and departed with a brand new marriage license.

PRESIDENT IN BACKGROUND

Determined to remain in the background and let the full glare of the spotlight shine unreflected on the bridal couple, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt announced they would make their headquarters on the train.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt will leave the train and journey by "a back road" to the du Pont estate shortly before the ceremony, to attend a quiet family luncheon.

Mrs. Farnell Loses Separation Suit

Providence, June 29—Judge Alberic A. Archambeault, in domestic relations court today, dismissed the petition of Mrs. Jessie W. Farnell for a legal separation from Dr. Frederick J. Farnell, psychiatrist and one of the expert witnesses in the Millen trial at Dedham, Mass.

In dismissing the wife's petition, Judge Archambeault stated he did not consider that she had furnished sufficient evidence to justify a legal separation.

In her petition, Mrs. Farnell charged that Dr. Farnell had associated for many years with Eva Edgett, a Rhode Island Hospital graduate nurse, and that once he awoke in the night and addressed Mrs. Farnell as "Eva" as he put his arms around her.

According to Mrs. Farnell, she asked who Eva was and he replied:

"She's the dearest, sweetest girl I know."

Dr. Farnell was formerly head of the Rhode Island state public welfare commission.

Convict Given Suspended Term

Edward C. Joyce of Springfield, serving a sentence of five years in state prison at Charlestown, was given a suspended sentence of one year and a day and probation for that period in federal court today after he pleaded guilty to transporting motor vehicles in interstate commerce.

Assistant U. S. Atty. Frank W. Tomasello recommended lighter sentence, with the understanding Joyce will begin his federal probation on his release from Charlestown.

McNeil Loses Fight For Peabody Berth

By a ruling of the Supreme Court, Charles H. McNeil of Peabody today lost his fight for reinstatement as assistant city engineer of Peabody.

McNeil had sought a writ of mandamus compelling the mayor and city council to reinstate him. He was appointed in 1926 and laid off in 1935 when the city adopted an ordinance establishing a public works department. McNeil claimed his discharge was illegal since he was under civil service.

Husband Must Pay 'Confessing' Wife

Auburn, Me., June 29—Even if a wife did write a "confession" story for a magazine, telling that her youngest child was born out of wedlock, the legal husband must support the baby, it was ruled in court here today.

Antonio Beauchesnes, $16-a-week factory woker and father of three, told of the "confession" story in objecting to an order to pay $6 a week to his wife, Doralda, for the children's support.

"Whether it were so or not," ruled the court, "it makes no difference. The order stands."

Loses Finger Landing Big Fish---'Worth It'

Miami, Fla., June 29 (AP)—Gilbert Easton, 64-year-old South Orange, N. J., manufacturer, had only a stub today on his right hand where the middle finger grew yesterday, but he was happy about it.

"It was worth two fingers to catch a fish like that," he declared.

The fish was a 608-pound blue marlin, believed to be the second largest catch on record.

Easton hooked the marlin yesterday from his yacht Jay 2nd off Bimini in the Bahamas. After battling nearly an hour he brought it alongside the boat. The giant fish gave a desperate last lunge and a coil of the leader wire snapped taut over Easton's middle finger, severing it instantly.

Believing he had a record catch, Easton refused the aid which would have barred him from claiming a record, and in nine minutes more brought the fish to gaff. His prize, however, was short of the 636-pound mark of Thomas Shelvin of New York.

Easton was flown back to Miami. The finger had been severed in the middle section, and was amputated back to the joint.

Shirt Firm to Buy Easthampton Mill

Easthampton, June 29 (AP)—The Standard Shirt Company today announced it had arranged to purchase a mill of the old West Boylston Company and expected to start operations here September 3, employing between 800 and 1000 persons.

The building, a three story-structure, has 124,000 square feet of floor space.

Irwin's Own Story:

Lost No Sleep Since Killing Three, 'Mad Genius' Boasts

EXCLUSIVE!

(Herewith is another installment of the sensational signed confession made to Universal Service by Robert Irwin, who murdered Veronica Gedeon, artists' model, her mother, and a lodger, in New York last Easter Sunday.

By ROBERT IRWIN

(Copyright, 1937, Universal Service. Reproduction in whloe or part strictly forbidden.)

New York, June 29—Once the governor of the state came to see me model, Governor Pierce, who is now in Washington, and they had me model at the fair.

I saved up $10 and gave it to my mother when I left the Oregon State Trade School. She kissed me goodbye and said, "I don't think I will ever see you again." She never did.

I never wrote to her, because I was in the crazy house. I said I would never write home until I had made something out of myself. I read in the Cleveland library on April 11th that my mother was dead, and I nearly gave myself up then.

When I left the Oregon State School, my intention was to become a sculptor, and I thought it wouldn't take me long to be a Hollywood sculptor.

I met Carol Romanalli in Hollywood, who is from Florence, Italy. He was like a father to me, and I was his assistant. He went to Chicago later on. I had a good job at that time, making $25 a week.

I intended to give myself up right from the start, and if I had gotten Ethel I would have stayed right in the apartment. Oh, I don't know, I might have run out and run right into the police station, but my intentions were to stay right there.

I intended to kill Ethel with the ice pick. I had only intended to stab Frank Byrnes (the lodger) once, and all of the other times I stabbed him were simply to get him out of his misery.

As regards Ethel, if I would have killed her, I don't think I would have marred up her features, as I only wanted to stab her once, and one little hole would not show.

My first intentions were to commit suicide myself and take her with me.

After I killed Mrs. Gedeon I pushed her under the bed. The bed is in the end of the room. The lavatory is right by the entrance. Ronnie came in laughing and throwing her head back, and went into the bathroom and stayed there about an hour, washing some clothes. I didn't know what she was doing in there all of that time.

Waiting Game

The Englishman was awake for an hour or two after Mrs. Gedeon had died. Ronnie didn't spot me until I hit her with the thing and I never went back into the bathroom. I was in the first bedroom. Oh, let's stop.

I would not have given myself up for a year or so, because I had very little time, and I wanted simply to present my case and the people at the hotel were very nice to me.

(Irwin referred to the Statler Hotel in Cleveland, where he worked as a bar boy for weeks while police of the nation were seeking him.)

Once when I was in New York I walked into a restaurant early in the morning and a fellow at the counter said about Joe:

"Do you think the old fellow is guilty?"

I said I didn't know, you never can tell, and passed it off. (The reference was to Joseph Gedeon, father of Ethel and the slain Ronnie.)

That is the only time I ever talked about it to anyone.

Lost No Sleep

I never lost any sleep since this thing happened, and I used to say to myself, any minute somebody may recognize me, and when I was in Washington, for instance, my pictures were all over town, but I walked to the White House and all over Washington and no one ever recognized me.

If they had tied anything on old man Gedeon I would have come across because I would not have let him go to the chair. I figure in the show-down it would not come out that way. I was in hopes that it would end by throwing suspicion on some unknown lover of Ronnie's and that the lover would not be found.

You see, I went in there with the intention to die, but due to the fact that I didn't get Ethel, I wanted to live and the only reason I would save Joe from the chair is that I liked him.

I would like to give Joe some money—say a small amount. I liked Joe. He is such an entertaining fellow.

If it would have come to a real show-down it would have taken over a year and during that time I could have written my articles with the small amount of money I was getting, because after all, that's the one thing I am interested in. You see, I am not a fellow who likes to buy little knick-knacks and I did so want to finish my story.

I did not plan the murders. I went there intending to get Ethel. After it turned out the way it did, I said to myself:

Well, they'll never get Joe at the show-down. It will probably end up with some unknown lover of Ronnie's under suspicion. They never would have suspicioned me in 40 years, but if I had killed Ethel forty people would have suspicioned me immediately. Lambke put the finger on me; That's how they found out it was me.

To me Ethel was like a snake. I was never engaged to Ethel. It was simply an insane attraction. I simply don't know. I think I had a chemical affinity for Ethel.

Ethel Like a 'Snake'

When I was with Ethel it was the purest love that anybody ever had for anybody. If Ethel comes out with a lot of dirty cracks about it, you get in touch with me, and I will tell you a story.

My idea of Ethel was this snaky figure. I made the form of a snake in a statue with the head of Ethel. Ethel was a serpentine. She said to me, "why don't you make Ronnie as a snake?" and I said: "Ronnie could not look like a snake if she wanted to." And she laughed and said, "of course not."

It was not repulsive to me. It was a very attractive serpentine with a head on this snake body as her head.

I drew this when I was more in love with her than at any time. I was thinking of Mary, Queen of Scots. You know how her head would look when it was chopped off. Well, that was what I was thinking of. The eyes closed, the head would be on the ground, falling off the block, just like Mary, Queen of Scots.

I made a big mistake when I broke up with Alice (a girl he was engaged to) because I would have been something by now. She was very nice and a very wholesome influence. There is all the contrast in the world between Alice and Ethel. I would take Ethel a million times ahead of Alice. I could only be happy with Ethel.

Forgets Alice

At the time I knew Ethel I had forgotten about Alice. I wrote some very beautiful poems for Alice. I never wrote any poems for Ethel. I got over that poetry idea, but I used to write a lot of them. Let's see if I can remember the poem I wrote to Alice.

Well, I met Alice in the Trianon Ballroom and it happened they had the place all decorated up that night in an unusual manner with balloons and a whole lot of greenery and flowers hanging up on the ceiling in all sorts of manner—fresh flowers and as I was dancing with her I heard a girl that was dancing with another fellow say. "Oh, look at the mistletoe" and she pointed to the ceiling, so I wrote this poem this way:

"Under the dreaming mistletoe the dancers gliding by to the strain of the music
sweet and slow.
They sang so loud and murmured low,
Under the dim and misty glow of the lanterns hanging high.
Under the spell of the happy hours of the happy summer night,
Under the white clouds sailing slow, under the flowers drooping low.
Yes, it was there in the Trianon under the mistletoe that you drifted into my lonely life and I will not let you go.
And though the flowers have faded and the music is dying away, I treasure the fragrant memories of that happy yesterday.
And some day in the bright dawning of dreams that have all come true,
I will come back to the window seat, to the Trianon and you."

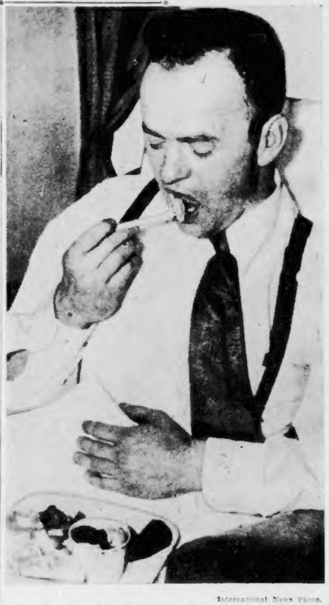
CONSCIENCE FAILS TO BOTHER AT MEALTIME



International News Photo.

Robert Irwin, triple slayer by his own confession, finds his appetite unimpaired by fear or conscience, although the airplane in which he was riding when this photo was taken was speeding him back to New York to face judgment for his crime. Hunger, as more than one condemned man has found, persists when hope and faith have vanished.

ALCOHOL SALE WEIGHED

The right of the Boston Licensing Board to regulate the sale of alcohol was challenged today by Attorney Phillip P. Weiss, counsel for Harry Goorno, proprietor of a drugstore on Washington street, Roxbury.

The druggist was before the board for a hearing on an allegation that he sold half a pint of alcohol at 11.10 p. m. on June 25 or ten minutes after the legal closing time.

The lawyer said that the board's right to regulate the sale of alcohol as well as alcoholic beverages, had never been questioned before, but he claimed the law was plain. He said the state Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission alone had this authority.

The licensing board took the case under advisement.

Goorno testified he had asked the state commission over the telephone as to the hours during which he could sell plain alcohol.

"They told me I could sell alcohol at all times, 24 hours a day, except on Sundays, holidays and election day," he said.

Kield, Germany, June 29 (AP)—After an eight-day visit at this German naval base, the United States warships Arkansas, Wyoming and New York left today for Funchal, Madeira Islands.

IRWIN INDICTED FOR TRIPLE MURDERS

New York, June 29 (AP)—Scarcely ten minutes after Mrs. Ethel Kudner completed her story of the mad impulse which led Robert Irwin to kill her mother, her sister and a lodger, last Easter Sunday, a New York County grand jury handed up three indictments today charging the eccentric sculptor with first degree murder.

Still showing signs of the fear in which she had lived since the triple killing on Beekman Hill, Mrs. Kudner went before the grand jury shortly before noon.

Several police officers followed in quick succession, and District Attorney William C. Dodge emerged with the indictments.

SECOND WITNESS

Mrs. Kudner was the second witness called by Dodge, who personally presented the case to the grand jury to ask for the three indictments—one for each of the victims, Mrs. Mary Gedeon, her lovely daughter, Veronica, the artist's model, and Frank Byrnes.

The grand jury session opened as Samuel S. Leibowitz, noted criminal lawyer, who has never lost a client to the electric chair, went to the Tombs to talk with Irwin and lay plans for the expected insanity defense.

It was Mrs. Kudner, Irwin's confession said, who was to have been the victim of his homicidal urge. It was Mrs. Kudner who he "loved and hated," and whose death would bring "the way out" of his mental sufferings.

LIVING IN TERROR

Since the murders, Mrs. Kudner and her husband, Joseph, have been living secretly in Manhattan. Today they disclosed they had moved back to Woodside, Queens, from which they were driven in terror when they suspected Irwin as the slayer of "Ronnie" and her mother.

Mrs. Kudner followed Dr. Thomas Gonzales, chief medical examiner into the grand jury room. The physician testified briefly and emerged within five minutes.

As Mrs. Kudner went into the room, observers remarked, "she looks scared."

POLICE TESTIFY

The only other witnesses to be called were eight police, including Detective Lieutenant Martin Owens and Detective Frank Crimmins, who flew Irwin back from Chicago and spent several hours talking to him of the crime.

At the Tombs, Warden William A. Adams said Irwin spent a quiet night. Irwin, the warden said, quickly accommodated himself to the routine of hte jail. He is one of 650 prisoners, 35 of whom are charged with homicide.

DEATH PENALTY AIM

Dodge indicated he would seek the electric chair for Irwin. He is anticipating a plea of insanity, and is aware that Leibowitz has saved 123 clients from the death penalty.

After the grand jury session today Dodge expected to go before General Sessions Judge William Allen for permission to have Dr. Perry M. Lichtenstein, alienist and medical advisor to the district attorney's office, examine Irwin.

FEDERAL LOANS EXPLAINED

The Federal National Bank had nothing to do with the loans made by the Federal National Company which was a "personal organization," Daniel C. Mulloney, former president of the closed Federal National Bank, testified in federal court today.

Mulloney resumed the witness stand before Arthur C. Black, as master, in the $3,200,000 suit brought against the Federal National Bank by four subsidiaries—the Brockton Trust Company of Brockton, the Inman Trust of Cambridge, the Lawrence Trust of Lawrence and the Bancroft Trust of Worcester.

Questioned concerning alleged financial interlockings between the Federal National Company and the Federal National Bank, Mulloney testified:

"The Federal National Bank directors knew nothing regarding the borrowings of the Federal National Company.

"The Federal National Company was a personal organization and I wanted to keep it this way. The Federal National Bank had nothing to do with the loans of the company."

Last December, Black made a report of his findings to Judge Elisha H. Brewster, but Mulloney, who was in jail at the time, made a request to appear and testify. It was denied then, but later Black decided to reopen the hearings.

RED EXECUTIONS 131 IN 6 WEEKS

37 RAILWAY MEN ARE SLAIN

Moscow, June 29 (US) — Thirty-seven employes of the Trans-Siberian Railroad have been executed at Khabarovsk for "spying in the service of the Japanese," the newspaper Pacific Ocean Star reported.

These executions increase to 131 the number of prominent political, industrial and military figures to pay with their lives during the past six weeks for crimes or fancied crimes against the Stalin regime.

News of the Siberian executions reached Moscow coincident with the circulation of a rumor in foreign diplomatic circles to the effect that Iakov Doltesky, director of the Tass news agency, committed suicide when he was trapped in connection with the current purge of Dictator Stalin's enemies.

The newspaper Rabochaia Moskva has disclosed that the newest form of sabotage against the Soviet State is the "typographical tantrums."

Seven hundred and fifty thousand official records, the paper reported, have been ruined by saboteurs—including drafts of the new constitution and Dictator Stalin's constitutional speech. Whole phrases were missing in some documents and in others they were repeated many times.

P. R. Ozoroff, director of the printing factory responsible, was reported expelled from the Communist party for "dishonesty."

2 BLAZES LAID TO ME. FIREBUG

Lewiston, Me., June 29—A general alarm fire broke out today in the second floor of the First National Bank building here and ruined the offices of the Auburn Shoe Manufacturers Association.

The fire is being investigated by Fire Chief George Bancroft, who believes it was of incendiary origin.

The flames started, Chief Bancroft said, around an index file in the office of the Manufacturers Association, a file which labor leaders have charged the association maintained as a "blacklist" of 6000 shoe workers involved in a shoe strike that went into its 14th week today.

Discovery of the blaze came only a few hours after CIO leaders who had charged the manufacturers with compiling the "blacklist" reopened soup kitchens for thousands of workers who had attempted to return to work, only to find their jobs already filled.

In addition to destruction of the file, the flames swept through the walls of the second story. Bank offices on the first floor were flooded.

Today's blaze, which caused an estimated damage of $5000, is the third since outbreak of the Lewiston-Auburn shoe strike.

Ely to Administer Contested Estate

Former Governor Joseph B. Ely today was appointed administrator to the contested estate of the late Archibald M. Robertson of Jamaica Plain, estimated between $100,000 and $500,000.

He was named by Judge Frederick J. Dillon of Suffolk Probate Court. Daniel Duncan of Boston and of Scotland were named executors. The will is contested by a brother and several nieces and nephews.

Firebug Hunted In Roxbury Blaze

Police began an investigation of a fire which caused $500 damage today in a dwelling on Lawn street, Roxbury. The occupants were away and a firebug is believed to have entered the house during their absence. Firemen were said to have reported that three fires apparently started simultaneously in the kitchen, a bedroom and the living room.

Woodard-Livermore Ceremony In Hamilton Church

By BETTY ALDEN

EVERY MONTH boasts some sort of fable describing the manner of its arrival and departure . . . just as March comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb . . . But June is typified by music . . . It comes in to the strains of Mendelssohn and goes out with a shower of confetti and rice to the well known cadences of the Lohengrin recessional . . .

GWENDOLEN B. LIVERMORE

• This year's month of brides is true to form with large society weddings up to the very last day . . . This afternoon, Gwendolen Livermore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Livermore of Topsfield, and Charles Woodard, son of Mrs. A. Clark Woodard of Framingham are having one of the last weddings of the month . . .

Gwendolen and Charles will exchange their marriage vows in picturesque little Christ Church in Hamilton, with a reception following at Boxfields, the Livermores' home in Topsfield . . . Mr. Livermore is escorting his daughter to the altar and she is wearing an ivory satin gown clouded with a tulle veil fastened to her head with a coronet of orange blossoms . . . Her bouquet is of butterfly orchids . . .

The bride's sister, Mrs. Willis P. Beal (Cecily Livermore) is attending her as matron of honor and the six bridesmaids are all girls associated with the North Shore where Gwen has taken an active part in social affairs since her debut in the 1933-34 season . . . They are the Misses Isabella Gardner, Catherine Pentecost, Phyllis Forbes, Emily Dick, Susannah Ayer and the bridegroom's sister, King Woodard . . .

Mrs. Beal is wearing a gown of delphinium blue net with a tulle hat to match and is carrying a bouquet of white summer flowers . . . stock, snapdragon and daisies . . . Georgiana Powell to Join Theatrical Group

POLLY GADDIS' decision to have a small, unheralded wedding when she became the bride of Kermit Roosevelt, Jr. (an event which occured yesterday, you must know by now), has deprived many of her friends of an opportunity to give a lot of pre-wedding parties in her honor . . . and a number of girls from being bridesmaids . . . Georgiana Powell, who would have had a very personal interest in the wedding, having made her debut with Polly in the fall of 1935, is getting the news of the wedding in Denver, Col., where she is visiting some of her classmates at Smith College . . .

Georgiana, the daughter of Professor and Mrs. Thomas R. Powell of Cambridge, has a flare for amateur dramatics and has signed up for the month of August to work with the Island Players at Chebeague Island, Me. . . . This group of summer players was organized by Smith girls and the entire membership is of college students who wish to get some theatrical training during the summer months . . . She will return from Denver in time to pack her grease paint and a few costumes before starting off for Maine to spend the month concentrating on lines, cues, stage etiquette and other technicalities of the theatrical world . . .

Plans July Wedding

Miss Margaret Louise Snedeker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lendon Snedeker of Brooklyn, N. Y., has selected Saturday, July 24, as the date of her wedding to Robert Morgan Parker, son of Dr. William Huntington Parker of Providence, R. I., and formerly of Waban.

Miss Snedeker, whose engagement was recently announced, is a member of the Junior League of Boston. She studied at the Packer Collegiate Institute of Brooklyn and at Wellesley, and is at present completing a course at the Boston School of Occupational Therapy.

The wedding will be performed at Glen Cove, Long Island, N. Y.

Mr. Parker prepared for college at the Polytecnic Preparatory Country Day School in Brooklyn, and graduated from Harvard, with the class of 1926.

Anna Elizabeth Austin In Winchendon Ceremony

Miss Anna Elizabeth Austin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Austin of Honolulu, Hawaii, and George I. Brown, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George I. Brown of Winchendon and Honolulu, will be married at five o'clock this evening.

The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Joseph Reeves at the Winchendon home of the bridegroom's parents. Mrs. Anna D. Carden of New York will give her granddaughter in marriage.

Miss Austin is wearing a bridal gown of egg shell satin with a collar and coronet of rose point lace and a long tulle veil. Her bouquet is of lilies of the valley. Miss Cappy Cook and Miss Aline Carder, both of Honolulu, will be the bridesmaids. Their dresses are of Nile green organdie and they are carrying bouquets of pink peonies.

Zadoc Brown will act as best man for his brother and the ushers are Edgar C. Bothwell and William H. Curry of Pittsburgh, Kenneth F. Broth of Honolulu, and Joseph N. White, 3d, of Winchendon. Following the ceremony, a reception will be held at the Brown's Winchendon home. Mrs. Carden, grandmother of the bride, has chosen a gown of black chiffon, while Mrs. Brown, mother of the bridegroom, will wear white lace.

Among those who have come from out-of-town to attend the wedding are Miss Mae Carden of Honolulu, Jane Smith of Pittsburgh, Pa., Edwin Luther of Pottsville, Pa., Joan Dorsett of Honolulu and Miss Edith Hurd of Manila, P. I.

The bride is a graduate of Columbia University. Mr. Brown, who is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Zadoc Long White of Winchendon, prepared for college at the Hotchkiss School and is a graduate of Princeton where he was a member of the Cap and Gown Club.

Three Groups Plan South Shore Fetes

Bridges, Teas On Month's Program

With June ticking off its last romantic hours, summer benefits at South Shore colonies move into the limelight. Three different organizations are staging fetes for three distinct purposes.

Funds from the Emmanuel League party on July 7 will forward the cause of Emmanuel College. Senior Philomatheia remains faithful to this scholarship fund with a bridge and tea being staged for the purpose at the North Scituate home of Mrs. Vincent P. Roberts on July 12. The Guild of the Infant Saviour bazaar, slated for the fall, will be aided by the bridge and tea at the Hatherly Country Club, on July 7.

The 12:15 boat out of Rowe's Wharf bound for Pemberton on July 7 will carry a group of picnicking Emmanuel Leaguers intent on staging a gala wind-up to their season. Shore dinner will be served after their arrival at the Pemberton Inn. Bridge and whist will be played throughout the afternoon.

Highlights of the day are being planned by Jane McKey, League president, assisted by Mrs. Edmond L. Grimes, Mrs. Edward Denning, Mrs. Joseph K. Duffy, Mrs. Joseph E. Sullivan, Mrs. Thomas A. Conroy, Mrs. Thomas A. Lolan and Mrs. Walter E. Farr.

A group of South Shore colonists are stimulating interest in the ticket sale under the leadership of Elizabeth Logan of Cohasset. Working with her are Mrs. Frederic J. Crosby, Mrs. Arthur Erlander, Mrs. Bernard Fallon, Mrs. M. J. McCarthy, Mrs. Joseph F. O'Connell, Mrs. John J. O'Neill and Mrs. Robert T. Sullivan, all of whom have established summer residences south of Boston.

Bridge and Tea To Aid Guild

The Guild of Infant Saviour is holding forth on the same time at the Hatherly Country Club with its bridge and tea it conducts annually to swell returns of the guild bazaar scheduled for the fall.

Members of the young set at the colony will abandon their racquets and golf clubs for the sake of helping at the tea. The pretty maidens include Mary Carroll, Helen Godvin, Helen McCarthy, Margaret Minton, Mary Sullivan, Mary Powers, Agnes Trainor, Margaret Walsh and Julia Fitzpatrick.

Already, a prominent group of Bostonians have promised their support of the undertaking. Serving as patronesses are Mrs. Francis J. Barnes, Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller, Mrs. James F. Gaffney, Mrs. William Handschumacher, Mrs. George McCarthy, Mrs. P. A. O'Connell, Mrs. James P. O'Hare and Mrs. Arthur Parker.

Also lending support to the worthy cause of swelling bazaar funds are Mrs. James P. O'Hare, Mrs. Andrew J. Porter, Mrs. Frederick A. Quinn, Mrs. Doherty and Mrs. Edward C. Donnelly.

Benefit Bridge At Roberts Home

Mrs. Vincent P. Roberts, who for so many years has served as president of the Senior Philomatheia Club, is opening her North Scituate home on July 12 for the scholarship benefit bridge.

Enterprising chairman of the day is Mrs. Edmond L. Grimes of Chestnut Hill, who is supported by Mrs. M. J. Maguire, Mrs. Thomas F. Troy of Melrose, Mrs. Charles Stack of Hyde Park, Mrs. P. J. McCarthy and Mrs. John G. Warren.

PROBERS TOLD OF MILLIONS IN TAXES EVADED

Washington, June 29 (INS)—Millions of dollars in taxes have escaped the federal Treasury through the creation and operation of personal holding companies, Treasury officials informed the Senate-House tax committee today in appealing to Congress to plug the loopholes.

More than a dozen names of wealthy individuals who have organized such companies to avoid taxes were supplied the committee, together with descriptions of how they operate.

FAMOUS NAMES

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Raskob.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred P. Sloan (chairman of General Motors).

Henry L. Doherty, utilities magnate.

A. W. Mellon, ex-secretary of the treasury.

Paul Mellon, a son.

Ailsa Mellon Bruce, a daughter.

Mrs. Wilhelmina duPont Ross.

F. V. duPont.

Paulina duPont Kean.

Charles E. Merrill and Edmound C. Lynch, partners in a New York securities investment firm.

Cartter Lupton, Chattanooga financier.

Owen B. Winters, New York.

In the case of the Sloans, treasury oficials estimated that by manipulation of their various holding companies, the Sloans had effected tax avoidance of nearly $2,000,000, in three years.

DEVICES LEGAL

Conceding the devices utilized legal under existing law, treasury officials nevertheless insisted that the law is faulty, that Congress never intended to permit such tax avoidance, and appealed for remedial action.

By the device of incorporating farms, country estates, even racing stables, the individuals named were enabled to establish "loses" and create a multiplicity of deductions so as to materially reduce their tax liability, the committee was told. They saved hundreds of thousands of dollars over what they would have paid had their incomes ben figured on a straight personal basis.

McLaughlin Asks Early O. K. for Promotions

Fire Commissioner Edward F. McLaughlin today submitted for certification to Civil Service Commissioner Thomas H. Green the lists of men eligible for promotions and appointments.

Eight lieutenants will be promoted to captains, 24 privates to lieutenants and 96 new privates will be appointed.

In submitting the names, the fire commissioner asked for certification "as soon as possible." It was believed that the commissioner desired to announce the promotions and appointments Thursday.

Commissioner McLaughlin submitted the names of 12 lieutenants, 34 privates and 138 men, 96 of whom will be selected as privates from the latter group.

Privates start at an annual salary of $1600 and later receive a maximum of $2100. Captains receive $2700 and lieutenants $2500.

Auto Bumps Along R. R. Tracks

B. & A. Express Due So Police Speed to Rescue

Auburn, June 29—It suddenly came to Police Chief Charles E. Braman today that being a policeman is a pretty screwy business—but it took an eyelash skip from death and then the loss of his quarry to bring the decision.

The way it started was that a lad know to be from Southbridge was driving along Rochdale road, when some quirk made him turn into a camp road to the Boston and Albany railroad tracks—and then turn west on the railroad right of way.

Residents along the track rubbed their eyes when they saw the driver blithely bumping over the ties, west-bound, with the car straddling one rail of the eastbound express rail. Then they called police.

Well, Chief Braman visualized the situation right away and he collected a crew of huskies and ran.

When they got to the railroad, they found the driver had stopped at a trestle, after a run of nearly a mile, because the wheel straddling the eastbound rail wouldn't knock over a bridge abutment. And the 20th Century Limited, Chicago to Boston, was due on that track.

"Call the railroad and have them red light all traffic," the chief ordered, but the flash came too late.

The huskies just had the car lifted over the high rail when the flier came streaming down the rails at 65 miles an hour. The car dropped, the party fled and the express thundered by—no farther from the side of the car than you could flit a cigarette. The driver blandly sat at the wheel.

Shaking, the chief and his men returned to the car and Chief Braman asked the driver what he was doing there.

"Jesh lookin' f'r fren'," said the driver.

Then he suddenly stepped on the starter, whirled sharp to the left, bumped over the rails, shot down over a 20-foot embankment, lurched and bumped 300 feet across the field, tore through a gravel pit in a cloud of dust, hit the road and was merrily away.

"The bad boy," said one of the chief's party and they all went back to the station.

2 Men Indicted In Attack on Girl

Indictments charging criminal attack against James Kelley, 28, of West Seventh street, and Edward Fleming, 28, of Silver street, both of South Boston, were returned today by the grand jury.

The men, alleged to have attacked 22-year-old Elva Blaquiere, of Minto, N. B., June 18, at Stoughton, were immediately arraigned in Superior Court before Judge Frederick W. Fosdick.

They pleaded not guilty and trial was set for July 6. In default of bail, they were returned to Charles Street Jail.

Falling Bracket Injures 2 Slightly

A man and woman were injured on the hands today when an iron ornamental bracket fell four stories to the sidewalk from a building at Summer and High streets.

Miss Irene Mahan, 28, of Montvale street, Roslindale, and Ernest Rosenblat of Alfred street, Jamaica Plain, were treated for lacerations at Haymarket Relief Hospital. The bracket grazed them as it fell.

Climbing Stairs Tip For Hips

'Your Figure Madame' Gives New Advice

IDA JEAN KAIN

(Copyright, 1937, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

IF you are one of those people who cannot spare 10 minutes for exercise, take a cue from a clever comedienne and invent ways of taking exercise in your daily stride.

Paula Trueman is the girl to give pointers on squeezing exercise into a busy program. This young actress of the hit play, "You Can't Take It With You," is in private life a very competent housewife.

If you think time for exercise is a problem, just imagine what it must be for her! Yet, exercise she must, for her figure's sake, and she does.

Going up and downstairs is real exercise. "There's nothing like chasing up and downstairs for slimming the hips," declares this exercise-minded actress, who climbs the theater stairs as many as 20 times an evening for change of costume, and countless other times at home in the performance of household tasks.

Also, Miss Trueman is an indefatigable walker and walks wherever she goes. By timing herself, she finds she can cover 20 blocks in 15 minutes—which is something less than she could traverse the same distance by car in traffic.

BALANCED REDUCING MENU

TOTAL CALORIES	1123

While she does only a few steps, Miss Trueman has noticed an actual improvement in her measurements as the result of daily repetition of the routine. Her figure has these lovely proportions:

Bust, 33 inches; waist, 25 inches; hips, 34 inches; thigh, 18½ inches; calf, 12 inches; and ankle, 7½ inches. Her weight is 102 pounds and height five feet one inch. If she did not exercise, Miss Trueman could easily be chubby.

"Just enough ballet," Miss Trueman said, "seems to do really lovely things for the figure. Even though you are not a ballet dancer, there are certain poses and steps which afford splendid exercise."

Try this exercise from her dance routine:

Stand with heels together, toes turned straight out so that the feet are in one line. You will not, at first, be able to turn the toes out to assume his familiar and apparently easy ballet pose, but with practice it can be mastered.

Secrets of Charm

YOU step into a roomful of people. Do their eyes light up, kindled by your radiant charm? Or does your entrance pass unnoticed?

The art of making a vivid impression, glowing with charm and personality, is not a gift to the favored few. It's something any girl can learn—by rule—just as she learns to bake a cake.

Charm has many ingredients—melodious voice, exquisite personal grooming, clothes that bring out your most attractive features, gracious manners. All these you can acquire with a few moments of effort each day.

For instance, daily practice will give warmth and richness to a shrill rasping voice, or a dull colorless one.

An exercise to develop mellow tones, often used by actresses and singers, is to say the vowel sounds preceded by b, p and m, this way—bah, bay, bee, by, boe, boo. Then try to say the vowel sounds as melodiously as you can after bl pl and sl.

Our new 40-page booklet, Secrets of a Winning Personality, gives definite, easy-to-follow lessons for developing hidden possibilities and overcoming defects. Learn, too, the art of making contacts, saying the right thing, making and keeping engagements. How to achieve your goal.

Send 15 cents for our booklet, Secrets of a Winning Personality, to Boston Evening American Home Institute, 103 West 18th street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

June Crop Of Peas Is Larger

Prices Likely to Be Below Normal

By MARTHA LEE

Green peas are associated with June. Word arrives that June's pea crop is estimated at 71 per cent larger than last year's. You and I interpret this to mean that retail prices will probably be below normal.

Peas are a rich source of iron, phosphorus and vitamin C, and a good source for the pellagra-preventing factor. With this knowledge in mind, we have all been looking forward to the arrival of peas on the market in quantity.

But the shopper must have her critical faculties alert as she goes to market, if she is to serve savory food. What shall we look for? Well, when buying peas, we'll look for pods that are bright green, somewhat velvety to the touch, fresh looking. Pods of immature peas are usually flat and a dark green. Those of old peas are often yellowish.

Prepare peas for cooking as close to mealtime as possible, if you would have them tasty. But on occasions when the peas must be shelled the night before, put them into a glass jar, tightly cover it, and keep it in a cool place.

Food specialists have four ironclad rules for the cooking of peas. First, cook in a minimum of water, so that when the vegetable is done there will be little or no water left, in order to preserve the food constituents. Second, cook in an uncovered pan so as to keep them green. Third, have the water slightly salted, and boiling merrily, when you put the vegetables in, so as to cut down the cooking time. Fourth, consider the vegetable cooked when there is still some body firmness to it. They are overcooked when they are mushy.

A sprig of mint boiled with the peas adds delicious flavor, even as it does with new potatoes. If mint is not available, try parsley. Be generous in adding butter.

NEW POTATOES AND PEAS

Small, new potatoes creamed with peas also takes us back to days in the country, when the peas and potatoes appeared on the table at the same time. A rich cream sauce was added to the small amount of water remaining in the saucepan in which both were cooked.

PEA FRICASSEE

For pea fricassee, use two cups cooked peas, one tablespoon butter, three tablespoons chopped ham or tongue. Heat the cooked peas in melted butter and mix with the chopped meat.

PEA PUREE

Large peas may be utilized in a puree for a novelty. Use four cups shelled peas, one onion, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Place peas in saucepan with enough water to cover. When tender press through ricer or a fine sieve. Add butter and serve hot.

PEA SALAD

1 cup cold cooked peas
1 cup chopped raw celery
⅓ cup French dressing
1 teaspoon chopped mint
½ teaspoon grated onion

Mix well, chill and serve on a bed of crisp greens.

CANNED PEAS

If you are fortunate enough to have a garden, you will want to can the peas at once while they are at their very best.

Select only young tender, freshly gathered peas. Shell, wash and sort according to size. Precook 3 to 7 minutes, depending on the age and size of the peas. Pack loosely in clean self-sealing glass jars. Fill to within ½ inch of top with boiling water. Use ½ teaspoon salt and 2-3 teaspoon sugar to each pint jar if desired. Put on cap screwing band firmly tight. Process in pressure cooker 45 to 60 minutes at 10 pounds; or in water bath 180 minutes; or in oven 240 minutes at 250 degrees.

BANANA FRITTERS

2½ cups sifted flour
2-3 cup sugar
3½ teaspoons salt
5 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk
2 eggs well beaten
5 teaspoons melted shortening or oil
12 bananas

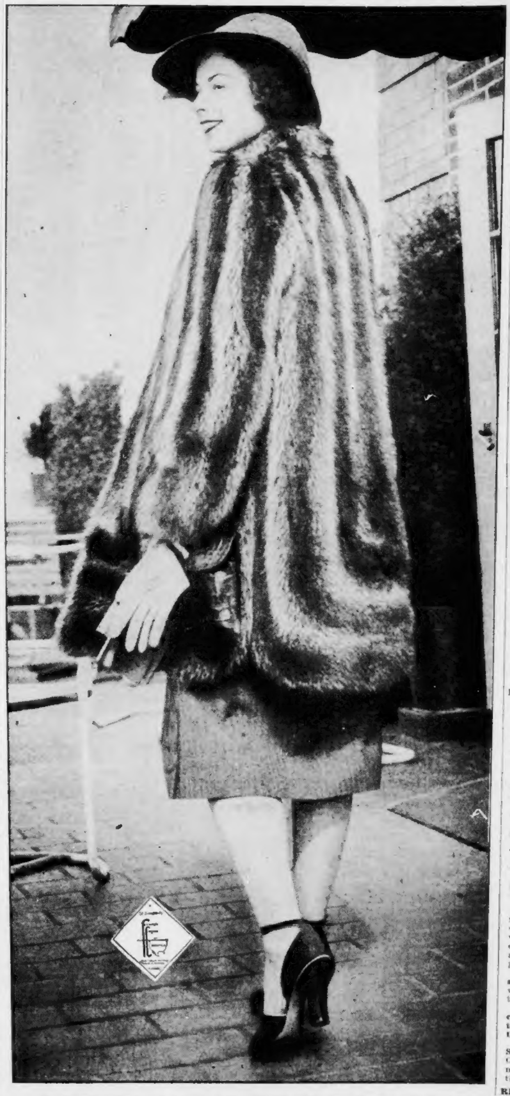
Sift together flour, sugar, salt and baking powder. Combine milk and egg and add gradually to dry ingredients, stirring until batter is smooth. Then stir in shortening. Peel bananas and cut into quarters or crosswise into halves. Roll in flour, then dip into fritter batter, completely coating the bananas with batter. Fry in deep fat at 375 F. for 4—6 minutes, or until brown and tender. Drain on unglazed paper. Serve very hot. Makes 24 large or 48 medium-size fritters.

H. G. Wells Will Speak in Boston

Lectures and recitals by world-famed figures will feature the programs offered by "Town Hall in Boston, Inc." at Symphony Hall next fall, it was announced today by Mrs. Roberta Green, managing director.

H. G. Wells, English novelist, will be among the first attractions. He is to be paid $3000 for his platform appearance. Boake Carter, radio commentator has been engaged and Jacques Cartier will present his "Life of Louis XIV" in dance narrative.

Newest Fur Sensation



No, it isn't a silver fox coat the Duke himself might have chosen for his Duchess . . . though the fur is lovely and soft enough, dark and silvery enough to pass for fox at twenty paces . . . it's the biggest suprise of an early peep at fall fur fashions given the Fashion Congress at its last session of the summer. It is a raccoon swagger.

Almost unbelievable, even when beheld with the naked eye! Of course, the tip has been taken from the breathtaking treatment of silver fox skins. The long pelts are stream-lined to the hem, where they are swung around in panels. In order to show you the line of the panels, the photograph sacrifices the gay bravery of the squared-off shoulders. Extended, straight as a West Pointer's, but not too wide. And the newest story in collars—a high, tight band fastened at the hollow of the throat. Miss Florence Dysart models.

For shopping information on this new raccoon swagger coat, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, LIBerty 4000, week-days until five or write her at the Boston Evening American.

Keep Small Objects from Children

NOTHING is more dangerous than to permit a child to play with small, jagged objects. Unless carefully watched, one may go into his mouth and be swallowed.

Needles, toys, pins, nails, safety pins and other objects are swallowed by too many children.

This accident can usually be traced to the negligence of the nurse or parent. When small objects are kept far beyond the reach of the youngster the accident will be prevented.

The swallowing of a pin or jagged object may tear or rupture the lining of the throat, gullet, stomach or intestine. Often the toy does not reach the stomach because it becomes lodged in the wall of the esophagus, the food pipe or gullet. In consequence, infection may take place, requiring an extensive operation.

VALUABLE INSTRUMENTS

Certain instruments have been devised, by the use of which the physician is able actually to look into the esophagus, as well as into the upper parts of the lungs.

These instruments are so constructed, too, that they make it possible for foreign bodies actually to be removed without the need of a cutting operation. But this invention does not excuse the creation of situations which encourage the swallowing of objects which do not belong in the mouth.

In addition to keeping small objects beyond the reach of a young child, it is well to remember that it is equally important for the adult not to place a pin or other small object in his own mouth.

If he does, a sudden cough, or some other body movement, may cause the swallowing of the object. The danger of complications resulting from such an accident is equally great in the adult as in the child.

IMITATE ELDERS

Another danger of this practice is that children are keen to imitate their elders. Too frequently they stick things in the mouth only because they see adults do it.

This evil practice of adults is the way a dangerous habit is developed in the children.

Youngsters should be taught at an early age that it is dangerous as well as unsanitary to place any object in the mouth. They should also be instructed in the importance of carefully chewing their food.

Handsome Novelist Gets Chilly Greeting From Beautiful Margery

From an original story by Gene Baker and Margaret Lee. Screen play by Lawrence Riley and Earl Baldwin. A Cosmopolitan production released by Warner Brothers.

What Happened

Margery Morrison, skilled secretary, has one great handicap, her unusual beauty. Invariably her bosses become too ardent and she knows that she may retain her job or her self-respect, but not both. She always retains her self-respect and goes job-hunting anew. She lives with her best pal, Susie Rogers, who always keeps her job because she isn't bothered with the "fatal curse of beauty." Margery has been obliged to hunt four new jobs within as many months, and when she gets a really decent boss, this boss' wife insists that he hire a male stenographer. Margery, leaving this job, sees a strikingly handsome young man in a car and realizes that he is the first man to ever rate a second glance from her.

Now Continue

CHAPTER VI

Margery considered for a moment the advisability of going into the Walsh service department and asking the name of the young man who had just driven out. But on sober second thought she decided against it.

That, she told herself, would be a "goofy" thing to do.

Margery was never one to cry. She was inured now to having apparently good jobs and then being forced to seek new ones.

And, she told herself, there was nothing to worry about. She had three weeks salary in her pocket. She would surely land another job before that was used up and she had to dig into her rainy day savings.

It was only half past three. She had an appointment to meet Susie at the Black and Gold Cocktail Room at five. They were going out to visit a girl friend in the suburbs who was celebrating her second wedding anniversary and her son's first birthday, and it looked, as Susie said, like a "large" evening.

Margery decided to kill time at a picture house.

HE DIDN'T KNOW

Susie got off early again, so she went to the cocktail room to wait for Margery. She sat around at a little table so long that a waiter asked her if she wanted something to drink.

"Certainly not. I never drink!" Susie assured him.

The waiter was puzzled. It didn't occur to him that she might be waiting for someone.

"You didn't make a mistake, did you, Miss?" he asked.

"No, indeed, and I've never regretted it!"

The waiter coughed to hide his embarrassment.

"I mean," he said, "this is a cocktail bar."

"I guessed it. Any reason why I can't wait here to meet a friend by appointment?"

"Not at all," he assured her.

A young couple came in at this time, and Susie watched them with interest. The young man was tall, dark and handsome enough, Susie decided, to be a movie hero. She thought that perhaps he might be.

The girl was short, a brunette, and rather pretty. It was the way she was dressed that attracted Susie.

"You got to have plenty of class and plenty of dough," Susie told herself, "to dress the way that girl does."

They took a table not far from Susie, who hadn't listened to them and watched them five minutes before she decided that the girl was "ALL society."

RIGHT AND WRONG

Susie was wrong about the young man being a screen star. He was Frederick Matthews, a novelist of considerable repute, considering his youth. But she was right about the girl, Camille Lansing. Miss Lansing was certainly "all society," extremely chic, and at that time under the impression that she couldn't live without Freddy.

Camille lifted her cocktail and smiled at him.

"Here's to your new novel, Freddy," she said.

He sighed.

"You are premature, Camille, the fool thing isn't finished yet."

"We'll drink to what's written and to a speedy finish, dear."

Freddy groaned.

"Speedy finish, my eye. I don't feel any more like finishing it than I do like trying to swim the Atlantic."

"But you must finish it, darling. The whole world is waiting for your new masterpiece."

"Never mind the whole world. What's worrying me is that my publisher is waiting for it and I certainly need that advance royalty, but I just can't seem to get at it." He smiled at her. "Too many pleasant attractions is the reason."

"Meaning me?"

He nodded and jabbed a finger toward her, to her great delight.

"What is this novel about?" she asked.

"About a beautiful young society girl named Camille."

"Really?"

"Really. She falls in love with a young wastrel."

"Named Freddy?" Camille asked eagerly. Then she said, "No, really, what is the plot?"

He leaned nearer and began to outline it, and so did not see Margery enter the cocktail room and look around for Susie. Susie saw her and stared until Margery looked in her direction and hurried over.

"FIRED AGAIN?"

"I'm a bit late, Sue. I was in a movie and waited until it finished," Margery said, sitting down at the table.

"In a movie? You weren't working—look here, Marge Morrison, don't tell me you've been fired again?"

"No, I walked out first."

Briefly Margery told about the visit of Mrs. Walsh and the domestic riot that followed.

Camille Lansing said, suddenly, "Freddy, you're fooling!" She said it so shrilly that Margery looked over. But her glance didn't rest long on Camille. She saw Freddy Matthews, and Susie heard her murmur, "Well, of all things!"

Freddy Matthews was the handsome young man who drove out of the Walsh service station and caused Margery to stare at him as long as he was visible.

"What is it, Marge? Do you know him?" Susie asked.

"No. I—he—he almost ran over me this afternoon," she finished, confusedly, unwilling to let Susie know that for once a young man had attracted her.

Freddy, looking around the room as he was talking, caught sight of Margery and stopped in the middle of a sentence to stare at her. Margery quickly looked away, unwilling that he should suspect that she was staring at him.

"Look-a, Marge," Susie hissed, "he's falling for you already."

Camille looked about to see what Freddy was staring at, saw that it was Margery.

"Yes, Freddy, your hero meets the overseer's daughter and she's a blonde."

"Blonde?" Freddy turned to look at Camille. "Oh, yes, of course a blonde." He stared at Margery again.

"So I thought," Camille said, drily, "blonde like that girl over there?"

"Eh? Oh yes, sure—blonde like that girl over there. Say, I believe I know that girl, Camille."

A "FAST WORKER"

"You mean," Camille said, "that you wish you knew her."

"No—er—really, I am sure that I met her somewhere. Say, darling, pardon me a moment until I run over and speak to her. She will think I'm terribly rude if I don't."

Camille sighed.

"Well, if you must, only when you started out to tell me the plot of your novel, your heroine was a brunette."

Freddy Matthews didn't hear her, for he had risen and was crossing to Margery's table.

Susie saw him coming.

"Gee, one of them fast-workers!" she remarked.

"If he thinks—"

Margery couldn't finish, for Freddy stopped in front of her and bowed.

"Excuse me," he said, "but haven't we met, somewhere?"

Margery looked at him calmly and shook her head.

"I have been somewhere, several times, but I never met you there," she said.

"Oh, but I am positive I have seen you, simply positive." Without asking permission he sat down at the table. Margery glanced over and saw that the little brunette girl was eyeing them coldly.

"It won't work," Margery said, coldly. "The reason that I don't remember you is because I never saw you before." She turned to Susie. "Come along, Sue," she said. "Our car is waiting."

Margery stood up, and in doing so knocked the glass of water into Freddy's lap.

"Ooops!" Margery cried, and her face reddened. "So sorry, but mistakes will happen."

She and Susie hurried out where Margery began to laugh.

"You did that purposely, Marge!" Susie cried. "And you have seen him before; you just told me that he almost ran over you this afternoon."

"I know it; but do you think I'd let him come over and pick up an acquaintance like this?"

CONTINUED TOMORROW

Margery was right. It would cheapen her to let Freddy Matthews get acquainted with her in that manner, but she is quite unhappy about it, because she fears she will never see him again.

ADVICE on LOVE and MARRIAGE -:- By Beatrice Fairfax

Girls Should Encourage Love Without Seeming 'Too Eager'

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Although we are both adults, marriage is so far away from the consideration of us both that it isn't part of my problem.

I am wondering how far a girl can go, unobtrusively, and let a boy imagine that their friendship is his own idea.

Can I go farther than that in the open, without seeming to be too eager?

I have a feeling that no man will ever fall for me without my taking the initiative in the friendship.

Does that sound sensible, or just one more echo of the well-known inferiority complex. I am 25.

MISS S. T.

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Long before Bernard Shaw put it in cold print, every thinking person was more or less aware that women had taken the initiative in love affairs from the very beginning of the world.

The joke in the whole business is always that women are so clever about it that nearly all men imagine love is their own plot and plan.

If this young woman takes my advice, she will keep right on, just the way that Mother Eve acted in the earliest days of the world, and as most of us women have followed her since.

Of course, a few very high-brow femmes are the exception. But the surest way to get a husband is to ENCOURAGE an eligible man.

Among the interesting letters I receive today is this:

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Looking it over from the beginning, I think my wife did most of the courting.

She's three years older than I am, and I can't deny that she has been a very good wife, economical, faithful and a good mother to our two children. Agreed.

But a man of MY type can't remain devoted to one woman any more than he could eat chicken every day in the year and not get tired of it.

I have fallen in love with another girl. I want my wife to divorce me so I can marry this young lady, who is lovely and interesting, and could help me on with my career. My wife absolutely declines to do this.

Is there any way in which a woman can be forced into getting a divorce without resorting to anything like false testimony?

J. T. R.

DEAR FRIEND:

You've come to the wrong person for counsel, and, short of perjury, there is no way of cutting the matrimonial bonds from a wife such as you describe.

You tell me a man couldn't eat a steady diet of chicken every day in the year without becoming tired of it.

WHY DO YOU THINK HE'D HAVE ANY BETTER LUCK WITH A STEADY DIET OF GOOSE?

Unless a man is an utter piker, he knows there is no excuse for wanting to quit his obligations to his young children, when "reaction" sets in after the first glamour of marriage.

Doubtless you'd ask this good wife, of whom you seem so unappreciative, to take you back before six months had passed.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Aren't men the greatest babies? They expect to be cuddled and pampered and told what splendid husbands they are, when they should take all this for granted.

I am not a sentimental person, and the fact that I'm a good and loyal wife, make a comfortable home and am thrifty, should be enough, it seems to me, without the daily insistence of: "I love you better than anything on earth."

If I didn't love this particular man devotedly, I would not have stayed with him all these years.

He's good as gold, but he has a few decidedly human shortcomings.

PRACTICAL WIFE.

DEAR FRIEND:

And you wouldn't love him, my dear lady, if it were not for those decidedly human shortcomings.

No one loves a plaster saint, or even an imitation one, who goes about basking in his own sanctity.

Be nice to this admirable husband, or some other lady may take it into her head to assure him she loves him better than anything else on earth.

A great many good husbands could stand more pampering than they get, the reason being, I suppose, that with economic conditions changing so rapidly and wives going out to work, there isn't time for these affectionate assurances.

But homekeeping wives don't have to grab their hats and make the 8:15.

They can afford to do a little pampering.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

You Can't Bid Backward

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

One of the most common of all bidding situations creates the need for decisions that are difficult to all players.

I refer to such a hand and such bidding as the following:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

North:
♠ A 2
♡ A K J 5 4
◇ 10 6 3 2

West:
♠ K Q 7 5 4
◇ K 8 5 4
♣ J 8 7

East:
♠ J 8
♡ 10 8 3 2
◇ A 7
♣ K 9 5 3 2

South:
♠ 10 9 6 3
♡ Q 7 6
◇ Q J 9
♣ A Q 10

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
2 N T	Pass	3 ♡	Pass

The bids up to the question mark are too orthodox to require much comment. After apssing, South must show that he had almost an opening bid and his two notrump, considering his distribution and honor strength, is the only conceivable response. North, with 5-4-2-2 distribution, logically rebids the hearts,—first, to show at least a five-card suit and second, to show no great love of the notrump.

It then becomes necessary for South to decide whether to persist with notrump or raise the hearts to game.

Let us examine the pros and cons: South has fair heart support which he has not yet shown directly. As against this, his two notrump shows, by implication, some sort of a fit. His hand, divided as it is, contains no ruffing power whatsoever and, hence, in so far as his own thirteen cards go there is no virtue in playing at a suit declaration.

Finally—and here we come to the crux of the situation—if South bids three notrump, North can if he desires, still go on to four hearts, the die is cast—nothing can return the partnership to three notrump. Thus, since by its very nature a three notrump bid is more tentative than a four heart bid would be, it is only logical for South to continue with his no trump bidding rather than raise the heart suit.

At four hearts, the opening lead of Ace of diamonds and continuation would result in the defeat of the contract. ast would ruff the third round and the defenders still would have to make a spade trick.

All three notrump, with West on lead, then proper play by the declarer would probably bring home nine tricks. West would open his fourth-best spade and dummy's Ace should be played without delay. Then on a low diamond lead from dummy, unless East made the alert play of putting up his Ace, three notrump would be as good as home.

I said the contract probably would have been made because, unfortunately, not many players in East's position would appreciate the need for putting up the Ace immediately* z z z z

Translucent Rouge in Lipstick Form

Gloriously Animated Affair Gives a Rare, Life-Like Bloom

By ARLINE GOULD

LONGFELLOW'S "Things are not what they seem," is particularly applicable to cosmetics these days.

You probably never thought you would see the day when a cheek rouge would come packed in lipstick form, but that is just what has happened.

A new and vastly improved cream-rouge is the latest cosmetic triumph and it stands in a fair way to revolutionize the old order of synthetic cheek blossoms.

The real secret behind this affair (aside from the fact that it comes in a lipstick cylinder) is that it is actually a powdered rouge . . . but with a cream foundation.

Hence, it spreads like a cream rouge but gives the dull, mat finish of a dry one. It is waterproof, too, and will stand all sorts of punishment under a broiling sun or in the water.

If you've been harboring the thought that rouges are all pretty much alike, you've certainly never tried this gloriously animated affair.

For one thing it seems to cling ad infinitum to the skin, doesn't blow away in windy weather, and gives such a wholly natural translucent look that it almost fools you into believing the color is your own.

You have a wide range of colors to choose from, too, and if you've ever tried the lipstick of the same name you know how vibrant and life-like the tones are.

It's all very ducky, also, being able to rub the stick on your cheeks and blend it in with one finger. In fact, it simplifies make-up to the point where you can apply it blindfold . . . and still have successful results.

Don't get the idea that this is just a rather clever trick. It very definitely is not. For one thing it is a very superior formula and it took its creator exactly seven years to perfect it to the point where it now stands invincible in its field.

One thing that has particularly endeared it to us is the fact that we can powder our face FIRST and then apply it. When have you ever heard of this being done with a cream rouge? (It's own secret foundation base makes all this possible.)

To learn the name of this new cream rouge in lipstick form that is handy to carry and so very easy to apply, call Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, week days until 5, or write to her at the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Married Comrades

CHAPTER 341

AT Junior's howl of pain as we softly opened the door into the camp bedroom which he shared with Roderick, Dicky stopped short in his tracks with a muttered objuration.

"Don't brush against that cord!" he commanded, and I wondered if he had suddenly taken leave of his senses.

"Keep perfectly still, you little idiot!" he adjured Junior as he whipped a penknife from his pocket, opened it, and slashed at a cord which my dazed eyes had just realized was stretched from the door knob, around which one end of it was tied to a point somewhere beneath the bed clothes.

BOYISH TRICK

"Ouch!" Junior squealed as the knife severed the cord, and his father looked at him quizzically.

"I gather that you tied a cord to your toe and to the door last night, so that you'd be sure to awaken when we came into the room to kiss you good-by."

"Yes," Junior acknowledged shamefacedly. "That's what I did, but I didn't think it would hurt the way it did."

The atmosphere was tense, as it is very apt to be when masculinity of any age first awakens in the morning. And, with technique born of long experience in smoothing out early morning temperaments — and tempers—I said quickly:

"Let me see your toe, Junior! Perhaps the skin is broken."

"Naw, there ain't anything the matter with it," he replied, but he drew his foot from beneath the bed clothing and held it out to me. As I untied the cord, which had left an angry red mark around the toe, and cradled the foot in my hands, I saw from the expression on my son's face that he was not averse to a little mothering over his sore toe.

"No, the skin isn't broken," I said with relief.

"I see that now," Junior murmured contritely. "But I didn't want you and dad to get away without saying goodby to you again, and I knew neither one of us would wake up if I didn't do something."

"I didn't want you to get away, either," Roderick said with a subdued voice.

"Well! We didn't get away, did we?" Dicky asked with a laugh, rumpling each tousled head, and the boys giggled appreciatively, all their irritation at each other and at the world forgotten.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I am to be married within the next few weeks, and since I am to have a very small wedding reception, I am planning to send the wedding announcement after the wedding. Is this correct?

2. My father and mother are divorced, and I haven't seen or heard from my father for over three years. I do not know where to get in touch with him. How should the announcement read: "Mr. and Mrs." . . . or just "Mrs."?

B.

1. Yes, it is a perfect plan for you to send formal announcement after your small wedding . . . These should be all ready to mail —engraved, addressed, stamped . . . directly after the ceremony has been performed. And announcements are sent only to those who have not been invited to the wedding.

2—Under these circumstances, your announcements should, very definitely, be sent only in your mother's name. And in her name, do not use her first name. Use either Mrs. Smith Brown (Smith being the surname of her maiden name) or Mrs. M. Smith Brown (Mary Smith being her maiden name).

NEW PASTOR

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When a new pastor comes to a church should he make the first call on his members without a special invitation, or should the members be the ones to take the first step in inviting him to their homes? I have always thought that the pastor should take the initiative.

My question, of course, concerns a small church where most people know each other, and where a pastor comes to more intimate terms with his members.

A.

When a pastor comes to a church, especially a small church such as you describe, it is customarily taken for granted that, as soon after he conveniently can after his arrival, he calls on the members of his new church.

The members do not especially invite him to make these calls, but, of course, it is gracious and friendly for them to do so, if they wish.

Business Men Demand Clouds Be Swept Away

Uncertainty Plunges Financial, Business World Into Jitters, Says Forbes

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. Forbes

The financial world and the business world can adjust themselves to good news; they can adjust themselves to bad news. The one thing that plunges them into the jitters is uncertainty.

Industrialists, financial interests, business leaders complain today that they are beset by far too much uncertainty. They are consequently keeping close to shore, restricting their inborn spirit of enterprise, curbing their natural courage.

Uncertainties stem from two main fountain-heads:

Washington;

Certain labor leaders.

What is happening laborwise is spread on the front pages—and other pages—of newspapers every day. New campaigns are being launched against this, that and the next industry almost daily by the CIO. Nobody knows where it is going to strike next.

Also disconcerting to employers is the failure of John L. Lewis and his adjutants to maintain discipline among their followers, to make them live up to signed agreements, and the fact that neither Lewis nor any CIO official or union can be held legally responsible for any breach of contract or anything else, whereas employers are held strictly accountable for their actions.

Another disturbing development: Although it is only a few months since General Motors entered into an agreement with CIO, new demands of far-reaching importance loom. Another wrangle is feared forthwith.

Admittedly, public sentiment manifestly is turning against labor lawlessness and is inducing State governors to alter their tactics in a way not agreeable to CIO leaders. But while this encourages hopes of equitable amendment of labor laws by and by, it does not eliminate current or nearby apprehension.

Men of affairs declare they are at sea as to how far the New Deal plans to go in formulating additional policies adversely affecting them.

They don't like the idea of entrusting to five individuals unprecedented power proposed under the wages-and-hours bill. They don't like President Roosevelt's far-flung anti-utility program. They don't like his attack on the Supreme Court. They don't like the government's gigantic expenditures, the government's mounting deficit, the government's spending of the many millions being collected under the Social Security Act, the government's taxation activities and possible innovations. Least of all do they like the government's constant berating and besmirching of all business men.

Thomas I. Parkinson, president of Equitable Life, whose policies embrace upwards of 3,000,000 men, women and children, says:

"If only our friends in public position, in their attempts to control, to inspire, and to guide us in our activities in the business world, would be a little more definite as to what they expected, would be a little more reasonable as to the standards which they impose, and would be a little more discriminating in their estimates of our motives, and of our accomplishments! If the standards that they required of us in the public interest were reasonable and definite, we could generally adjust ourselves to them.

"And then, if only they would recognize that we in the business world are trying to perform a public service; that our very business success depends on pleasing the public; and if only they would not pick an occasional incident and broadcast it as if it were typical! And if, having regulated us, they would realize that there are limits to our possibilities, under all the inherent difficulties of our varied situations and under public regulation—that there are limits to our power to produce wages for the employes, taxes to support the public treasury, and something for the proprietary interests for whom we work!"

One vitally important truth the powers-that-be should recognize is that uncertainty enlarges unemployment.

Rail's May Deficit Exceeds $700,000

Net loss after fixed charges of Northern Pacific Railway in May was slightly in excess of $700,000, according to President Charles Donnelly. This would bring the deficit for the first five months to approximately $3,000,000.

The crop situation in Northern Pacific's wheat territory has been greatly improved by recent rains and current prospects are for a substantially larger crop than a year ago, Mr. Donnelly stated.

THEORIST Vs. Practical MAN

ARISTOTLE'S DISCOVERY

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service

New York, June 29 (US)—Aristotle long ago discovered that when the theorist comes into conflict with the practical man, the latter usually wins out. His explanation was that the practical man deals with concrete situations, and that real life is a series of actual situations.

This difference of attitude is illustrated currently by foreign trade developments.

Visionaries in and out of the public service continue to think in the obsolete terms which Adam Smith formulated more than a century and a half ago.

They erroneously assume that foreign trade today is what it used to be in the past.

They forget that there are changing styles in the character and composition of foreign trade.

Specifically, a radically new element was introduced at the beginning of 1934 when in effect the United States government itself became an active participant in foreign trade. Previously, in times of peace, foreign trade was carried on by the citizens, not by the government itself.

But early in 1934, Uncle Sam entered foreign trade as the world's outstanding bidder for newly mined foreign gold, and since then has bought billions of the yellow metal. Gold purchases roughly equal two-thirds of the value of exports of goods since that time.

Thus, it is unrealistic to try to explain current foreign trade in terms of pre-1934 laissez faire theory.

In practical terms, the government, in buying unneeded foreign newly mined gold at $35 an ounce, has given an enormous subsidy to the export trade.

Yet, in spite of this colossal subsidy, America's favorable balance in normal trade items has steadily shrunken since 1934, and thus far in 1937 the favorable balance has been converted into a red ink negative balance.

Foreigners did not follow the forecast of the classical theorists. Instead of using the dollar purchasing power obtained through the sale of gold here to buy wheat, corn and other products of American farm and factory, they employed such buying power to acquire American securities, to repatriate dollar bonds of their own, and to build up bank balances here.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States used to battle for "more business in government and less government in business."

The trend has been in almost the opposite direction.

Government could learn something useful from practical business, namely, respect for accounts which record actual developments, instead of theory advanced by the academicians.

When the business man wants to learn his position, he looks to the ledger. He does not summon an economist to theorize about his activities.

The men charged with executive responsibility would be strengthened if they formulated policies on the basis of the scientific findings of accurate national bookkeeping.

The distinction between theory and practice is well exemplified by the position which Lionel D. Edie makes in his new book, "Easy Money," published by the Yale University Press.

Warning of the folly of theorists' contention that you must be for easy money or for tight money, Mr. Edie concludes:

"I do not admit that these are the only alternatives. There is a middle ground. It is not merely a compromise position. It is a position which represents a desire to be realistic rather than a desire to be doctrinaire and dogmatic."

Mr. Edie states his position as follows:

"I do advocate restoration of flexible interest rates.

"I recognize the difference between various classes of rates.

"I am not an advocate of so-called classical theory nor do I belong to the Keynes school.

"I am not attacking control of monetary policy by the state, but I believe that some of the policies by which such control is exercised are open to criticism.

"The devaluation of currencies does not, in my opinion, point inevitably to such a violent inflation of commodity prices as many people have predicted.

"I question whether it is possible under an easy money policy to control credit expansion, to prevent excesses of speculation, and to curb the unhealthy developments associated with a boom."

Uncertainty of Business Seen Lifting Shortly

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

New York, June 29—Uncertainty, hesitation and dullness were the general characteristics of business last week. The essence of business has always been skill in dealing with some degree of business risk, but when uncertainties go beyond a certain limit, business slows up. That is the condition today.

Not far underneath, however, there is a pretty general feeling that sounder and more certain conditions will be established by fall. A good deal of the present state of affairs may be described as marking time pending readjustments in inventories, production and prices. The rest of it is the result of political developments, domestic and foreign.

Unfortunately, the labor problems must now be included under the head of politics.

The best bet now seems to be that by the end of August, supply and demand relationships will be readjusted, and Congress will have adjourned. Meanwhile, the administration will have been somewhat sobered by our difficulties, and may be more inclined to let business go ahead. Improvement should follow.

Just now, many business men are not doing much, because there is no hurry and much uncertainty, but most observers regard this as a temporary condition.

It is hard to say just what steel production is doing, since the activity there is so much influenced by shifting strike conditions. Probably the output was off a little more than seasonally last week because of Governor Earle's ill-advised closing of a big Johnstown steel plant. The usual summer letdown is at hand, and the normal seasonal variation is downward, but aside from strikes, the industry holds about unchanged.

The barometric price of steel scrap has steadied, which is a good sign.

My impression continues to be that the CIO has lost the steel battle because it went too far in violence and dictatorial demands.

Last week the automobile industry showed a spurt in production, reaching the highest weekly figure for June. The season is near its close, however, and the labor uncertainties involved in the approaching renewal of the agreement between General Motors and CIO are a cloud on the horizon.

In both the lumber and the cotton manufacturing industries, we find new orders at the moment lagging behind production and shipments. This reflects current uncertainty and the tendency to wait for readjustments in inventories and prices.

A more-than-seasonal rise in carloadings last week was partly due to the first movement of the larger winter wheat crop to market. Not since 1924 has there been so good a prospect that a large domestic wheat crop may prove to be a major business stimulant.

And it should be noted that commodity prices averaged higher last week, which is a "bullish" symptom. Grains, flour, lard, cotton, hides, silk, cocoa, tin and foreign copper all advanced. It seems quite possible that this move may mark the end of the sharp reaction in commodity prices that ushered in the current period business reaction.

All symptoms indicate that public opinion last week swung definitely against CIO methods. The shift in attitude by Governors Davey and Earle proves it. Probably the swing would have been even more emphatic if Mr. Girdler of Republic Steel had been more diplomatic, and had not laid himself open to plausible charges of being opposed to collective bargaining.

The people of this country are gradually getting set to stop labor warfare in the future. We may not be able to get the necessary laws through under the present administration, but at least Mr. Lewis' fear of such laws will probably prevent much of the mob violence which he has threatened.

London Stock Mart in Cautious Move

London, June 29 (INS)—Decision to close the French Bourse and the temporary cessation of dealings in French francs caused fresh uncertainty in the London stock market today and, although there was practically no selling, quotations were marked down as a precautionary measure.

With the exception of the French issues, foreign bonds were steady while British funds were dull. Kaffirs were down sharply despite resistance. West Witwatersrand was quoted at 8¾ pds after dropping ⅛. Coppers were slightly easier, industrials neglected but also downward and the heavy industries followed this lead.

The remainder of the board was featureless due to the cautious attitude throughout.

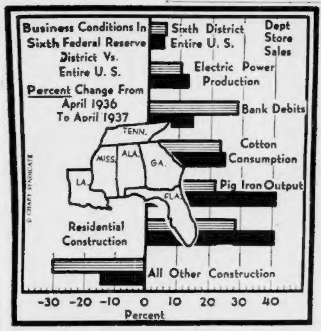
BUSINESS GAINS IN SOUTH NOTED



During the past year business conditions in the Southwestern States—the Sixth Federal Reserve District—moved irregularly in comparison with conditions in the whole country.

From April, 1936, to April, 1937, department store sales in the six States increased 3.9 per cent, while department store sales over all the United States rose 4.9 per cent. During the year bank debits in the Southern area increased 28.5 per cent, while the same item rose 14.4 per cent in the United States generally.

Except for these two indicators, pertinent economic factors showed a smaller gain in the Sixth District than for the country as a whole. Construction, other than residential, decreased a larger amount in the District than did the United States in general.

FRENCH PARLIAMENT

Chautemps Asks Necessary Power

Paris, June 29 (AP)—The new government of Camille Chautemps, struggling to save France's financial structure, won a vote of confidence today from the Chamber of Deputies—393 to 142.

Premier Camille Chautemps called on Parliament today to give him the "necessary powers" to save his nation's finances while France temporarily went off the gold standard amid new talk of further devaluation of the franc.

His declaration was received in the Chamber of Deputies with an obvious lack of enthusiasm. The Communists and a number of the Socialists abstained from applause. Then Chautemps asked for a vote of confidence in the new government's policies.

Tentative suspension of dealings in gold and foreign exchange payments—to protect the franc during parliamentary debate on financial reforms—was decreed by the new finance minister, Georges Bonnet.

Bonnet acted within 24 hours after assuming the finance post, having just returned as ambassador to Washington. It was the government's first step in an effort to prevent speculation in the franc, flight of French capital and to effect reorganization of the French financial structure in face of a vast prospective deficit.

U. S., BRITISH AID SOUGHT

Possibility of a new devaluation of the franc within the framework of the tri-partite monetary agreement between France, United States and Great Britain was seen by Parliamentary observers. The government moved to enlist the aid of those two countries in solving its financial difficulties.

Rene Brunet, undersecretary of state for finance, said the government had advised both the United States and Great Britain that France desired "to disengage the franc from the present parity with the dollar and the pound."

The monetary agreement binds the three nations to help each other steady their currencies.

COMPLETE ACCORD

Brunet, talking with deputies of the Socialist bloc, was represented as saying that France desired to act in complete accord with the other two members of the tri-partite agreement.

Lowering the franc's value in relation to the currencies of Britain and the United States has been persistently discussed in parliamentary circles as one of the developments to be expected in the government's new financial program.

Reports circulated in parliamentary circles that the franc might be forced down to the level that existed during the administration of the late President Raymond Poincare—25.52 to the dollar, or about 4 cents for each franc, about half a cent less than at present.

Tension increased when the Socialist bloc of deputies, after hearing former Premier Leon Blum, adjourned without making any definite commitment of support for the government's new program.

Fear was expressed that if Communists voted against the new government part of the Socialists would join them.

Devaluation of Franc Believed In Near Future

London, June 29 (AP)—The first reaction of English traders to the French declaration of a gold moratorium today was that a devaluation of the franc was forthcoming.

Devaluation often has been rumored in the city, London's financial quarter, and the decision of the Chautemps government was viewed by many as finally a sort of confirmation.

French funds have been flowing to London in great volume recently and the city is prepared for their eventual repatriation as soon as financial adjustments are completed.

It was officially announced there would be no dealings in the franc on the exchange market today.

The closing of the Paris Bourse and other projected measures of the French government were not considered surprising in view of the position created by the recent flight of capital from France.

Market men said they considered France's suspension of gold trading as not likely to have any effect on the billion dollar increase in the British Equalization Fund.

The House of Commons last night approved a proposal to increase the government's monetary equalization fund by 200,000,000 pounds ($1,000,000,000) after Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, explained the purpose was to aid general world trade.

The increase will raise the gold-buying fund total to $2,750,000,000 and, Sir John said, will help Britain fulfill her monetary agreement with France and the United States in the face of unsettled economic conditions.

Before the increase was voted, members spoke of the danger of a "break" in the "corner of gold" and of a possible loss to Britain from a reduction of the United States' gold price.

The chancellor said, however:

"We are much better secured and our resources are fairly abundant. It is unlikely that any sudden or sustained losses of gold could occur now which could seriously embarrass us."

At another point he said, "The exchange account, under present circumstances, must be prepared to add to our gold holdings."

This, to some financial quarters, constituted a warning Britain must prepare for an influx of gold.

"There is no good ground for adopting the view that the accumulation of gold, which presently is concentrated in London and New York, will be a situation that will always continue," Sir John added.

The chancellor disclosed that last March 30 the British equalization fund owned 26,674,000 ounces of fine gold and the Bank of England 73,842,000 ounces, thus giving Britain a total of $3,518,060,000 worth of gold at the United States fixed rate of $35 an ounce.

On that date, Sir John announced, the equalization fund "did not hold more than a trifling amount of foreign currency." Informed quarters believed, however, this position must have been altered recently by the influx of French funds in exchange for sterling pending the French financial crisis.

All figures of the equalization fund are at least three months old before made public.

France's tentative embargo on gold and suspension of foreign exchange created a demand for dollars in exchange dealings here. This would have made the dollar quotations considerably firmer, but it was understood the exchange control sold and kept the rate around $4.93 to the pound sterling as against yesterdays $4.93 3-16.

While there were no general market dealings in francs, the French money could be obtained at some banks at yesterday's price.

Exchange dealers received reports from Amsterdam that francs were being dealt in there today at 120 to the pound as against yesterday's 110½.

State Street Investment Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share, payable July 15 to stock of record June 30.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, June 29—A survey of the 1936 annual reports of 1872 corporations shows that only one industrial group—real etate—had a net deficit for the year, Standard Statistics Co., Inc., reported today. The net loss was a substantial reduction from that shown in 1935. Net profits of the 1872 corporation showed an increase of 52.2 per cent over 1935, the survey indicated.

The first consolidated mortgage bonds of Lackawanna Steel Co., due March 1, 1950, have been called for redemption by the Bethlehem Steel Co., successor to Lackawanna Steel Co., on September 1 at 105 and accrued interest, the company announced.

The American Bureau of Metal Statistics reported that deliveries of copper for consumption outside of the United States averaged 131,149 short tons during the last three months compared with 109,777 tons for the three months included in the last bureau report and a monthly average of 105,270 tons in 1936.

WALL ST. Awaits Fight GONG

BATTLE OVER COMMISSIONS

By LESLIE GOULD

International News Service Financial Editor

New York, June 9 (INS)—The stage is set in Wall Street for a battle over higher commission charges on the purchase and sale of stocks on the New York Stock Exchange. And it is going to be a real fight, for not only is the stock exchange membership split on the subject, but so is the rest of Wall Street.

All that is needed to start the fight is for Edward Allen Pierce figuratively to blow the whistle.

Pierce heads a committee appointed two years ago by the Stock Exchange to look into the matter. This committee, after much prodding, has finally drafted a report recommending an increase. The recommendations are understood to call for a 20 per cent rise.

Pierce, it may be recalled, is also head of the largest wire house in Wall Street. The firm bears his name.

POLITICS ENTERS

There is a great deal of politics in this matter, which explains the jockeying on the report and the current delay in bringing it into the light of day. The next step is to hand the report over to the Stock Exchange board of governors, and then, after it goes through the "necessary" red tape there, the membership will vote upon it.

The same finesse is being tried in this as was so successful in replacing Richard Whitney as president of the Stock Exchange. Much the same people are behind this higher commission move, only they have coooled quite a bit on Gay, present head of the Exchange, and have joined up with many who were known as the old Whitney crowd.

This is the first serious effort for an increase in commissions in years. It owes its birth to the present low state of Stock Exchange trading. As first disclosed in this column, the brokerage business is running in the red ink when Stock Exchange trading falls below 1,200,000 shares daily, and for two months now it has averaged half that total. So the boys are scratching around for ways and means of increasing revenues.

"LUNATIC FRINGE"

That is only part of it. Another part is a belief by many in the business that this also is the time to get the "lunatic fringe" out of the market. That is, the small fry who play on a shoe string of a few hundred dollars and who never had any business in the market, except as outright, long pull, cash investors.

If the higher commissions accomplish that they can be considered a success, but even that will not solve the real problem of Wall Street. It is going to take something stronger than higher commission rates.

The main trouble downtown is that there are too many brokerage houses and too many office partners. There just is not enough cake to pass around, no matter how it is sliced. There are just about as many stock exchange firms today as there were in 1929. And these firms have about just as many office partners, although they have greatly reduced office personnel. Wall Street, itself, has not been liquidated yet.

As further evidence of this, there are the branch offices of stock exchange firms. These are the out-of-town offices where the main street grocer can drop in for a look-see at the market.

ERA OF PROSPERITY

In 1928, when Wall Street was having its greatest era of prosperity, there were 1059 branch offices of stock exchange firms. Today there are 1222 such offices and markets today are around 600,000, against two and three million shares back in '28. And back in 1925 and '26—the so-called "normal years"—these offices numbered 706 and 761.

The following tabulation shows the number of branch offices annually from 1925 to this year:

1937	1222	1930	1587
1936	1138	1929	1433
1935	1040	1928	1059
1934	1207	1927	886
1933	1126	1926	761
1932	1191	1925	706
1931	1438

Thus, it can be easily seen that higher commissions will not solve Wall Street's problems.

duPont to Sell 500,000 Preferred

Directors of E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co. arranged for sale of 500,000 shares of preferred stock, $4.50 cumulative, without par value, the creation of which was authorized on June 18 at special meeting of common stockholders.

The new stock will be offered to the public through a group of underwriters headed by Morgan Stanley & Co.

The New England textile industry is beginning to reflect the slack order situation which has prevailed for several weeks. Up until very recently production has held up because of good order backlogs. As these were eaten away and new orders did not appear to take their place, isolated shutdowns made their appearance. Now the curtailment move is reaching larger proportions, and a large number of leading textile mills are planning extended closings. For the most part, those reported to date will take place over the July 4 holiday.

Naturally, the question arises as to how serious the shut-down movement is at this time. Since the announcements at hand are practically all from cotton mills and since it is the usual thing at this time of year for such plants to close for vacations, we see no cause for undue anxiety. In fact, the situation could probably continue unchanged well into August. Then an appraisal of the outlook for cotton textiles can be made with a greater degree of certainty.

Stock prices have once again reached the crossroads. Straight ahead or to the right is the question to be decided, and we think an answer will not be long in forthcoming. The rails have slipped into new low ground for the move, and the industrials at last night's final figures were within a point of doing so on the average. Should the latter group touch a new minimum, the answer will be straight ahead—in other words, the down-trend will be extended. Refusal to follow by the rails will suggest an end to the decline or a turn to the right.

In a column last week we noted [illegible] several occasions during the [illegible] market the end of a de[illegible] phase was heralded by a re[illegible] of industrials to follow along as rails worked to new lows. Stocks in Higher Move

New York, June 29—The stock market edged into moderately higher ground today, with steel and rail shares in the forefront of demand. Toward the fourth hour, however, some profit selling appeared and gains were pared.

France's suspension of gold payments seemed to have little effect.

Indications that backlogs of the steel mills were larger than expected aroused buying interest in this section. United States Steel, Bethlehem and Youngstown Sheet and Tube, after losing ground in early dealings, came back for small advances.

A notable performer was Santa Fe, which at one time was up about three, reacting a bit later. New York Central, Southern Pacific, Great Northern preferred and Baltimore and Ohio all were gainers.

Anaconda, Kennecott and American Smelting managed to add a trifle. Western Union picked up a point in morning trade.

TIMELY TOPICS

Traders watched with care developments in France where, with gold payments suspended and the bourse closed, the Chautemps government was in the grip of a new financial crisis. Foreseeing further devaluation as inevitable, many brokers discussed the possibility of a flow back across the Atlantic of some fugitive capital now here with, perhaps, the departure of a portion of this country's "sterilized gold."

Despite the return to work in some of the strike-bound steel plants, board room strategists were inclined to view the steel situation with caution. Dynamiting of pipelines in the Cambria plant of Bethlehem Steel Corporation was taken as an indication the return to work movement would not be accomplished altogether peacefully.

Another item of interest was the report of the Federal Reserve Board showing that, for the first time since April, loans by leading banks to finance commercial, industrial and agricultural activity had declined seasonally by $18,000,000 in the week ended June 23.

In opening dealings sterling was quoted at $4.93⅝, up ⅛ of a cent. Trading in the franc was suspended because of closing of the Paris Bourse.

U. S. Extends China $750,000 Loan

Washington, June 29 (INS)—The United States has extended a $750,000 loan to China to finance sales of 20 American locomotives in that country, Chairman Jesse Jones of the RFC announced today.

The money is being advanced through the Export-Import Bank of Washington, an RFC subsidiary. The Baldwin Locomotive Works and the American Locomotive Sales Corporation will sell the equipment.

Comments of Brokers

Until the future presents a clearer vista it is unlikely that the market can stage much of a recovery except such brief rallies as may occur in the ordinary course of day to day trading.—F. H. Richardson, Southgate & Co.

Marketwise, the industrial stocks are now called upon to show their mettle. A slight further decline in that section would provide new lows for the move and confirm the extension of the down swing under way in the rails.—H. D. Comer, Paine, Webber & Co.

In any event I feel that purchases of the oils, farm equipments, coppers and rubbers around these levels should prove profitable before very long.—J. S. W[illegible]son, Josephthal & Co.

Attempts to anticipate a sustained turn-about in the prevailing direction of prices insofar as a time element is concerned, are proving just as hazardous as was the experience earlier in the year when the market situation and surface developments were the reverse of what they are now.—J. E. Molloy, Hornblower & Weeks.

Somewhere in the proximity of the present price level there should be sufficient technical resistance to set off a good rally. In the past four months' decline there have been five clearly defined technical rallies. At this level, therefore, we would rather buy than sell.—G. M., P. Murphy & Co.

Pending some indication of the ability of the early June low to withstand fresh assault, the maintenance of a strictly trading attitude would appear desirable.—J. S. Bache & Co.

The best that can be hoped is that the continued satisfactory business news will hold off important liquidation so that no further drastic break will be recorded. With an irregular quiet affair in prospect only a quick trading policy is possible.—J. P. Maher, Shields & Co.

The Brighter Side

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1937, By King Features Syndicate, Inc., International Copyright and all other rights reserved. Distributed by Universal Service)

Mr. Ben Hecht sat in his stockinged feet in a compartment on the Twentieth Century and spoke of newspaper work, playwriting, scenario labor, and authoring in general. Mr. Hecht wears woolen sox.

He is 43 years old, of medium height, solidly built, and has an inoffensive moustache. He is one of the more brilliant, and certainly one of the most productive of our American writing men. He is a nice fellow, at that.

Damon Runyon

He was en route to his home at Nyack up the Hudson, after a spell in Hollywood, during which he turned out a tale for the movies in the form of what is known as a shooting script. That is to say, when the boys get the story from Mr. Hecht, they can start the cameras going forthwith.

He is a rapid workman at this business. He takes a few days to think out his story, then puts in about four weeks to produce the complete script. As we understand it, this is practically non-union speed.

The rule is several months, but Mr. Hecht perhaps contracted the habit of hurry from his experience as a Chicago newspaper reporter.

VERSATILE WORKER

He put in about thirteen years on the newspapers of Chicago. He did all manner of reportorial work, conducted columns and ran a foreign bureau in Berlin. Afterwards he founded his own publication, the Chicago Literary Times, which lasted a couple of years.

It was while working in Chicago that Mr. Hecht met a fellow reporter, Mr. Charles MacArthur, a corking newspaperman in a period of Chicago journalism that produced some of the greatest newspapermen the game has ever known. A score or more of the graduates of that era are today famous editors, columnists, authors and all around writers.

The writing firm of Hecht and MacArthur became one of the greatest collaborating combinations this country has ever known. Mr. Hecht, sitting in his compartment on the Twentieth Century, remarked — somewhat sadly, we thought—that the firm has been dissolved, and that the members are now on their individual own. It was an amicable dissolution. The erstwhile partners remain friends, and neighbors at Nyack.

They named one of their best known plays for the train which Mr. Hecht was riding, by the way. "Twentieth Century" was both a great stage production, and a fine movie.

Out of their newspaper experiences, they brought "The Front Page," one of the greatest plays of newspaper life ever written. It still is frequently produced by newspaper clubs around the country through the courtesy of the authors.

For a time, Mr. Hecht and Mr. MacArthur were movie producers, writing and directing their own pictures. They turned out two that the critics pronounced terrific—"Crime Without Passion," and "The Scoundrel."

Mr. Noel Coward, the English actor playwright, made his first movie appearance in "The Scoundrel." We are no movie critic, but we thought that a great picture. We have seen some pictures produced by others since then that seemed to stem directly from "The Scoundrel," probably without so much as a by-your-leave to the original authors and producers.

On his own between collaborations Mr. Hecht found time to write "A Jew In Love," a novel of profound thought and theme, and of superior workmanship. He also wrote a lot of short stories.

Mr. Hecht, in conversation, gives you the impression that he is somewhat indolent. The written evidence proves the contrary. He has a list of works to his credit longer than a well rope.

CONTRADICTIONS

He said he used to stop working whenever he got hold of a gob of money, and remain idle until the money was all gone. He said he could not see the sense of working while he had money. But now, he said, he is imbued with the idea of laying up a lot of money.

In the next breath he said he has a play coming out presently of a type that he wrote just because he wanted to write it, without reference to the commercial possibilities.

"If it goes over all right, I suppose I'll go on being poor because I'll continue writing plays that I want to write," said Mr. Hecht, dolefully. "There is not much money in plays that you write just because you want to write them."

By that Mr. Hecht meant, of course, plays written out of some inner urge with no eye on the box office. It takes a true artist to pull an oar in the galley of that ambition nowadays. Mr. Hecht, we think, is a true artist.

PRAISES HELEN HAYES

It is his opinion that the greatest American actress is Miss Helen Hayes, the wife of Mr. MacArthur. But what Mr. Hecht really wanted to talk about, it developed, was the big prize fight that had just taken place in Chicago, and which he deliberately missed because he was afraid something was going to happen to Joe Louis.

"He was my pugilistic hero until his fight with Schmeling," said Mr. Hecht. "I do not like to see things happen to my heroes in any line."

There spoke the author.

$126,000,000 Thrill Abolished at Washington

Washington, June 29 (AP)—The Bureau of Engraving and Printing blasted today a reporter's hope of laying hands on $126,000,000.

A report that the bureau was offering a monetary though momentary thrill free to sightseers merited investigation.

After federal red tape was cut at a half dozen points, the last barrier was the director's secretary, Miss Ednah Sible.

"Yes?" she asked, suspiciously.

"I want to hold $126,000,000."

"Well," she replied, "you're holding the bag on that. We've had to stop it."

"Why."

"Swamped," said Miss Sible. "It seemed as if everyone in America wanted to hold $126,000,000."

It began as a hospitable pleasantry when a bored guide told a tourist to lift a paper-covered package.

"You've just had your hands on $126,000,000," he explained.

The little scene took place in the bureau's examining room which has been in a mild uproar ever since.

Brill Opens Fight to Annul Bridal to Society Girl

Ventura, Calif., June 29 (AP)—The "Battle of the Blue Books" between Mrs. Nan Pierson Brooks Macy Brill, New York social figure, and her husband, William Brill, 21, of Los Angeles, was called for trial here today.

The hearing was on Brill's petition for annulment of his marriage to the pretty, Alabama-born, society girl last March 29. Brill said they were intoxicated when the ceremony was performed.

In his complaint he lists the additional ground his wife misrepresented her previous marital status. Mrs. Brill's attorney, S. S. Hahn, said he believed this meant Brill's lawyers would attack the legality of her Reno divorce.

A[illegible] he [illegible]ered her marriage [illegible] George Henry Macy, wealthy New Yorker.

"They can't push me around like this. We were sober. We were legally married, and we had two glorious days and nights in the desert as man and wife," she exploded today.

"As for my divorce, it was absolutely on the up-and-up. I was in Reno for months before I got it, and I stayed there for a long while afterward.

"He's going to remain my husband just as long as I want him to be."

Grapple for Body Of Youth in Lake

Amesbury, June 29—Police grappled Lake Attitash today for the body of 21-year-old Donald Ridlon of Bradford, who tumbled out of a boat as he and other youths were shooting with rifles at floating cans.

Whether a fainting spell toppled young Ridlon into the water or whether he fell from a stray bullet will not be known until the body is recovered.

The young man was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Ridlon, of Pleasant street, Bradford, and had been vacationing at a camp on the lake.

Jailed for Theft Of Relief Check

Characterized as "unfortunate," Mrs. Marian Bousquet, 24, of Vine street, Haverhill, was sentenced to six months in jail in federal court today on an indictment charging larceny of a $21.28 relief check.

She was alleged to have stolen a check payable to Miss Pauline McLaughlin, of the same address. Mrs. Bousquet had pleaded guilty.

MAN CHASED UP TREE BY BEAR, THEN BITTEN

Dolgeville, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—Frank Mang nursed an injured bear-bitten leg today and related how the animal had treed him and a companion, Charles Cannon.

The bear charged, Mang said, while he and his companion were walking through woods near Salisbury. As the animal charged, Mang and Cannon climbed adjacent trees. But that failed to halt the bear.

It climbed up Mang's tree, bit him on the leg and then the tree broke. Both fell to the ground.

Mang tried another tree. This time, he said, the bear stayed on the ground.

One hour later, the animal departed. The men followed. Mang was carried from the woods on Cannon's shoulder and taken to a physician.

Retreating from the city they defended so long and valiantly, Basque soldiers of Bilbao, on the northern coast of Spain, wrecked this bridge and such other public transportation facilities as they could, before entry of General Franco's invading Rightist army. Surrender of Bilbao was first in more than seven centuries of the ancient seaport's history.

NAME JENNINGS IN PEABODY HOLDUPS

Jarvis Jennings, 26, held for the shooting of Patrolman Thomas G. Supple in a Dorchester apartment, was picked out of the lineup at police headquarters today in connection with two Peabody holdups.

George Tsouklaris of Winthrop street, Peabody, an employe of a night club in that city, identified Jennings as one of the three gunmen who slugged him after lining up 11 customers on the night of June 12 and escaped with $90.

The second Peabody man, Edward J. Phelan of Margin street, said Jennings was one of an armed trio who came into the office of the athletic equipment company where he is employed and demanded the payroll on the afternoon of June 18.

DELIVERED EARLIER

Phelan said the bandits missed the payroll since it had been delivered the day previous. He said the gunmen left.

According to police, Jennings admitted he was living at a Peabody hotel three weeks ago but denied any participation in either of the holdups. At the time Jennings said he was living in Peabody, Boston police were searching for him in New York City.

Police said Jennings would be placed in the lineup tomorrow morning to be viewed by other holdup victims of Greater Boston.

Captain Thomas F. Mulrey of the Fields Corner station revealed today that two pistols, either one of which may have been the weapon that shot Patrolman Supple, have been seized in New York City.

Captain Mulrey said he had asked New York police to pick up an automobile in their city and in the machine were the guns. The car bore Maine plates, but under a seat were a pair of Massachusetts dealers' plates stolen from a Wellesley garage.

Labor Circles Here Mourn Death of Dan M'Donald

Boston labor circles today mourned the death of Daniel J. McDonald, executive secretary-treasurer of the Allied Printing Trades Council for the past 40 years.

The oldest American labor leader in point of consecutive service, McDonald died in his home, 41 High street, Charlestown, at the age of 65 yesterday.

He was a member of the Elks, the Knights of Columbus, the Franklin Society and the Hayes Outing Club.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Susan McDonald, Revere; a daughter, Mrs. Daniel J. Sheehan of Melrose; five sisters, Miss Sadie A. McDonald, Mrs. Catherine McKeatney and Mrs. Eugene McCarthy, all of Revere, Mrs. Frank Corburn of Brockton and Mrs. Fred Wickens of Lowell, and two brothers, William A. and Charles A., of Revere.

He will be buried in Holy Cross Cemetery Thursday following solemn requiem high mass at 10 a. m. in St. Mary's Church, Charlestown.

LOTTERY CHIEF GIVEN YEAR

Sentence of a year and a day was imposed today in federal court on John P. Cooley, 44, of Longmeadow, Springfield, after he pleaded guilty on two counts of using the mails in a scheme to defraud.

The charges grew out of Cooley's alleged operation of a fake Canadian sweepstakes during the past four years, during which he is said to have garnered thousands of dollars.

Assistant United States Attorney Henry M. Leen told Judge Hugh D. McLellan that the only thing Canadian about Cooley's Canadian lottery was its name—Canadian Lottery Ltd.

Periodically, according to the prosecutor, Cooley sent circulars out to subscribers, carrying a list of fake winners and figures purporting to show that about $40,000 had been distributed in prizes.

The court was also told that Cooley on one occasion was arrested by local officers and placed on probation in Springfield court for operating his lottery, but that a short time after his release he started the lottery once more.

INN WRECKED BY BLAST

Shrewsbury, June 29—A gunpowder blast, the second in seven months at the Village Inn, a roadside restaurant on the Boston Turnpike, rocked the west end of this village today.

Police and firemen, rushing to the building, found the floors lifted off the cross beams, windows blown out and the buildings askew as walls sagged.

DOWD BLASTS SOLONS ON WPA CUTS HERE

"Senators in Washington are protecting hens by law and letting the people of Boston starve," declared Councilor John F. Dowd today as he launched a vigorous protest against Works Progress Administrators discharges.

As members of the Federal writers' project picketed in protest against a threatened 25 per cent reduction in personnel, the city council wired the state delegation in Congress to demand Federal explanation for [illegible] discrimination against Massachusetts and American citizens in Massachusetts.

Local officials of WPA projects today [illegible] demands by the [illegible] American citizens [illegible] and the Boston Welfare department was [illegible] to [illegible] dismissed [illegible] workers [illegible] relief immediately.

"American money is being spent on jobs and the money is going to aliens and favored men and women and yet we have not heard a word from our senators," Dowd said today.

"I say to the mayor, congressmen and senators that it is about time they get on the job.

"Can anyone deny that if there is anyone to be fed that it be Americans, that if anyone is to be kept at work it be Americans?

"We never get a fair share in Massachusetts but whenever there is a cut to be made, Massachusetts is always hit unfairly.

"These men (in Washington) get high salaries, live on the fat of the land, and forget that back in Boston live the people who made their positions possible. But there is a day of reckoning coming."

Dowd pointed out that in New York state there are five times as many WPA workers as in Massachusetts, but that only 21,000 persons were laid off payrolls as compared to 20,000 in this state.

There is no [illegible] the educational and informational [illegible] of radio has been far out[illegible] entertainment features. For the last 15 years or ever since radio began to be a household necessity, there has been a good deal of talk about emphasizing educational programs over the air.

Good Hours Lacking for Educational Talks

I won't say that nothing has come of it, but I do say that the difficulties in the way of furnishing good programs have made the whole business very discouraging.

Fifteen years ago when I first started education [illegible] for the State University Extension under James A. Moyer and Dennis A. Dooley, the division was able to secure excellent half-hour [illegible] on evening programs, both in Boston and Springfield, two centers naturally well [illegible] for educational programs. Today it is almost impossible to secure time for educational features, other than 15-minute snippets of [illegible] in morning or afternoon. Evening hours are impossible to secure.

Fifteen years ago an evening educational program I gave, for which a charge was actually made for printed notes, used to receive responses from every state east of the Mississippi, a good many Canadian provinces, and even Labrador. Today the chain systems have destroyed all that.

Entertainment Growing More Stupid and Dull

Today such a program as that which I have conducted for over a year, the Yankee Minute Men, devoted to the interests of and information about New England, can be carried on only through the interest and the public spirit of the owner of the station. Everywhere as you look about you can see the large promises of other days regarding educational opportunities through radio dwindling into perfunctory and [illegible] programs in which the entertainment [illegible] far outweighs the education.

If Dr. Angell is going to try to do something [illegible] he has got to buck very powerful [illegible] forces now almost impregnable [illegible] the usable wave lengths. [illegible] is as yet no solution. The truth [illegible] available for enter[illegible] which, according to the old [illegible] is getting more and [illegible] vulgar.

Birdmen Tourney Resumes

OPENING DAY 'WASHED OUT'

The third annual New England championship model plane tournament for the Junior Birdmen of America "washed out" by a drizzling rain yesterday continued at Franklin Field today.

Despite overcast skies more than 2000 people gathered to watch the contest yesterday and an equal number is expected today. The Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser are the sponsors of the event.

The rain cut short the hand-launched stick model contest after it had been in progress but one hour. In the lead at the time was Robert E. Shea of Brighton with a time of two minutes.

OTHER WINNERS

Second was Constantine Pappas of Dorchester, 1.54; Emery Ryder of Haverhill, 1.51; Charles Freeman of Roxbury, 1.12, and Stephen J. Sardella, 1.31.8.

Shea's achievement with a fourth place in the hand-launched glider contest puts him in first place for the wing championship. There is, however, another hour of the stick model contest to be run off this afternoon, and Shea may be displaced.

All times made in the contest will be credited to competitors and the event goes on from there. Also to be run off today is the rise-off ground cabin model contest, [illegible] of the three divisions. The winner in each event is given 100 points, second [illegible] third 50, 25 and 10.

The boy who gets the greatest total will win the Boston American silver trophy.

He will also be sent all expenses paid to Atlanta, Ga., in August to compete with birdmen from all over the country for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy and cash.

WINS SECOND PLACE

In second place for the grand total lead was Gordon Cain of Hyde Park, by virtue of a win in the first event, the glider class. For that, he picked up 100 points and a red ribbon. His time was three minutes 21 seconds. Second was Sidney Wallerstein of Roxbury, 1.20; third, John Golden of Brookline, 1.9; fourth, Robert Shea of Brighton, 1.3.8, and fifth, Raymond Morley of Waltham, 1.24.

Army and navy planes zoomed overhead during the flights of the model planes, dipping their wings in salute; planes of the Coast Guard, American Air Lines, Inter-City Airlines, E. W. Wiggins Dennison Airport and East Coast Airways also swooped low under a [illegible]-foot ceiling to greet the future pilots of New England.

SOLDIERS AS TIMERS

Soldiers from the Army Base were timers, 16 police officers assigned by Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty, were on duty, as were 30 boy scouts in charge of Scout Master Randolph C. Wills and Eaton Chapman of Everett. The contest arena was staked out by personnel of Park Commissioner W. P. Long's department.

All contestants and all who win any place in the final scoring are to be given some trophy.

Officials are headed by the honorary directors, Carl Dreyfus, publisher; John A. Malloy, editor and John W. Kenney, circulation manager of the Boston Evening American.

Foresters to Fete 52nd Anniversary

Carroll Court, Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters, will celebrate its 52nd anniversary tomorrow evening with a banquet in Forestry Hall, Jamaica Plain.

James Donnelly, a member of the order for fifty years, will be presented with a gold badge on this occasion. Chief Ranger Leon Dannehoeffer, will preside.

By sundown their tented city will be ready for a program ranging from simultaneous [illegible] and nightly pageants to a review next week by President Roosevelt.

A bomb from a trench mortar will signal scouts and their leaders to unfurl 1634 American, foreign and Scout flags tomorrow at 9 A. M., formally opening the Jamboree. A dozen combined Scout bands and bugle corps will play the National Anthem.

In looking over old company records, Herbert Baldwin of the Boston and Maine railroad came across this order issued by a division superintendent 40 years ago:

"Conductors and brakemen will allow women wearing white shirtwaists to get on and off trains without assistance."

Sounds like discrimination, but the ladies [illegible] hands of the trainmen weren't always white. With the best of intentions a trainman might help a pretty lady down, only to send her on her way to a lawn party with a huge black smudge imprinted on the back of her ensemble.

So far as Publicity Man Baldwin knows, the order has never been rescinded, although it's been years since a trainman saw a shirtwaist!

Persecution Problem
N. Y. Citizen Incites
The Baseball Players

TALK OF UNIONIZING THE BASEBALL WORKERS has reared its horns again. This time a private citizen, who says he is impelled by no more selfish motives than a wish to help his fellow man, has circularized the major league players in re to forming a bargaining unit to deal with the owners.

AUSTEN LAKE

The citizen, whose name is James Merrill, with a mail address in New York's Furious Forties, says that now is the time for all ball toilers to lift the iron heel off their necks.

The leaflet which the Red Sox found in their fan mail the other day said that they were artists with unique talents, like the Hollywood actors, and should insist in a fairer distribution of the wealth which they were accumulating for the club owners, who were just another form of capitalistic octopi.

MARBLE Lass Wins MATCH

DEFEATS MME. SPERLING

Wimbledon, Eng., June 29 (AP)—Alice Marble, United States titleholder, gained the semi-finals of the all-England tennis championships today, defeating the second seeded favorite, Mme. Hilda Krahwinkel Sperling of Denmark and Germany, 7—5, 2—6, 6—3.

Miss Marble will meet Jadwiga Jedrzejowska of Poland in Thursday's semifinals.

The former German cross-country runner, Mme. Sperling, had a tremendous advantage in reach over the American champion and for a time it appeared as though Miss Marble were doomed to defeat.

All even after two sets, Mme. Sperling captured the first three games of the final set and appeared on her way to victory. But Miss Marble, seeded fifth, broke up Mme. Sperling's monotonous pace with tricky dropshots and won the next six games in a row for set and match.

The final game was a tense, see-saw deuce battle with Miss Marble finally winning with a stinging backhand drive by the German star went sailing over the base line.

Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, hard-hitting Polish girl, reached the semi-finals at the expense of Margaret "Peggy" Scriven of England, 6—1, 6—2. Mme. Rene Mathieu, veteran French woman, upset the favored Chilean ace, Anita Lizana, 6—3, 6—3.

Miss Marble allowed Mme. Sperling only two points in taking the first two games of their quarter-finals duel but rain forced a temporary halt at that point. Miss Marble won the first set, 7—5.

The American champion steadied after running into a series of errors midway through the opening set and finally won it in the 12th game. At one stage Mme. Sperling needed only two points for the set, but in this crisis Miss Marble broke the German star's service and went on to win. The American girl was playing a smashing game at the net.

The long-legged Mme. Sperling led 3—2 in the second set when rain again halted play temporarily.

Mme. Sperling won the second set 6—2, squaring the match. In the third round of men's doubles, Charles Hare and F. H. D. Wilde of Great Britain defeated their compatriots H. G. N. Cooper and Robert Tinkler, 6—1, 6—2, 6—2. Fumiteru Nakano and Jiro Yamagishi of Japan defeated R. F. C. Nichols and D. H. Williams of Great Britain 6—4, 6—4, 6—0.

In the final set, Mme. Sperling jumped into a 3-0 lead but the American champion hit her peak, reeled off the next six games in succession and took set and match.

Fight chatter: Jack Patrill, Flint, Mich., promoter, has offered Sixto Escobar $15,000 to defend his bantamweight title against K. O. Morgan in Flint sometime during the summer . . .

Pedro Montanez, the light weight, leaves Puerto Rico to day to finish training for his ten rounder with Frankie Wallace of Cleveland, July 4.

Arturo Godoy, the big Chilean, is lining up on the Coast for a July fight with Big Boy Bray in San Francisco.

Henry Armstrong, Al Jolson's crack featherweight, has begun training here for a ten rounder with [illegible] of Australia in Madison Square Garden, July 8 . . . Last time Armstrong was East he went out of his class to beat Lightweight Aldo Spoldi.

Tazio Nuvolari, who won last year's Vanderbilt Cup race, thinks the re-designing of the Roosevelt Raceway will keep him from repeating next Saturday . . . Every change they've made favors the Germans, says Tazio.

THROWS EITHER WAY

Over in Brooklyn, Red Luzin of the Quincy A. A. throws righthanded when playing the outfield, but turns southpaw when he goes on the hill . . . The proposal to organize big league ball players leaves the Yankees cold . . . Stewards at Rockingham Park have told the jockeys they don't mean maybe about this rough riding business . . . All the principals in the 1,500 meter run in the National A. A. U. track meet at Milwaukee next Saturday are native middle westerners.

George M. Cohan's "March of the Cardinals" dedicated to the St. Louis Gas House Gang, is being sold in sheet music form . . . E. J. Baker of St. Charles, Ill., has the distinction of owning the fastest trotter and pacer now campaigning in Greyhound 1.57¼ and Cardinal Prince 1.58¼.

Sep Palin, Baker's trainer, has just laid $1000 on the line to bind an international race between Greyhound and the Mussolini-owned Muscleton this summer . . . The nine Carson boys form what is believed to be the only soft ball team in the country composed entirely of brothers . . .

Archie Templeton, the young strikeout king the Cards found in a North Carolina orphanage, has been sent to the Shelby team in the N. C. State League for seasoning and whiffed 18 batters in his pro debut.

JACK GOING ON HIGH

Jack Doyle, the Irish heavy heavyweight who may be Joe Louis' next opponent has started his training by touring the night spots . . . Mike Jacobs thinks the Comiskey Park layout is better suited for a big fight than the Yankee Stadium.

The fine work of young Sammy Hall, Montreal's pint-sized second baseman, continues to draw rave notices all around the International League wheel . . . Jack Sharkey, golden glove middleweight champion, has been flooded with offers to turn pro . . . No less than four smart New York managers are following him around.

Won't be long now till the football news starts easing into the papers.

Giants Have Chance to Take Lead

By Associated Press

For the sake of their pennant chances, it must be hoped that the New York Giants back in the days of their [illegible] and [illegible] studied closely the parable of the little dog that ran away with the bone while two big dogs were fighting over it.

As [illegible] was repeated today, when, as fronts [illegible] the eastern and western teams at [illegible] each circuit, the Giants found themselves in much the same spot as that [illegible] the pup.

While from now until the all-star game on July 7 they will be disporting against the National League second division outfits, the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs will play each other five times.

This morning the standing found the Cubs in front by seven points and half a game over the Cards, ten points and half a game over the Giants.

While the two front-runners are knocking each other off—the Cubs also have a four-game set with the Pirates on tap — a reasonable amount of "breaks" may bring the New Yorkers back into the lead they relinquished to Chicago just two weeks ago.

CUBS TOUGH

The Cubs, of course, are going to be tough to dislodge. Since their pitching staff returned to its normally healthy state some time ago, it has been running like a well-lubricated machine, with each of seven hurlers credited with four or more victories.

Larry French, Charley Root and Tex Carleton are bracketed at the four-won notch. Next comes Roy Parmelee, at five; then Clay Bryant and Clyde Shoun, tied at six, with Bill Lee tops at seven. That accounts for all of the Cub triumphs.

The Cardinals' pitching strength is almost entirely concentrated in three men—Dizzy Dean, who has won eleven games; Lonnie Warneke, who has won nine, and Lefty Bob Weiland who has won six.

Credited with 6 of the 35 games the Redbirds have won, the St. Louis elbowers are the ones who will have benefitted most by yesterday's scheduled day of rest.

Where three men have shouldered the pitching burden for the Gas House gang, and seven have distributed it evenly for the Cubs, the Giants have struck some sort of balance between the two extremes. Bill Terry's revamped "big four" consists of Carl Hubbell, ten game winner; Hal Schumacher and Slick Castleman seven each, and Cliff Melton, six.

EASY PICKING

Off the standings, the Giants should have fairly easy pickings between now and the all-star game at Washington a week from tomorrow. They have four games on tap with the Bees with whom they've split even in six games so far, but who since then have lost 13 of their last 16 and slipped into the cellar; three with the seventh place Phillies, and one with the Dodgers who, although they did end Hubbell's winning streak, have won only one other game from the Giants in seven tries.

There's always the chance, of course, that the Cubs, who so far this season hold a 5-2 edge on the Cardinals, will take this opportunity to increase both that margin and their first-place lead. In that case even a strict attention to parables probably wouldn't do the Giants much good.

Swamp Angel in 9th Best Dog at Taunton

By MAT KEENEY

Taunton, June 29—Swamp Angel, in the Sportsmen's Park Derby, is my best bet on the card tonight. And though the overnight handicap line makes him a favorite, there's no guarantee he goes to the post in the choice position on the tote board.

This is the final night of the Sportsmen's Park meeting and a capacity gathering is anticipated. Tomorrow night the Bristol County Kennel Club meeting opens and with the [illegible] on the card another fine program is assured.

The handicap:

FIRST RACE—FUTURITY
JUMBO, BLACK MOMENT, TUFFY HARE

PP	Dog	Owner	Wt	P Odds
3	Jumbo	J. Prevatt	65	4-2
6	Black Moment	O. Beckner	61	4-1
2	Tuffy Hare	J. Fortier	58	5-1
5	Little Nemo	C. Shively	59	5-1
1	Rosa Son	F. Falk	63	8-1
7	Happy Chap	F. Palermo	59	8-1
3	Black Runner	W. Bryant	64	10-1
6	Dizzy Hare	F. Spencer	63	10-1

JUMBO has [illegible] tonight. BLACK MOMENT [illegible]. TUFFY HARE [illegible].

SECOND RACE—5-16 MILE
POLLY WOG, BEAVERSTEIN, COLUMBIA RIVER

5	Polly Wog	F. Athanasaw	63	7-2
8	Beaverstein	F. Stutz	58	7-2
2	Columbia River	Premier Ken.	67	6-1
6	Lively Mistress	K. Stephenson	47	6-1
4	Real Shy	Cedar Point Ken	63	8-1
1	Santy Hare	F. Spencer	60	8-1
7	Cadet Blue	H. Bryant	66	10-1
3	Elk Park	J. Williams	65	10-1

POLLY WOG has the late foot to make it dangerous here and on that account gets the call for top honors. BEAVERSTEIN is being dropped and should prove a dangerous dog. COLUMBIA RIVER likes the distance and is a good money hazard.

THIRD RACE—FUTURITY PIN RAIL, BLACK MOON, CLICK

5	Pin Rail	J. Fortier	64	5-1
2	Black Moon	R. Breese Ken.	64½	7-2
8	Click	H. Spencer	61	5-1
1	Gay Linda	W. Prevatt	52	6-1
6	Top Hill	Cedar Point Ken	54	6-1
7	Allaway	Jess Williams	55	8-1
6	Runyon's Tavern	O. Wohlauf	63	15-1
3	Hollow Head	F. Conway	55	15-1

PIN RAIL was [illegible] and a like effort should be successful here. BLACK MOON'S schoolings have been such as to warrant money consideration. CLICK'S last was not its best and it rates a money chance.

FOURTH RACE—5-16 MILE
EVERY DAY, FARLEIGHSTOWN, SIR WINDSON

7	Every Day	J. Williams	68	7-2
2	Farleighstown	W. Shallcross	73	4-1
3	Sir Windson	W. Lee Bryant	63	4-1
5	Demonstrator	C. Looney	60	6-1
8	Rogue River	Premier Kennel	60	6-1
1	Meadow Roy	Jess Williams	60	8-1
4	Wheeler	F. Rhine	63	8-1
6	Col. Jamestown	O. Wohlauf	65	10-1

The extra distance should prove to EVERY DAY'S liking as its best foot seems late in the race. FARLEIGHSTOWN, a consistent router, figures close. Off one of its good races SIR WINDSON is dangerous.

FIFTH RACE—FUTURITY
TANTA, ALLA FAME, LADY S.

5	Tanta	L. Butterworth	60	2-1
2	Alla Fame	Premier Ken	59	4-1
4	Lady S.	C. Looney	61	5-1
2	Easiest Way	L. Burnett	58	6-1
3	Double Up	W. Bryant	58	6-1
8	The Corp'l Major	C. Shively	68	8-1
7	Vernon Glee	F. Stutz	60½	8-1
1	Fulton's Leader	O. Beckner	61½	10-1

TANTA comes off the schooling list for this and recent efforts in that department indicate fitness to win. ALLA FAME a [illegible] LADY S. seems [illegible].

SIXTH RACE—5-16 MILE
JUST SONNY, DETOUR, PLAYHOUSE

6	Just Sonny	Glenwood Ken	51	3-1
4	Detour	O. Dahlberg	74½	4-1
5	Playhouse	F. Stutz	73	4-1
[illegible]	Oregon Chief	C. Shively	59	6-1
2	Poona Play	J. Highhouse	49	8-1
3	Mystic Shrine	H. Bagwell	64	8-1
6	Prairie Moon	W. Bryant	51	10-1
1	Singing Breeze	F. Palermo	65	[illegible]

[illegible] DETOUR [illegible] PLAYHOUSE [illegible] MYSTIC [illegible].

SEVENTH RACE—5-16 MILE
TUG TONE, SPACE, PEPPER ROLL

6	Tug Tone	F. Boone	64	7-2
1	Space	J. Ayotte	68	4-1
4	Pepper Roll	Glenwood Ken	63	4-1
7	Romona Breeze	S. Breeze K.	60	6-1
5	Adstate	F. Rhine	56	6-1
8	Tarzan Breeze	F. Palermo	71	8-1
2	Royal Link	H. Spencer	61	8-1
3	Brave Show	J. Highhouse	62	10-1

EIGHTH RACE—FUTURITY
GOLLY MAN, ANOTHER CHORD, FAWN LEADER

7	Golly Man	J. Highhouse	75	5-2
2	Another Chord	F. Stutz	69½	4-1
4	Fawn Leader	F. Falk	63½	4-1
3	My Bugger	Standard Ken	65	6-1
1	Jack Kre han	F. Spencer	63	8-1
6	Wise Dream	C. Burnett	47½	8-1
5	Golden Chief	O. Dahlberg	59½	10-1
8	Hilton Lodge	F. Conway	66½	12-1

NINTH RACE—5-16 MILE
SWAMP ANGEL, CAULD RAIL, GLEEFUL
(SPORTSMEN'S PARK DERBY)

6	Swamp Angel	Standard Ken	53	2-1
2	Cauld Rail	M. Sparks	67	9-2
1	Gleeful	Jess Williams	70	6-1
3	My Sherry	Glenwood	54	7-1
8	Princess Ann	Cedar Point K	57	7-1
4	Pilgrim	G. Rogers	64	8-1
5	Crisy	L. Butterworth	45½	8-1
7	Parada	J. Highhouse	68	8-1

SWAMP ANGEL won its Derby [illegible] the [illegible] but he will have to run all the way to [illegible] CAULD RAIL which [illegible] home in the first [illegible]. GLEEFUL, breaking from the middle box, must be seriously considered in this field. The fast breaking PRINCESS ANN, if she reaches the first turn clean, will take [illegible] of beating to be out of the money. It's only the outside posting which renders her chances not overly good. PILGRIM will be dangerous.

TENTH RACE—FUTURITY
WAGTAIL, OLLER BOY, UPSTART

1	Wagtail	B. Chambers	59	3-1
7	Oller Boy	T. Baird	61	3-1
4	Upstart	F. Boone	58	4-1
6	Bob Marshall	J. Athanasaw	60	7-1
8	Mr. Rol	J. Boone	62	6-1
3	Badger's Best	Nar'gansett K	60	8-1
2	Jovial Joker	F. Stutz	66½	10-1
5	Loper	J. Highhouse	68	12-1

WAGTAIL'S [illegible] makes him best [illegible]. OLLER BOY [illegible]. UPSTART [illegible] in the money if the going is clear.

Boots Melody 'Tops' At Revere Dog Oval

By SAM COHEN

BEST BET—BOOTS MELODY

Boots Melody figures right on top in the sixth race at Wonderland Park tonight and appears to be the best bet on the card.

The eighth race feature is as usual a wide open race. Saint Andrew, who has been coming close, may be the right one although Tailspin Breeze figures right up close.

FIRST RACE—5-16 MILE
ARCHIE BOWEN, LADY'S CLASS, BATTLE ANDREW

PP	Dog	Owner	Wt	P Odds
2	Archie Bowen	Sid Manor	66	2-1
7	Lady's Class	H. Alderson	50	5-1
4	Battle Andrew	Homer Busill	69	9-2
6	Buck Whirlwind	Dan Cahill	60	4-1
2	Chief Kitty	Mrs. Failing	68	6-1
8	Dancing Duke	R. B. Carroll	72	8-1
5	Tu Way	W. Worthington	65	7-2
1	Bren Brack	Freda Roosts	67	8-1

ARCHIE BOWEN is in cheaper company. His last effort showed he was ready [illegible]. LADY'S CLASS is right and figures to be close. BATTLE ANDREW, on a top effort, could land it.

SECOND RACE—FUTURITY
TRAIL SMOKE, STORM CLOUD, WISE COYOTE

5	Trail Smoke	G. Lippold, Jr	62	9-2
2	Storm Cloud	Sid Manor	61	4-1
7	Wise Coyote	Arch DeGeer	65	4-1
4	Just Whoopee	J. Peeck	64	8-1
1	Running Buck	C. Gasparello	61	8-1
4	Lost Note	Dennis Allen	58½	7-2
8	Lone Cavalier	Dan Cahill	60	5-1
2	Count Bedgrove	D. Leahy	73	8-1

TRAIL SMOKE should smoke out the box of dogs. STORM CLOUD will lead the pack and should save enough for second place. WISE COYOTE is improving and was in contention.

THIRD RACE—5-16 MILE
CLARKE, MY FASHION, SPEEDY JAMES

3	Clarke	H. E. Alderson	65	9-2
3	My Fashion	F. W. Jones	63	10-1
6	Speedy James	Gus Maies	61	6-2
4	Capricious	John Peeck	67	6-1
7	Shimalong	Jess Bingham	61	4-1
7	Twinkle's Laddie	Whittington	57	7-1
1	Lively Court	Dan Oswald	59	9-1
5	My Desire	H. Highhouse	67	8-1

CLARKE must run the best to win a decision over this band of routers. MY FASHION may put a feather in its cap and land in the money with a good pay-off. SPEEDY JAMES has what it takes to get right in the [illegible].

FOURTH RACE—FUTURITY
JEFF DEVIL, VAGABOND BREEZE, DR. MIKE

7	Jeff Devil	W. R. Highhouse	60	9-2
6	Vagabond Breeze	G. Lippold, Jr	74½	6-1
2	Dr. Mike	Charles M. Hall	52	6-1
5	Prince Irishman	H. Frisch	61½	7-2
3	Decent Pal	D. Callaghan	65	8-2
6	Dedication	Gus Maies	64	5-1
4	Smokey	Merton S. Ward	64	8-1
1	Bumped Off	Bud Sunday	65	8-1

JEFF DEVIL showed plenty of foot in his last start and might be with a single [illegible] with VAGABOND BREEZE [illegible] down and should be a nice price. DR. MIKE has plenty of early foot and [illegible].

FIFTH RACE—5-16 MILE
BEAUTY WINNER, TOUGH GAL, CARGO

6	Beauty Winner	John Allen	65	5-1
2	Tough Gal	F. W. Jones	52	7-1
7	Cargo	Sid Manor	56	[illegible]
3	Whoopee's Andrew	R. Carroll	61	7-2
1	Tennis Court	Dan Oswald	66	5-1
3	Mutton Roast	J. W. Randall	64	9-2
2	Just Show Em	H. Franklin	65	8-1
4	Side Traffic	Gus Maies	66	6-1

BEAUTY WINNER ran into a peck of trouble her last out, but with LADY LUCK on her side should breeze to a win. TOUGH GAL had some impressive schooling [illegible] gets the call. CARGO for the short end.

SIXTH RACE—FUTURITY
BOOTS MELODY, RINGING BREEZE, DUSKY DUCHESS

8	Boots Melody	John Allen	61	9-2
2	Ringing Breeze	G. Lippold, Jr	58	6-1
3	Dusky Duchess	Dennis Allen	58	4-1
8	Macrag	D. Callaghan	58	8-1
7	Even Wager	Dennis Leahy	68	7-2
4	Act Desperate	Arch DeGeer	67	4-1
1	Go Jess	Bingham	60	10-1
5	Windy Grove	L. W. Randall	60	3-1

BOOTS MELODY has plenty of class [illegible]. RINGING BREEZE [illegible] competition. DUSKY DUCHESS is ready.

SEVENTH RACE—5-16 MILE
GANGSTER CAP, SUNDOWN FRIEND, RECESS

3	Gangster Cap	John Peeck	66	4-1
4	Sundown Friend	F. W. Jones	74	5-1
6	Recess	J. E. Miles	59	9-2
1	Grey Mark	R. E. Randle	6?	[illegible]
2	Dummy	Dennis Leahy	65	6-1
5	Rage Bye Bye	J. Bingham	65	7-2
7	Lucky Horsham	Gus Maies	61	10-1
8	Watchful Ann	M. Failing	60	15-1

GANGSTER CAP must run his very best to beat this box of top notchers but he is tough and ready. SUNDOWN FRIEND needs only a place to run in. RECESS has plenty of [illegible].

EIGHTH RACE—5-16 MILE
SAINT ANDREW, TAILSPIN BREEZE, ALWAYS BYE

1	Saint Andrew	H. Ruell	73	6-1
6	Tailspin Breeze	G. Lippold, Jr	69	7-2
7	Always Bye	H. Franklin	70	6-1
2	Gangster's Mickey	D. Allen	51½	5-2
4	Rolling Larry	Bud Sunday	60	6-1
5	Hemp	Jess Bingham	68	10-1
3	Gangster's Shadow	J. Peeck	70	9-2
8	Ben Officer	J. W. Randall	62	7-1

SAINT ANDREW has been pounding [illegible]. TAILSPIN BREEZE will [illegible] distance and company to his liking and shapes up as dangerous. ALWAYS BYE is long overdue and figures close.

NINTH RACE—FUTURITY
WILFUL, REBA NELL, SPEEDY LAD

2	Wilful	Art Wilson	57	7-2
7	Reba Nell	Cherry Val Ken	60	3-1
3	Speedy Lad	Jess Bingham	70	5-1
6	High Roll	J. E. Miles	69	8-1
4	Fawn Rhea	L. W. Randall	73	7-2
8	Hazard Laddie	H. Highhouse	67	6-1
1	Police Court	Dan Oswald	63	8-1
5	Easter John	Bud Sunday	65	7-1

WILFUL is the class here and should be the best bet on the card. REBA NELL has a world of speed and figures [illegible]. SPEEDY LAD should be up in time for the show end.

All-Star Players Worth 5 Million

New York, June 29 (INS)—Five million dollars worth of baseball players will be on parade at the all-star game in Washington July 7.

At least, that was the "conservative estimate" of the value of the 23 stars of each major league made today by Ed Barrow, general manager of the Yankees who has been dealing in baseball ivory for almost half a century.

"In fact," said Barrow, "you couldn't buy most of these players for $100,000 each in the open market. If Joe Cronin alone brought $250,000, what would you say Lou Gehrig, Charley Gehringer, Dizzy Dean, Carl Hubbell, Hank Greenberg or Joe DiMaggio were worth?"

BEST 'Rock' Bet OF DAY

IN MAPLEWOOD $2500 STAKES

By DAVE WILSON

Selections for fast track
BEST BET—SMOKE SIGNAL, 4th RACE

Rockingham Park, N. H., June 29—Manhasset Stable's Smoke Signal, coming off several corking efforts in top flight company at Suffolk Downs, looks like a "spread" in the $2500 added Maplewood Stakes, five and one half furlongs feature here today.

Smoke Signal has been going great guns in morning trials over the local oval and will be coming up trained to the minute.

FIRST—High Finance, Jolly, Browneyed Pat

HIGH FINANCE, second to Coya and Tutticurio in his lone two starts this year, should experience little difficulty in showing the way home to this weak group of non winners in 1937. JOLLY, third to Prince Danny in last race and second to Long Bit in previous effort, figures next best in what appears to be strictly a two horse race. BROWNEYED PAT, a beaten favorite last trip, may improve enough to save show honors.

SECOND—James River, Lady Democrat, Palatine

JAMES RIVER, which has been knocking on the door in recent starts, is easily the class of the weak platers down to contest honors here. The George D. Widener cast-off flashed excellent form in his only outing of the current meeting and finished a hangup second to Dormido. LADY DEMOCRAT, second to Stone Martin in his last race, is the only danger. PALATINE, on top form, shapes up well in the fight for the short end, but will have to show marked improvement.

THIRD—Sanctity, Distract, The Bailiff

SANCTITY showed lack of racing condition in his seasonal debut at Suffolk Downs and finished a dead short third to Pharatime and Distract. With expected improvement the one-time Vanderbilt star stake runner should experience little difficulty in making the accounting in this number. DISTRACT won his Suffolk Downs final very impressively, beating Sir Rose and others on a heavy track. On performance, he is strictly the danger. THE BAILIFF closed a big gap to finish second to Medusa Dies in his last race.

FOURTH—Smoke Signal, Sure Cloud, Cravat

Barring racing misfortune SMOKE SIGNAL figures to be returned the easiest winner on the card. Contention may be furnished by the faint hearted SURE CLOUD. The latter displayed high early speed to open up a long early lead in his last race but folded in the stretch drive like an accordion to finish a distant fourth to Liberty Flight. CRAVAT came from out of the clouds to eke out a nose decision over Folk Dance in a maiden race at Suffolk Downs. May be heaps better than rated, but I just can't see him heading the top selection.

FIFTH—Virnock, Abaddon, Gallant Eagle

VIRNOCK was rushed off his feet getting to the lead in his last race and tired badly in the stretch drive to finish out of the money. Under a better ride, he should easily emerge triumphant in this $3500 top and $3000 bottom claimer. ABADDON, which won the above mentioned race, will have a weight shift of eleven pounds against him but he looms all over the main danger.

SIXTH—Buster Boy, Uncle Fred, Ashen.

BUSTER BOY, [illegible] a runaway express, came from out of the clouds to finish a bangup second to Monsoon in a swifty run six-furlongs sprint only a few days back. Believe the mile and one sixteenth route will be right to measure. UNCLE FRED, third to Apprentice and Count Te[illegible] in last race, may outlast ASHEN for place honors.

SEVENTH—Flagstone, Garden Message, Strange Times.

FLAGSTONE'S last race was probably intended as a conditioner [illegible] and it should have served to put him on razor edge for this race. When [illegible] the A. C. Compton [illegible] is a mighty capable steed in this sort of company. GARDEN MESSAGE is the top selection [illegible] a bad-legged animal, but he also holds a trace of class. He out-gamed Xandra on a muddy track only a few days back. STRANGE TIMES, third to Baby Sweep in last race, is really the top figure horse.

EIGHTH—Happy Flag, Mr. Bun, Playline

HAPPY FLAG was closer up than usual, turning off the backstretch in her last race but lost all chance when she ran into a blind alley at the quarter pole. With clear sailing, the American flag filly may upset the highly fancied MR. BUN for major honors. The latter is dropping down, and on latter is dropping down and on [illegible] figures the stoutest sort of contender.

Braddock Offered McCoy Bout Here | McCoy-Louis Go Brennan's Goal

By JACK CONWAY

EDDIE MACK has wired Jimmy Braddock an offer of 42½ per cent of the gate to meet Al McCoy, New England heavyweight champion, in a 12-round bout at National League Park . . . John Roxborough and Julian Black, managers of Joe Louis, told me that in the event of McCoy getting a crack at the champion the tussle would have to be staged in Detroit or New York . . . They claim the match would draw more money in Detroit or New York than in Boston.

Bill Brennan, McCoy's pilot, would like to see the bout come to this city, and insists it would draw $750,000 here with fans coming to see the tussle from all parts of New England and from Canada.

Mr. Boston

McCoy will clash with Abe Feldman in Montreal next month, and will later step into Toronto to collide with King Levinsky or some other heavyweight thumper . . . Large Dan Carroll, who was at the ringside when Louis knocked out Braddock, declares McCoy would have beaten both men if he had been given the opportunity to meet them . . . Carroll does not believe Louis is as good a fighter as he was when he knocked out Max Baer and Primo Carnera . . . Dan claims Louis has lost his former ring fire.

You could not rate Louis as a great heavyweight on his showing against Braddock . . . Any one of a dozen heavyweights could have beaten the aged Braddock in Chicago . . . Jack McCarthy, who was one of Braddock's sparring partners, boasts he used to cuff Jimmy around during training sessions . . . Austen Lake informs me McCarthy looked as good as Braddock during their training camp bouts . . . McCarthy is back in Boston again, and would like to meet Al McCoy . . . McCarthy weighs 190 pounds, and is in the best condition of his career as a result of his long training grind with Braddock.

Max Marek of Chicago, who turned in good fights here against Al McCoy and Tony Shucco, is coming back to town to toss leather at Terry Warrenton at National League Park on July 20 . . . Bill Hadley, a 135-pound colored boxer from East Norton, has the managers talking about his exceptional ring class.

WES FERRELL OR BUCK NEWSOM?

WHOM DO YOU LIKE, Wes Ferrell or Buck Newsom? . . . The proposed pitching duel between Sox and Senators flingers in Washington should help to decide this question . . . Newsom will have the break of going to the mound for the Sox while the team is red hot . . . Ben Chapman and Newsom have given the club a winning spark . . . Tom Yawkey is getting a greater kick out of the victory surge of the Sox than over the fact his baseball investment is still returning him 10 per-cent on invested capital.

I am in danger of getting thrown out of the league of habitual and confirmed 110 golfers . . . I turned in a 98 at Jack Leary's Scituate Country Club . . . Scituate and Plymouth will stage a golf tournament next month, and invite all golfers to enter . . . The links game has experienced a decided pickup at both of these clubs . . . The race tracks are not cutting in on golf as much as was the case a year ago.

Tommy Bolles is still receiving congratulations for the brilliant victory of his Harvard crew over Yale.... As one of the original boosters of the Harvard crew, I feel gratified at the success of the Bolles coached oarsmen.... The excellent spirit of the Harvard oarsmen helped make their great success possible... The Crimson oarsmen were able to step up their stroke when under terrific pressure in a close race.

O'MAHONY'S PRIZED AUTOGRAPHS

DAN O'MAHONY'S autograph is sought more than that of any other athlete with the possible exception of Dizzy Dean . . . Danno also remains the hottest box office card in wrestling despite the fact he has been a former world champion for a year . . . Yvon Robert is burning up the wrestling trails again . . . The winner of the George-Casey bout at Fenway Park will go gunning for a crack at the Frenchman.

Next to Jim Londos, Ed Don George has more money than any wrestler . . . He's a bachelor, girls! . . . Don't crowd, please! . . . Strangler Lewis earned more money than any grappler that ever lived, but tosses his cash around freely in gay parties . . . Before Jack Dempsey settled down he used to do New York with Lewis . . . Dempsey says he was stepping around with Lewis before meeting Bill Brennan . . . Which explains why he couldn't knock Brennan out until the 12th round.

'Rock' Honors Ann Marsters

Holds 'Day' for Writer Saturday

By TRACKMAN

Turfdom pays its respect this weekend to Ann Marsters, outstanding feature writer, and to the Boston Evening American Night Pink Final, New England's outstanding sports edition.

Lou Smith, Rockingham Park general manager, has named Saturday Ann Marsters Day in honor of the American's ace girl writer while the feature race will be the $5000 added Boston Evening American Night Pink Juvenile Handicap.

TO PRESENT CUP

Miss Marsters has [illegible] returned from Hollywood, where she interviewed the cinema stars and played in several motion pictures.

She will be the guest of the track management during the running of the weekend feature and will present a beautiful loving cup and wreath to the winning owner.

A total of 17 of the outstanding two-year-olds in training has been nominated for the Night Pink Final Juvenile Handicap.

The distance for the event is five furlongs.

Outstanding stables of the land including Greentree, John Hay Whitney, Wheatley, Cary T. Grayson, W. C. Stroube and Araho, have nominated several of their youngsters for the event.

Mrs. Paul Shaw, the Newton socialite, will start her Stage Beauty, winner of the Lassie Stakes here recently.

ARAHO ENTERS TWO

Huske Boy, W. C. Stroube's speed demon, will flaunt the racing silks of the Texas oil tycoon in the Juvenile event. This Bull Dog colt packs plenty of speed and will be one of the main contenders in the rich two-year-old contest.

The Araho Stable of Mrs. Walter E. O'Hara, wife of Narragansett's managing director, has named two for the race, Araho Lass and Retlaw. John Hay Whitney will select his starter from Grim Reaper, Grape Thief or Royal Rhapsody.

C. V. Whitney will race either Cravat or Handcuff, while W. H. Gallagher will name his starter from among May R, Right Lady and Miss Apprehend.

The race looms as one of the outstanding two-year-old events of the New England season.

From that point, the magnificent pitch of Nelson at the 16th and Padgham's woeful miss of a 2 footer at the 17th squared the match.

CHAMPION TEAMS

Much was expected of the all-champion team of Guldahl and Manero and they didn't disappoint at the start, the Americans getting away to a birdie and becoming 2 up on Lacey and Cox with a winning 4 at the third.

From that point, however, the Americans had to go 13 holes before again scoring with a win and they had to play splendid golf with a 74 against a 72 to stay within a one-hole deficit of the deft Englishmen.

After Guldahl had [illegible] his [illegible] by laying the first tee shot five feet from the flag for a winning birdie both sides became wayward off the tee but the British recovered more surely and [illegible] was beaten.

day for the English at the final hole.

Here, Rees' second shot hit a galleryite and rebounded to the green, while Shute's approach carried over, with the result that Sarazen had to lap his chip shot dead to get a half—which he didn't.

The cards:

MORNING ROUND

Sarazen-Shute:

Alliss and Burton, rushing home with a 36-35—71, finally topped Lacey and Cox for the low medal score of the round, and incidentally picked up a 3-hole lead on Picard and Revolta. The latter held the hot pace to the ninth, also getting a 36 to be 1 up, and were all square with the British going to the 14th, where Burton holed a 25-footer for a winning birdie.

The British then piled it on, taking the 15th with a par 3, and winning the 18th, where Picard was very weak with his approach.

Morning Round

In all, the English pair had only two holes as high as 5, namely, the ninth and tenth.

Starting the afternoon round all square, Dudley and Nelson threw a bombshell into the gallery by going three up to the turn on Cotton and Padgham, admittedly the best pair of golfers in England.

The cards:

Dudley-Nelson—
Out ..... 4 5 3 3 4 5 3 3 4—38

Cotton-Padghan—
Out 5 6 4 5 5 4 5 3 4—41

Guldahl and Manero began to click after lunch. Starting one down to Lacey and Cox, they squared the match at the 19th, went one up at the 20th, and were all-square again after the next hole.

The cards:

Guldahl-Manero
Out .... 3 4 5 5 4 5 4 2 5—37

Lacey-Cox
Out .... 4 5 4 4 4 4 5 3 5—38

Sarazen and Shute renewed hostilities all square with Whitcombe and Rees and at the end of 27 holes were still deadlocked, both going to the turn in brilliant 35's.

The cards:

Sarazen-Shute
Out .... 2 4 5 4 4 5 4 3 4—35

Undismayed by the fact that they were 3 down starting the afternoon round, Picard and Revolta went to work on Alliss and Burton and at the turn were only one down to the Britishers.

The cards:

Radioland Reflections

By N. F. T.

DEPENDING upon the present state of your domestic tranquility, ye men and women spouses seeking a spirited bit of dial diversion (WBZ) after dinner this evening, might wish to hear the "Husbands and Wives" half hour between 8 and 8:30 P. M.

It's to be based on the timely topic of vacationing, not only where and how to go, but treading dangerously a few steps further to debate the question of getting away from it all separately or together.

Advocates of both theories have been recruited to take turns and give reasons for desiring to do a "solo" this summer, or to "take off" on the annual jaunt in Hon-and-Dearie double harness. Another problem picked for taking apart is the also touchy one having to do with how wives should be expected to react in connection with continual playing of practical jokes by husbands possessing prank complexes.

"N. F. T."

FLEETING FLASHES

More than a few loudspeaker patrons are reporting muddled reception during much of the Don Ameche-Edgar Bergen-W. C. Fields hour last Sunday night.

It was what the broadcasters call "cross-talk" and caused by telephone lines getting tangled somewhere between the East and the West Coast.

All of the "Red Network" stations this side of Chicago were found to be experiencing it. It was not faulty transmitting locally, as many of the air audience assumed, and no other station was distorting the WNAC wave hereabouts.

How young Robert (Bob) Zupke failed to make a freshman football squad in 1902, but is now celebrating 24 years as gridiron coach at the University of Illinois, will provide the "It Can Be Done" theme for Edgar Guest this evening (WBZ) between 8:30 and 9 o'clock.

When you heard the "Ghost" approaching in the broadcasting of "Hamlet" by John Barrymore last week—if you thought the eerie wailing business nothing more or less than a musical saw being stroked, you were correct.

Ethel Waters, the brown skinned beauty, has her hotcha-hi-de-hoing to air as a guest with Ben Bernie tonight (WBZ) from 9 to 9:30 p. m.

THIS EAR—THAT AIR

Linus Travers, the Yankee Network program planner, phones to make known that Richard Wilke and Burton McMullen, the lads from Newton Highlands who rescued 12-year-old Edward Goffreda from drowning in the Charles River, will do some realistic drama for "Chateau [illegible]" (WNAC) between 7:30 and 8 o'clock this evening.

A rather elderly Chicago gentleman approached Jim [illegible] this week and asked him about the time "Fibber McGee and Molly" were starting at Rainbow Inn, out Chicago way, back in 1917. The stranger was in attendance at the premiere and recalled the four encores demanded by the night club patrons. Jim (Fibber) and Marian (Molly) Jordan remembered it very well.

Jolson is jacking up (WEEI) after his 8:30 to 9 o'clock airing tonight, taking leave until September 7. Harry (Parkyakarkus) Einstein and his lady, the former Thelma Leeds will look over Europe before then, London to be sure, and probably a glimpse of Greece, where Harry hears his dialect will be welcomed in many quarters.

PIANO PROTEGE

Never mind how old Jack Benny was when he could or couldn't play "The Bee" on his fiddle. It's a fact, with a printed program for proof, than eight-year-old Johnny Green, now a leading network maestro, played "Humoresque" on the ivories as THE feature of a gala Horace Mann school assembly program in New York—year 1918.

Some strenuous efforts are reported being put forth to get Joe (Champ) Louis signed on the line for guest artist "mike" appearances. To date, however, the "Brown Bomber" seems to prefer profound silence to voicing any talk about his pugilistic prowess.

Workaday stenogs, clerks and the like, had some laughs yesterday at noon when a "Town Crier" in full regalia, big bell and all, stepped from a taxi at various crowded down-town inter-sections, to start spieling loudly from a great scroll.

There could be no mistake he was selling something, but not until he concluded was it known he was whooping for "The Colonial Network" as the result of an idea originated by Al Stephenson, the resourceful WNAC-WAAB exploitation thinker-upper.

Good to report today is this word concerning Dick McDonough, well known and well liked sport student and broadcaster through these thickets. Gerry (Here's an item for you) Harrison hastened to ding-a-ling the trusty desk dingus early this morning to inform this department that Dick is donning radio raiment of the Yankee and Colonial Network.

This is a particularly glad tiding, because McDonough has been up against a mean measure of what we clever Americans call "tossing around" for a fellow having his all around abilities.

Best Bets Tonight

5:45 p. m.—WMEX—Uncle Newt reading the comic pages of the Boston Evening American.

7:15 p. m.—WEEI—Dr. Wang Chung Hui, China's foreign minister, speaking on "China Looks at the United States" from Nanking.

8:30 p. m.—WEEI—Al Jolson's farewell program, featuring "the [illegible] Story of the Race Track," and Martha Raye, Parkyakarkas, and Victor Young's Orchestra.

9:00 p. m.—WBZ—Ben Bernie program presenting Ethel Waters, Negro singing star, as guest star.

9:30 p. m.—WEEI—Benny Goodman's Swing School with Meyer Alexander's Swingtime Chorus.

9:30 p. m.—WNAC—Johnny Green's Orchestra with Trudy Wood, blues singer, Jimmy Blair, baritone, and Jane Rhodes, rhythm singer.

10:00 p. m.—WBZ—The "Other Americas," with Edward Tomlinson discussing the history of Paraguay and Uruguay; Julio Martinez, Ayanguran guitarist; and Joseph Littau's concert orchestra.

10:30 p. m.—WMEX—Voice of the Violin, with Richards Johns.

Get Steam Shovel And Start Anew

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

The fiscal year ends today, but don't let the treasury statement scare you. That's just the stick off the New Deal skyrocket.

Recovery is just as sure as Jonah kicking the whale from the inside. Neither one can miss.

In case of a tie we can borrow a steam-shovel and start life all over again at Fort Knox.

Have you noticed the congressional vote on the Supreme Court? Some of those administration senators ain't ready to celebrate Independence Day yet.

The agitation for more judges is based on the slogan about two heads being better than one. The fellow who said that didn't have to buy the hats.

BOSTON after DARK

Down in Providence on Saddy, Charlie McVarish, the ex-Hub newspaper scribe (he's now making up a Prov. sheet) finally got himself married, but nothing of what went on behind the scenes was carried in announcements the journals printed . . . Having tapped out yarns about other bridegrooms forgetting the ring, forgetting to get the license, forgetting where the church was, forgetting the date—and sometimes forgetting to show up—Charlie was bound he wouldn't do any of these things . . . But when he laid out the matrimonial garb (Fri nite) to hop into Saddy (like a fireman) he discovered he had no shirt studs for the fancy rig . . . He went over to the prospective daddy-in-law, Chris Dunn (ex-state comish of labor for R. I.) and Chris scratched around and didn't have any either—for himself or Charlie . . . Well, they figured that was okey, because who lives upstairs but Chris' brother-in-law, Frank Flynn, who mfrs. jewelry . . . It was pretty maddening when Frank hunted around and about and couldn't find a stud in the house—for himself, Chris or Charlie . . . "I'll hop over to the factory," sez Frank, however, "and pick up half a dozen sets" . . . So he hops over to the factory—but there wasn't a stud made up in the joint . . . With very little song in his heart and some virile words on his lips, Frank called the house and then sat down to turn out three sets of pearl studs, and he's pretty rusty . . . Somewhere in the wee hours he finished and shuffled home, muttering, "A Fine Romance" . . . The bride's a Prov. teacher, by name Louise Dunn, and the studs looked swell at the wedding—better than Frank . . .

GEORGE HOLLAND

Short Curfew for the Team:

Liaison had it that soon after ex-Gov. Curley and his lady return from the great open spaces, Bill Saxe, who's been the Curley publicity tub-thumper for several yrs., would find himself cut loose and would function no more . . . Now it seems the script gets itself re-written and the only change in the lineup comes when Al Pote (WMEX) is retained to handle all radio arrangements . . . Leo Curley has the pater's campaign while he's absent . . .

Nice People Corner:

If those lads (WPA sub-foremen) now putting a sawbuck touch on WPA workers skedded for layoffs, think they're not known, the suspicion must be that they're a bit wacky . . . The biters claim to represent foremen and higher-ups in WPA and promise the layoff will be sidestepped if the victim decorates the palm . . . One chap approached tried to see the mayor last week on it, but Mansfield was absent . . . Maybe this week, however . . .

Once Over Lightly:

Herman Bing of the rolling R's (now doing a p. a. at the Met.) played the role of Nelson Eddy's music teacher in the MGM "Maytime" flicker . . . But out of character it's quite the other way 'round . . . Eddy is Herman's voice tutor . . . Wm. L. Fernandez, the Brookline contractor (1124 W. Rox. Parkway) and his lady (she was Brookline's Ethlynne Nelson) welcomed an 11-lb. heir (Sun.) at Richardson House, Longwood ave. . . .

Are State House swivel-chair sitters beginning to resent activities of Gov's Councillor Gene Burnnett? . . . As Finance Committee chairman, he's using a fine-tooth comb and making his council post a full-time job in "correcting financial errors" . . . Without fanfare, the noted N. T. G. (Nils T. Granlund) wheeled up from Broadway and m. c.'d the Nat'l Biscuit show at the Statler . . . Hal Kemp and his band the main support . . .

Don Humbert's vocalizing (with his band) getting a play from the ladies on that 2:15 air-spot daily (WAAB) but he's instrument-drowned in his nite broadcast from Revere . . . Wonder, incidentally, how WAAB happened to leak into WNAC and smother the W. C. Fields fun-making Sun. nite . . . Wd. 21's Lawyer Louis Sobel candidate for city council . . . With the new miracle-face he was given in the Hub (after that crash) Airspeed Demon Frank Hawks just planed into Hollywood for work on a Columbia film serial . . .

Up-of-the-week is Gerson Nadell, ex-chief usher at the Allston Theater . . . He's been lifted to ass't mgr of Roxbury's Criterion, also an M. & P. house . . . Two short yrs. ago Madcap Martha Raye was at her wits' and purse ends being pushed around Broadway niteries . . . She couldn't get a job singing with bands . . . On July VII she starts a week of personal appearance at Manhattan's Paramount—at more money than she ever dreamed existed 24 mos. past . . .

Los Angeles' first archbishop, John J. Cantwell, has notified John Farrow, director, writer and husband of Maureen O'Sullivan, that he'll get a Papal knighthood from Rome (Knight of the Holy Sepulchre) because of his authorings on the Catholic Church . . . City Councillor John E. Kerrigan (S. Boston's Wd. 7) who's up for re-election, has the name of never failing to keep appointment with a constituent . . .

Tunes of the famed musical, "Irene," get a re-borning through a screen adaptation of the stage fun-piece for RKO-Radio . . . Harry Tierney, who did the original tunes (with Dorchester's Joe McCarthy) now working on the flicker . . . "Alice Blue Gown," "Castle of Dreams" and the title tune will be retained, with five new Tierney compositions added and Ginger Rogers starring . . . Haven't heard much about Joe lately . . .

Hub's ex-adman Harry Einstein (Parkyakarkas) and his bride, Thelma Leeds, have important parts in "New Faces of 1937," opening Fri. at Keith Memorial . . . They're under RKO Radio contracts for more . . . And 20th Century-Fox has lifted the option on a lad with a thrill name — Lon Chaney, Jr.

Elza Tamary In Screen Comeback

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor, Universal Service

Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service

Los Angeles, June 29—Interesting that with the mad rush on to discover foreign stars, one of Europe's well-known movie actresses has been located in Santa Barbara, less than 100 miles from Hollywood.

Her name is Elza Tamary and she is now the wife of Philip Chancellor, the socialite clock manufacturer. Mrs. Chancellor, who is red-haired, slender and, of course, beautiful, was discovered by an RKO talent scout and yesterday was brought to Hollywood and given a test for Pandro Berman.

Louella O. Parsons

The rich Mrs Chancellor's advantage over the other foreign importations is that she has lived in America three years, speaks English fluently and has made 30 pictures abroad, the last being Germany's version of "Rasputin" with Conrad Veidt.

As we foretold in this column many weeks ago, Zorina, beautiful Hungarian actress, arrived in New York yesterday and is coming here to be the femme piece de resistance in "Goldwyn Follies."

Victor McLaglen joins the army of famous stars who will travel abroad for an American film company. Vic goes to London the last of August for 20th Century-Fox to co-star with Gracie Fields in "The Diamond Rush," new title and different locale from the original story selected for England's highest paid movie star. I have no doubt London will get out the flags for Vic, who is British born and the son of an English bishop. Monty Banks leaves at the same time and William Goetz is already in England to get everything in readiness for the Fields' movie.

Chatter in Hollywood: How do you think Carole Lombard leaves the studio every evening? In a limousine with liveried chauffeur? No indeed. Clark Gable, who is working at M-G-M, only a block away from the Selznick studios, calls for her usually in a station wagon with guns, tents and other camping paraphernalia hanging out the back. But Carole doesn't mind. Life to her is a lot of laughs anyway. She and Freddie March spend all their free time on the "Nothing Sacred" set practicing with BB guns, so it's practically worth your life to visit that set.

A line or two: William Powell gets back in town today after a two-week yachting trip with Ronald Colman to the coast of Mexico. Bill who went completely to pieces at Jean Harlow's death and has been unable to work since, will report on the set of "Double Wedding" Wednesday . . . Wonder why in the world they changed that cute title on Sonja Henie's current picture from "Thin Ice," which is so appropriate for the little skating star, to "Lovely To Look At"? May be true—but it doesn't mean as much . . .

When Arthur Hornblow brought out the script of "The Light That Failed" there were all the original notes written in Rudyard Kipling's own handwriting that had been made at the time Hornblow took the first draft of the story to England. A week after the producer arrived back in this country, Kipling died—but his wishes and ideas on sets, characterizations and plot twists will be carried out in the present filming.

Snapshots of Hollywood

BEVERLY BAYNE, screen beauty of silent days and once married to FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN, now the bride of a Danish industrialist, CHARLES HVASS; MRS. MARIA MARTINEZ DE HOZ POTTER, divorced wife of Chicago's POTTER PALMER, is PEGGY FEARS' house guest. PEGGY leaves for London in September to do her monologue at Ciros; three dressmakers voluntarily sat up all night to make a new wedding gown for MARY PICKFORD after she was disappointed in the first creation; JEANNETTE MacDONALD and GENE RAYMOND feeding their first dinner guests spaghetti and chili (ruinous to the figure but delish).

The JACK BENNYS and AL JOLSONS sailing on the Rex July 17 for Italy. MARY and JACK at the PICKFORD reception, declaring if anyone in their party mentioned radio or movies it would mean a fine; JOHN McCORMACK, honor guest at the JOSEPH CAWTHORNES, delighting all of us with his amusing stories of opera and theatrical folk; DOLORES COSTELLO BARRYMORE, lovely in her picture hat and summer frock, completely surrounded by admirers; GRACE GEORGE greeting friends among the theater folk who assembled in the Cawthorne gardens. That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

FACE WAR DANGERS

Olympe Bradna seeks protection in the strong arms of Lew Ayres in the above scene from "Last Train from Madrid," stirring war film which will open at the Fenway and the Paramount on Thursday.

Home Films Are Hit

Three news pictures recently distributed are the answer to how to be a stay-at-home and a movie-fan at the same time.

The films, for use by home, school and club owners of 16mm and 8mm projectors, are on the life of the Duke of Windsor, the Hindenburg disaster and the recent coronation.

To Eugene W. Castle, for 20 years an active factor in educational and business pictures, goes credit for this pioneering in devising more frequent use from home projectors. It was he who edited and distributed a professional picture of the Hindenburg explosion that appeared in stores throughout the country within a week of that spectacular disaster. Not long after, there appeared from the same source sound and silent films of England's coronation.

Thus it came about that his third news picture just released on the life of former King Edward was issued as a special edition of News Parade.

It is Mr. Castle's belief that as the number of small projectors owned in homes and schools has grown to hundreds of thousands, the need has grown for suitable pictures to show with them.

To test this theory, he said, he planned to release a specially edited film of England's coronation. Less than a week before that event, the Hindenburg exploded. Over night, it was decided to make a double test and a picture of that spectacle, especially edited for home movie use, was rushed out.

The response to these two experimental pictures, according to Castle, has been so overwhelming that his organization is now planning to provide home movie enthusiasts with pictures of similar interest at regular intervals, probably twice a month. These will be released as the News Parade.

War Drama Tops Bills

"The Last Train from Madrid," a love drama of present Spanish war-days, will be the feature attraction at the Paramount and Fenway theaters beginning Thursday.

Dorothy Lamour, Lew Ayres, Gilbert Roland and Lee Bowman are the principal players in this mighty drama of men and women trapped in a city and subjected to death from the sky. The most interesting part of the story centers when they all attempt to escape on the last train permitted to leave the Spanish capital for Valencia.

Lew Ayres plays the role of an American newspaperman to perfection, while Olympe Bradna, a new-found star, plays the role of a Spanish senorita.

The other film billed for the twin theaters is "Hotel Haywire," hilarious comedy hit with Leo Carrillo, Lynne Overman and Mary Carlisle playing the leading roles.

Mary Young To Reopen Theater

Rehearsals are in progress for "All's Fair," J. H. Morris' delightful comedy co-starring Dorothy Stone and Charles Collins, which is to have its world premiere Friday evening at the Mary Young Theater in Centerville on Cape Cod.

The Mary Young Theater, under the supervising directorship of Mary Young and the management of John Craig, II, initiates its second season with this important opening.

Miss Stone and Collins will be supported by a cast including Jane Barnes, M-G-M starlet; Eric Kalkhurst, Carol Fay, Milton Parsons and William Lawson. E. Stanley Pratt, well-known Broadway director and drama authority, is directing.

Naturally, with the Stone-Collins dance team prominently featured in it, the script of "All's Fair" calls for several dance routines. Since the closing of their last Broadway appearance several weeks ago, the popular couple have worked constantly on new numbers and their beautifully mated stepping is the marvel of other members of the cast.

Travelogue Film At South Station

The South Station Theater is featuring an E. M. Newman travelogue titled, "Peiping, China," an added feature on the regular bill which includes "Travel to New Zealand," "Mickey Mouse," and Clyde "Sugar Blues" McCoy and orchestra.

Two Comedy Films On Olympia Bill

The Washington Street Olympia bills two comedy hits starting tomorrow, "A Family Affair," starring Lionel Barrymore, Cecilia Parker and Eric Linden, and "Turn Off the Moon," the successful musical comedy hit with Eleanore Whitney and Charlie Ruggles.

At the Uptown

"Turn Off the Moon," starring Charles Ruggles and Eleanor Whitney, is the feature attraction at the Uptown this week.

"The Go Getter," with George Brent, Anita Louise, Charles Winninger, John Eldredge and Henry O'Neill in the chief roles, shares feature honors on this program.

Nino Martini Plans Rest

It will be 1938 before music lovers again will hear from the stage or over the air the golden voice of Nino Martini, Metropolitan opera tenor and world famous singer. His voice will come to them only from his current RKO radio picture, "Music for Madame." When that is finished, he will take complete leave of absence for six months from opera, films, radio and concert work.

"I'm just sung out," he explained. "During the past season, the hardest of my career, I sang in four Metropolitan operas, in 48 concert performances and made 29 radio appearances. I feel I deserve a vacation, and I will not sing another note until next year."

GAY STAR

Estelle Harper, who is one of the stars of "Broadway Bandwagon," the current stage production at the New Gayety.

Summer Theater To Reopen

The Theater-by-the-sea, at Matunuck, R. I., will begin its third season tonite with a revival of Rachel Crothers' "As Husbands Go." The players include Sylvia Field, Zamah Cunningham, Russell Collins, John Hoysradt and George Macready. The play has been staged by Halsted Welles, and the settings have been designed by Johannes Larsen.

"Scooping" the Nation

IN motion pictures the newspaper always traps the bad man or gangster and presents him to the police and district attorney.

Theater-goers supposed that was a bit of Hollywood "reelism." They did not think it could happen in real life.

Theater-goers were wrong. It not only could happen. IT DOES HAPPEN.

The Chicago Herald and Examiner, a Hearst newspaper, "scooping" the entire country, proves it.

With enterprise worthy of the best "star reporter" that ever flickered upon a silver screen, that brilliant newspaper found Robert Irwin, obtained his story and then:

GAVE BOTH SLAYER AND CONFESSION TO THE POLICE!

No third-degree methods there. No "pipe dreams," no guesses, no imagination run wild. No promises, no concessions, no compromising with justice.

The police heard the grim account of the fiendish murders of Model "Ronnie" Gedeon, her mother and a boarder from Irwin's own lips.

But they heard it first from the columns of the Herald and Examiner and the other Hearst newspapers!

Public service its goal and purpose, the real newspaper is never content merely to report the news.

The real newspaper gets the scent, follows the trail and finds the man.

Let Him Stay at Home

THE New England Council, planning its annual November session, invites Britain's retired prime minister, now Lord Baldwin, to come here and deliver an address.

Much as we admire the Council and its work, we find ourselves unable to wax enthusiastic over the proposed importation of Stanley Baldwin.

During the King Edward-Wallis Simpson controversy there was a strong suspicion that much of the Baldwin opposition to the royal nuptials resulted from the fact that the bride-to-be was AN AMERICAN.

The premier might have felt differently, many believed, had Mrs. Simpson been a Canadian, a South African, an Australian or a subject in any part of the British Empire.

Also—and this is important—the Baldwin government was notorious because of its do-nothing attitude toward the horrible conditions existing in the Welsh mining districts. Even the harsh rebuke of former King Edward failed to move Lord Stanley to action.

We in America are spending billions for the relief of the needy and oppressed. We are united in our efforts to bring opportunity and happiness to the jobless and hopeless.

So, in view of that, would it not be rather poor judgment to bring to Boston a man who was able to remain stone-blind to the plight of the poorest of the poor, but who managed very successfully to have HIMSELF elevated to a lordship?

The Doorway to Aviation

IF you failed to see the Junior Birdmen's New England tournament at Franklin Field yesterday, you missed one of the most enjoyable events of the season.

More than 200 boys and girls flying home-made model planes that stayed in the air and actually flew. Army and Navy craft poised overhead, dipping their wings in salute. It was a truly inspirational sight.

Parents who were unable to attend this tournament ought never to miss those that will follow. And, in the meantime, they should interest their sons and daughters in the Junior Birdmen's activities.

Here, promising clean, healthy and educational recreation, is the DOORWAY TO AVIATION, destined some day to be America's biggest industry, providing employment for millions.

The bright, wide-awake youngster of today doesn't fly the kite his father and mother did. He builds a plane and sends it into the sky.

And, though he may not realize it now, he builds also the dreams that will become realities in the years that lie before him.

Yes, He Means Business

WE agree with Registrar Frank A. Goodwin; his highway safety campaign is showing results. Statistics prove it.

Last week automobiles killed nine persons in Massachusetts. Nine TOO MANY, of course. But during the corresponding period a year ago, they killed NINETEEN.

Also, the nine deaths were the fewest of any fourth week in June for fifteen years!

That surely is progress.

Apparently, motorists are waking up to the fact that they will either drive safely or NOT AT ALL.

Among those waking up are the 167 who thought they could mix alcohol and gasoline. They are doing no more mixing. Saturday Mr. Goodwin put them off the road, several permanently.

Clearly he means business. Some learn it to their grief; others to their satisfaction.

All Eyes on the Jamboree

BOYS of New England, as do boys of all America, look to Washington. There, the National Boy Scout Jamboree begins tomorrow.

President Roosevelt will review this happy army of 25,000 representative young Americans.

He will be impressed, we are sure, by the fact that EVERY boy in that vast assemblage will have PAID HIS OWN WAY to get there.

The cost of attending the jamboree is TWENTY-FIVE SELF-EARNED DOLLARS.

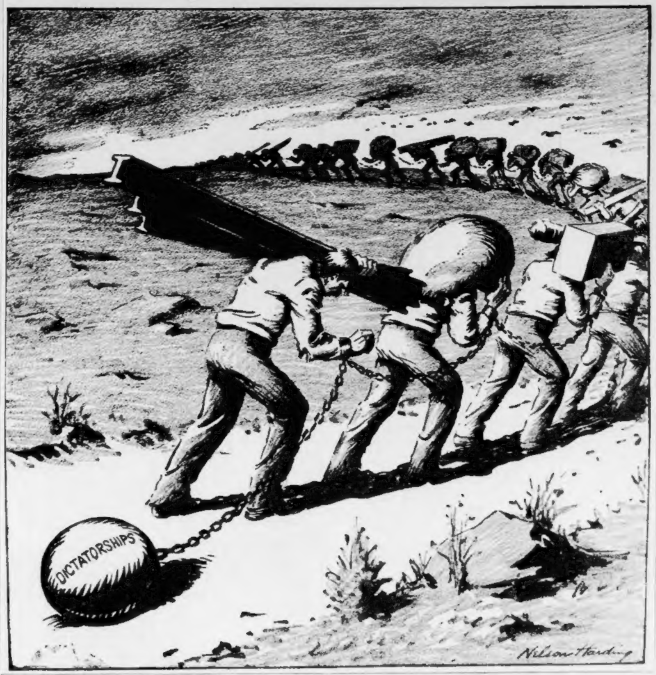
That is the type of AMERICAN BOYHOOD being developed by the Boy Scouts of America.

It gives the nation an insight into the type of SELF-RELIANT CITIZENSHIP being guaranteed for the future by this splendid organization.

The Chain Gang

By Nelson Harding



New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

O. O. McIntyre

New York, June 29—John C. Wilson not many years ago was one of Wall Street's fashionably attired customer's men. The sort who went to the office decorated with a lapel flower. In the later afternoon he was a popular cocktail party guest, young, handsome and a bachelor.

His greatest hero was Noel Coward, just then triumphant as the star in his own play, "The Vortex." Wilson so impressed Coward with enthusiasm and admiration for his work that he became the young Englishman's adviser, manager and closest friend.

In Coward's biography there is a full page picture and many references to "Jack." Coward submits all his plays and written articles to him first and makes no production plans without his approval. All of which is a prelude to Wilson appearing in another role.

When Coward's play of short skits closed recently, Wilson decided that between Coward productions he would produce a play called "Excursion." He did, after others had turned it down, and it has proved one of the four major successes of a rather thin theatrical season.

Paul Gerard Smith, one of the west coast's observing litterateurs, finds two of the most interesting conversationalists he knows are extremely hard of hearing. He refers to Idwal Jones, gentle essayist and lovable San Francisco historian, recently roped by the Hollywood studios.

In soft voice with gestures arriving just a bit too late, I have been privileged to hear him talk in a gathering of intimate friends, telling the quaintest of stories with the deftest touches.

The other Smith names is the equally lovable Walt Mason, Emporia, Kansas, poet now living at La Jolla.

Oddly, it is not difficult to exchange views with Mason, for somehow, although he can't hear, he knows what one is trying to convey.

Then, of course, there is Rupert Hughes, who never fails to dominate discussion at a dinner party because he is chuck full of interesting things to say and knows how to say them.

This has been a tremendous era in the emancipation of women, with so many flowering into higher income brackets. Among the playwrights Clare Booth and Lillian Hellman have shown women can write smashing box office hits. Elizabeth Arden and Dorothy Gray have plucked millions out of the cosmetic business and the tea room field has such expert directresses as Theresa Worthington Grant, Alice Foote MacDougal and Elizabeth Reynolds.

Three department stores have stylists whose salaries are above $50,000 a year.

Strangely, there is one artistic field in which women have made little progress, although for many reasons they should. That is in conducting dance orchestras. London has two women who are outstanding and Vienna has several. The Spitalney orchestra is all feminine, but conducted by a man.

The shadow of death hangs heavily over what many believe is New York's most aristocratic block. It is known as Observation Hill and lays serenely on East 93d street between Park and Madson avenues, filled with massive residences with huge grilled doors and facades grooved in grandeur. Several have brick walled gardens in French fashion and the occupants are the creme de la creme of the social brew. Folk with yachts, Long Island estates, town houses in London and chateaux in France.

Among Will H. Hays' pictures of celebrities autographed personally to him are those of ex-King Alfonso and Premier Mussolini. No handwritings I have ever seen so markedly portray the popular opinions of the two men. Alfonso's is a weak, vacillating and roundishly cramped schoolboy scrawl that might have been written by a 15-year-old at boarding school.

But Il Duce's has vim, dash and sweeps with compellingly bold strokes as though to say, "I am master of my Fate." He signs himself merely Mussolini.

Recently I was privileged to see a thank-you note from the Duke of Windsor to an American friend. Somehow it had a royal touch, big, commanding. He started it off, "Dear Old Fellow," and ended, "I hope you are as happy as I—Windsor."

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Elsie Robinson

The youngsters are riled!

Here they come, busting and beaming out of high school and college, chockfull of the latest information and primed for red-hot arguments with Mom and Dad. Only to find that they're just about as welcome as a dose of castor oil.

Which, after all, isn't so surprising. Hitherto, the old folks have been riding high and winning all the medals as ultimate authorities, although knowing practically nothing about the status quo of their fellow man.

And now along come these young people—and show them up! Naturally, Mom and Dad are feeling plenty peeved.

"High school boys discussing labor laws, sitdown strikes!" roars Dad.

"Youngsters trying to explain the Minimum Wage and Social Security Act to me, their own father! Outrageous! Never heard of such tommyrot.

HASN'T TIME

"Yes—maybe I don't know the last-minute particulars about some of these things. But what of it? Haven't I got enough to do, with business the way it is, without trying to run the country?

"Besides, most of these newfangled ideas are just nonsense, anyway. Nobody ever heard of such goings-on when I was a kid. And sensible folks are wasting their time worrying about 'em now.

"It's those hot air artists down at Washington, stirring up trouble. And now it's spread to the schools! A lot of fool teachers putting radical notions into the youngsters' heads; then sending them home to sass their own parents!

"There oughtta be a law against it! No wonder the country's going to the dogs!"

Mom takes it even harder. Gets all mottled and teary. Child Labor Laws?

BAFFLES HER

Why on earth should she be expected to know about things like that? Hasn't she enough to do, slaving her feet off 14 hours a day, without taking up politics? They're trying to make a fool of her, that's what they are! And is Dad going to sit there and let her be insulted by her own children without raising a hand? That's gratitude for you!

That's all the thanks you get for sacrificing the best years of your life!

BRAINS SLUMBER

Whereupon Junior and Sis, no longer able to restrain their indignation, grab their fountain pens.

"Isn't it the limit?" they snort. "Sure, we love them, but is that any reason why they've gotta be so dumb? Why, they couldn't answer a quarter of the questions we have in our Current Events Class!

"And the worst of it is, they're not even ashamed of it. Look how they act when we try to help them snap out of it! You'd think we'd committed a crime. Wouldn't it burn you?"

It would—and does! Just why parents should be granted special permits to be boneheads has always been a mystery to me. Yet, they are.

Today, though we are in the midst of the greatest industrial conflict in human history, the average parent has less interest in and knowledge of what's happening in his world than a 14-year-old schoolboy from England, Germany or France.

We equip our homes with every modern mechanical marvel . . . but our brains still sit around in curl papers.

AS A MATTER OF FACT, OUR GREATEST NATIONAL MENACE IS NOT THE MALICE OF ANY FOREIGN FOE OR THE VIOLENCE OF ANY IMPORTED RADICAL, BUT THE COLOSSAL AND COMPLACENT IGNORANCE OF THE AVERAGE ADULT AMERICAN!

Dear Maddam:

My Neibor is a small buziness man, his buziness is so small you can hardly see him. But I seen him on his front stoop last night, and he wants me to ast you some questions about what will hapen when the new-fangled NRA begins.

1—If a man's Hours of Labor is now at Zero, what good does Minnimum Wages do him? That is what 10 million un-employed folks would like to know.

2. If a man eats a banana in Kansas City, Kansas, and he walks acrost the bridge to Kansas City, Missouri, is the banana peddlar guilty of Inter-state Comerce? If so, what is the Minnimum number of bananas he can sell per day for how much?

3. If a burglar works 6 hours and dont finish his burgling job, can he pay himself time-and-a-half overtime, or will he have to break in the next nite to finish his burgling?

4. If $16 per week is the minnimum wages for a left-handed plumber that was born in Georgia but moved to Illinois with a wife that gambles, a mother-in-law and 6 kids, will the Govt let him work ½ hour overtime, when he needs extra money to get drunk and forget his troubles?

5. If the President can make every-body prosperous with a 40-hour week, wouldn't we be twice as prosperous with a 20-hour week, and 4 times as prosperous if nobody done anything at all?

6—If the Govt is going to run million's of People's hours & wages, won't they have to hire so many people to run people that there won't be nobody left to do the work?

Yure's truely,
WINSTON NORMAN.

New Homes for Negroes

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

Edwin C. Hill

We have, here on the right, Uncle Tom's cabin, with electric refrigeration, hot and cold water, tiled bathrooms, cross-ventilation, automatic oil heat, a garden and wading pools for the pickaninnies! And a lovely tiled court for a hoedown when the banjos are ringing in front of that old bronze cabin door.

Uncle Sam turns over to New York City the $4,219,000 Federal housing project for Negroes in Harlem.

Far better housing than Simon Legree ever dreamed of goes to the black folk for a rental of $7 per room. Fifty-five per cent of the cost will be repaid over a period of 60 years. The remaining $2,000,000 or so will be written off. The project will house 574 families, carefully selected from 12,000 applicants on the basis of need, responsibility and dependable income. Assurances are given that political pull was eliminated in making the selection.

A BIG CHALLENGE

That number of fortunate families is pitifully small in Harlem's overcrowded population of somewhere around 275,000 Negroes. Building the model house is just the beginning in endeavors of this kind. In many previous instances, it has been found that the houses soon are occupied by higher income groups than those for which they are intended.

England, which has gone much more extensively into slum reclamation and model housing than we, still experiments, still finds a low-income sub-stratum beyond the reach of these beneficent plans. It was, I believe, Cardinal Newman who said, "We live by symbols."

There is here, indeed, an arresting symbol of possibly magnificent achievement, an interesting demonstration of what we may hope to accomplish with an eventual rational organization of the magical energies and techniques over which we gained dominion in the decades after we freed the slaves.

One horsepower of electric energy—and we still have something like 30,000,000 horsepower of hydro-electric energy still undeveloped in America—gives us the manpower equivalent of eight of those black slaves who toiled in the cotton fields and lived in damp, wretched shacks, with crumbling chimneys.

It wouldn't be a bad idea to stack one of these mouldy old swamp cabins up against this Harlem palace of tile and polychrome, just to foreshadow what may be when we really learn properly to use our new slaves of the power age.

Negroes in the big cities have been crowded into sleazy, unsanitary, old draggle-tail houses, unfit for human living. Surely we owe them at least this declaration of good intent in the faltering beginning of proper housing which the Harlem project represents.

A recently published book by Robert Allison Parker, "Father Divine, the Incredible Messiah," is not only an excellent account of the strange little fanatical messiah, but an equally fine appraisal of the inducement to psychic and social distortion provided by Harlem's black slums. I quote from Mr. Parker:

"A majority of the residential structures of Harlem date from the last decades of the nineteenth century. A large number were constructed with no reference to the present occupants' enforced mode of life.

"Many are 'old law' tenements, condemned by the building regulations of 1901. Many contain dark, windowless, airless rooms, notorious as firetraps and breeders of disease. In many there are no baths, or at best defective plumbing. Many are unheated, 'cold water' flats.

PITIFUL CONDITIONS

"Although they receive an estimated 17 per cent lower wages than whites, Negroes are forced to pay at least 20 per cent higher rentals. Researches of the New York Housing Authority demonstrate that Negro tenants of Harlem must pay relatively higher rentals than prevail in any other section of the metropolis.

"To meet the high rentals, many have resorted to taking in lodgers, a solution which has resulted in appalling overcrowding.

"For the questionable privilege of being permitted to dwell in abominable squalor, between warped and peeling walls infested with vermin, most of Harlem's population is forced to surrender an outrageous proportion of its meagre income.

"The landlords serenely disregard complaints and tenement regulations alike. Protests against filthy, defective toilets in the outer halls, against weakening staircases, against fire risks, are met with indifference, or counterclaims that the tenants themselves are to blame for the filth and squalor.

"And Harlem has no defense; for only in rare instances are Negroes permitted to live outside the strictly segregated districts; and the rentals are based on the age-old principle, 'all that the traffic can bear.'"

Such is the background against which rises the first model tenement in Harlem, the beauty, space, air, light and convenience of the new housing heightened in this setting. But why all these palatial fixings? Why not start in easy, with smaller houses and simpler appointments?

Housing experts have had many headaches figuring this. Land values govern all big-city housing plans. If the project is to pay out at all, it must be big, and the luxuries of light, air and space do not add greatly to the expense in such large-scale development.

Then, again, people live up to attractive surroundings. The "coal in the bathtub" cliche, with which cynical persons have dismissed the whole idea of decent housing, isn't the whole story.

MAKE A START!

At any rate, there seems to be no half-way station between the old red-brick, unsanitary, antmill tenements and this new Negro dwelling—better housing than that enjoyed by the richest Southern planter, back in the slave days.

To repeat, this is only a beginning. As to the problems of taxation and land values involved, the shade of Henry George surely is eager and interested in all this, if it is anywhere around. In "Progress and Poverty," he bequeathed the world a nut it never cracked.

On the Nail

By Benjamin DeCasseres

Mrs. Elizabeth Donahue, an 80-year-old widow of Tuckahoe, N. Y., like Job, was "upright and eschewed evil."

She was on relief when she was informed that she had been left $3000 by her sister. Mrs. Donahue immediately informed the relief authorities, being overjoyed at the thought of living independent of public charity.

But the law, in the shape of the Commissioner of Public Welfare, sued and recovered from Mrs. Donahue $2382, the sum the latter had been given in relief payments since 1931.

Now this honest woman, who might have shoved the $3000 under the mattress, or quietly bought some baby bonds with it, must again go on relief.

Sir Edward Coke said "Reason is the life of the law." But as far as Mrs. Donahue's case is concerned, Mr. Bumble in "Oliver Twist" came nearer to defining it correctly when he said:

"The law is an ass, an idiot."

The talk about a third term for President Roosevelt recalls that only one man was actually nominated and ran three times for President—Grover Cleveland.

Although Cleveland warned the country of the dangers of a SECOND TERM when he was elected in 1884, he ran again in 1888, was defeated, and ran again in 1892 and was elected.

General Grant tried for a third nomination in the Republican convention of 1880, but was set aside for a dark horse, Garfield.

Theodore Roosevelt, although he wanted a third term, was nominated for President only twice, in 1904 and in 1912, at the latter date by a "Bull Moose" bolting convention.

A peculiar characteristic of the American people is their strict observance of UNWRITTEN LAWS and the ease with which they sometimes flout the written law, the Eighteenth Amendment, for instance.

Presidential third terms is one of our most deeply rooted prejudices. Washington and Jefferson said no to that danger. The warning implied in their refusals should arm us today against this menace—the vestibule to DICTATORSHIP.

Holland, which the world has always saluted as the "Asylum of the Oppressed" and a paradise of free speech for philosophers in the 16th and 17th centuries, is not above wielding the Fascist big-stick so far away from home that she thinks no one will notice it.

The Volksrad, the native popular assembly of Java, a Dutch colony in the East Indies with a population of 60,000,000 and an area of one-fourth that of the United States, is demanding that the liberties of the people be restored.

In 1933 the Dutch government met the financial and industrial crisis in the islands by censoring the press, prohibiting free speech and socializing all means of transportation and communication.

Now Java, with its resources of rubber, sugar, oil, petroleum and tin, is on its brown legs again and demands its freedom, even asking for "dominion status."

But Holland has so far been deaf to the petitions of the Javanese. She forgets the time when the Spaniards, under the Duke of Alva, had the Netherlands under their heel and set up the famous "Council of Blood," which put so many Dutchmen to death.
